Grand Jury Dismisses Charges In Marinwood

BOIIIIIING! GOES 'ATOMIC' CHAIN REACTION

A dozen selected Davidson Junior High School students each Thursday after regular school hours receive special instruction in solar energy, atomic structure, nuclear fission and radiation from San Rafael scientists employed at California Research Corp. in Richmond. Here, at yesterday's session, instructor R. J. Houston tosses table tennis ball into mouse trap to start chain-reaction of mouse traps tripping and sending similar balls flying into air —a version of what happens when an atom is split.

Letter Backs Center Plan In Marinwood

Marinwood residents received another circular this week touting the advantages of the proposed community center which will be voted on Tuesday.

A three-page letter from the Citizens Committee for the Marinwood Parks asks for approval of the $438,000 bond issues and states that the average Marinwood homeowner would pay less than $19 a year in additional taxes if both issues were approved.

'TRUTH'

"If someone else gives you some sky-high figure to frighten you," the letter states, "ask him to spell out where these numbers are wrong. Then call the county tax collector and see who told you the truth."

Two propositions will appear on Tuesday's ballot in Marinwood. One asks $356,000 in bonds for a firehouse and recreation center. The other asks $82,000 in bonds for a swimming pool at the center.

The committee in favor of the bond issues declares in its letter that opponents of the bonds are using the charge of inadequate fire protection in Marinwood merely as a device to defeat the bonds:

EXCITED

"In the past few months a group of Marinwood citizens has made innumerable charges and accusations against the board of directors of the community services district. Most of these are based on the resignation of our former fire chief.

"This group of citizens is the identical group which led the opposition to the last bond election, and will presumably lead the opposition to this one. Make your own guess why they so suddenly have gotten so excited about saving us all from fires."

OPPONENT OF BOND ISSUES CAN'T VOTE

J. Warnock Walsh Jr., most outspoken opponent of Marinwood's proposed bond issues for a community center, will not vote against the bonds at Tuesday's election.

Walsh will not vote at all.

A check of late registrations for the election revealed today that Walsh, who lives at 221 Emerystone Terrace, did not register in time to vote next Tuesday.

An active spokesman for the Marinwood Citizens Committee, Walsh has loudly criticized the community services district board.

No Evidence Is Seen Of Improper Conduct

The Marin County Grand Jury last night dismissed charges of improper conduct against the Marinwood Community Services District board.

"The evidence presented in the matter of the Marinwood Community Services District does not warrant grand jury action," said the jurors in a statement released by Irving Chapman, foreman.

Meanwhile, as Marinwood residents prepared to go to the polls next Tuesday to decide the fate of community services district bond issues proposed for a community center-firehouse and a swimming pool:

1. Gerald P. Hoytt of Hoytt Enterprises, owner of the 10-acre site proposed for the community center, said the land will be developed for other uses if the bond issue fails to pass.

2. The community services district board put into writing a "mutual aid agreement" with the county fire department—an agreement which Asst. County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom pointed out today is unnecessary because the county department must respond to requests for aid anywhere in Marin.

3. Oral examination of applicants for Marinwood fire chief was set by the community services district board for Feb. 23. The district has been operating with an acting chief since Donald G. Ray resigned under fire last month.

ASKED PROBE

Mrs. James A. Rowan, a Marinwood resident, had asked for grand jury investigation of the community services district, charging that a district director served for several months before taking the oath of office, that bidding procedures were circumvented, that board minutes were altered, and that "informal" meetings were held without proper notice.

The grand jury last night heard Mrs. Rowen and Howard Council, CSD president, then decided to dismiss the matter.

RETURNED TO MEETING

The CSD board, at a meeting which Council opened and to which he returned after testifying before the grand jury, approved by 4-1 vote a written agreement with the county specifying that the county fire department would be called when "in the judgment of the on-duty fireman" its assistance was needed.

The dissent was by director Glenn D. Tobias, who wanted

Lawyers Stage Temper Show At Dope Trial

By WAT TAKESHITA

Tempers flared again this morning in the San Quentin dope-smuggling case, as five attorneys lashed out against each other for alleged name-calling.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori clamped down and halted what might have turned into another uproar of the type that occurred exactly three weeks ago today.

Jurors were kept out of the courtroom for about an hour this morning as prosecutor Bruce B. Bales and the four defense lawyers tangled over motions for mistrial and Bales' allegation that attorney Frank Duncan had used profanity against him three weeks ago.

TO DEFENSE

Duncan's wife, attractive attorney Elinor Chandler, jumped to the defense of her husband.

Miss Chandler reminded the judge that the uproar three weeks ago had occurred in the judge's chambers and in her presence. "I have never heard Mr. Duncan use any profanity in my presence," she declared.

Duncan rose to his own defense so vociferously that fellow defense lawyer Peter Allen Smith rushed to his side to calm him.

DOPE PRICE?

Shortly after 11 a.m. the jurors filed in, and prosecutor Bales began questioning state narcotic agent Major McBee. When Bales asked McBee about prevailing marijuana prices in California, McBee hesitated, indicating he could not give an exact answer.

Attorney Duncan rose with

HULEN DORRIS STOGNER
Shot to death in Congo

Blonde Quizzed In Death Of U.S. Officer

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — The pretty blonde secretary of Lt. Col. Hulen Dorris Stogner was questioned for two hours today about his mysterious slaying Wednesday night and asked not to leave The Congo for the time being.

Miss Elizabeth Thring, 22, of Arlington, Va., was told she might be needed for further questioning in the killing of Stogner, who was assistant U.S. military attache in Leopoldville.

COOK QUESTIONED

Congolese police authorities also interrogated Stogner's native cook and his night watchman. They continued to question the locally hired chauffeur of Col. Ben Matlick, the U.S. air attache.

But no arrests had been made by late today.

Stogner was shot through the neck while in bed at his suburban village late Wednesday night. He died an hour and a half later in a hospital.

CALLED FOR HELP

U.S. Charge D'Affaires G. MacMurtrie Godley said Miss Thring was seated on a chair in Stogner's room when he was shot. It was she who summoned help.

The embassy said Miss Thring was Stogner's private secretary. She was hired by him personally, and was not on the U.S. government payroll.

Earlier, Robert Behrens, U.S. Information Service Chief here, had said an arrest was imminent in the case.

Behrens made the statement shortly after it was learned that three detectives had gone to Stogner's home.

Storm's Gone -But Another On The Way

The week-long storm which poured almost 18 inches of rain on parts of Marin County blew itself out late yesterday with a spectacular show of lightning, thunder and hail.

But the weatherman looked at clearing skies today and predicted another in the series of storms, now heading toward the coast from the Pacific, would probably hit Marin tomorrow. He predicted occasional showers tonight.

Subsiding rains during the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today drizzled .68 of an inch on the Chevy Chase district of Larkspur, the highest reported rainfall in the county.

FLOODING

Flood waters which covered Kentfield's Granton Park for past two days subsided during the night, leaving residents the sloppy task of mucking mud out of their garages, front yards and walkways.

The College of Marin football field, scene of a water carnival complete with speedboats and aquaplanes two days ago, was still inundated but not deep enough for water sports.

The shoulder of South Novato Boulevard caved in between Arthur and Adele streets. The seven-foot hole had apparently quit collapsing this morning but additional rains could endanger the street, said Charles Joseph, Novato public works director.

SLIDES

Public works departments elsewhere in the county reported no serious trouble, all roads open and sewers—many of which backed up during the worst of the storm—cleared.

Scattered reports of flooded basements in the aftermath of the downpours came from throughout the county.

In Woodacre firemen reported a falling tree limb forced power lines down on Redwood Drive, but Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and Pacific Telephone

Troops Rush To Riot-Torn British Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Anti-government demonstrators broke through a riot squad guarding the Parliament building today as Britain rushed troops to this South American colony to help keep order.

Opposition leaders Forbes Burnham and Peter D'Aguiar defied a government ban on processions and led 2,000 of their supporters in a slogan-bearing march on the legislature.

The demonstration was mounted as news reached here that British troops are being flown in from Britain and Jamaica to help maintain order in this strike-bound city.

They are being sent at the request of leftist Premier Cheddi Jagan whose tough budget plans caused the opposition to call a general strike last Monday.

Allies Defy Russ Air Threats

BERLIN (UPI) — Western planes defied the Russians and flew the air corridors to Berlin without interference today despite a new Soviet demand for exclusive use of one lane for their own aircraft.

The Russians attempted to bar Western aircraft from low altitude flights in the Berlin-to-Hamburg air corridor, despite a Western Allied protest to Moscow against such attempts. The Soviets did not seek to enforce the ban with harassing flights of Soviet Mig jets as they did earlier this week.

A Russian embassy spokesman served notice, however, that the harassing Russian flights would continue.

The Western Allies ignored the Russians today as they have five times previously in the last nine days and sent their aircraft through the three vital corridors to and from Berlin. They specifically defied the Russians in the Hamburg corridor.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Quads Are 14

Flood-Battered Idaho

Gov. Robert E. Smylie toured flood areas yesterday and estimated the damage at more than 15 million dollars in a 16-county area. "It is certainly Idaho's most expensive natural disaster in modern history," he said.

Admits Death Fire

CHICAGO (UPI)—A 13-year-old boy admitted setting a school fire which killed 95 persons when told there were "92 children and three nuns sitting in heaven watching you," a private lie detector expert testified.

The expert, John E. Reid, head of John E. Reid and Associates, appeared as a witness yesterday at a delinquency hearing before family court Judge Alfred J. Cilella.

Reid said the Cicero, Ill., youth gave him an eight-page statement admitting he set the Dec. 1, 1958, Our Lady of the Angels School fire following a lie detector examination Jan. 12.

Missile Failures

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Maj. Gen Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Air Force Systems Command, said last night an "amazing number" of U.S. missile failures stemmed from malfunction of small "nickel and dime" parts.

Schriever, addressing a banquet meeting of the Strategic Industries Assn., said the Air Force looks to small business firms to increase the reliability of parts and also to supply new and imaginative ideas in defense production.

India Is Voting

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indians began voting today for a new Parliament and new state legislatures in the world's biggest demonstration of democratic elections. There are 210 million voters on the electoral rolls.

Production Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. industrial production declined slightly last month from the record level of December. Figures issued yesterday by the government indicated that the business recovery hesitated in January.

Terror In Paris

PARIS (UPI)—A plastic bomb exploded in a parked automobile in the heart of Paris today, gravely wounding the driver. Police said it may have been a new terrorist blow by the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS).

It was the first time a booby-trap has gone off in a car in Paris, although such incidents have been common in Algeria.

No Vote Recount

DETROIT (UPI) — Republican Robert E. Waldron, who was defeated in a special election for Michigan's 14th district congressional seat Tuesday, said yesterday he probably would not seek a recount.

Democratic State Sen. Harold M. Ryan won the closely fought election by 767 votes, the official canvass indicated.

Mrs. Crosby Improves

BURBANK (AP) — Barbara Diane Crosby has recovered full consciousness for the first time she was rushed to a hospital Sunday, her doctor reports.

Dr. Abner Moss said the wife of Lindsay Crosby, crooner Bing's son, is "substantially improved," and returning to normay. Further tests to determine the nature of her illness are planned.

Mrs. Crosby, 23, expects her second child in June.

More Storms, Snow

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

More wet and stormy weather hit wide sections of the nation today.

Snow and sleet spread across areas in the Midwest and West. More rain doused water-soaked, muddy sections of Southern California. And severe thunderstorms rumbled across areas in the Southeast in the wake of tornadoes which skipped across parts of Mississippi and Louisiana.

14th Atom Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission has touched off another underground blast at its Nevada test site. Yesterday's test was the 14th announced in the current series.

Marin Estates Unit To Elect Directors

The Marin Estates Homeowners Assn. will nominate and elect a new board of directors to serve during 1962 at its annual meeting at 8 p.m. March 6 in the gymnasium of the Neil Cummins School in Corte Madera.

A membership drive is under way this month.

CARDINAL MUENCH

Cardinal Dies; Pope Might Name More

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The death of Aloisius Cardinal Muench, the third cardinal to die within 10 days, heightened expectations today that Pope John XXIII will soon call a consistory to replenish the College of Cardinals.

Vatican sources said the Pope may raise the college's membership to a new all-time high before Easter to bulwark it for the heavy work of the Roman Catholic Church's Ecumenical Council opening here Oct. 11.

Cardinal Muench, 72, a Wisconsin-born former bishop of Fargo, N.D., and the only American cardinal in the Vatican Curia, died in Rome's Salvador Mundi Hospital last night.

The cardinal's body will lie in state in the hospital chapel until a solemn Mass Sunday in St. Peter's Basilica. Pope John will attend. Then the body will be flown to Fargo for burial.

Italian-born Gaetano Cardinal Cicognani, also a member of the Vatican Curia, and Portuguese-born Teodosio Clemente Cardinal de Gouveia, Archbishop of Lourence Marques, died last week. The three deaths reduced the number of cardinals to 77, eight below the high established by Pope John.

Vatican sources said the expected consistory might be called to create 10 or 12 new princes of the church. There also has been speculation that Pope John might increase the college's membership to 100.

HITS FARM POLICIES

Nixon Tells Brown Get Off Hind Legs

REDDING (AP) — Richard Nixon told Gov. Edmund G. Brown today to "quit wailing for help" from the federal government and "reaffirm the sovereignty of California."

Stiffening his attack on the Democratic governor he's out to replace, Nixon proposed that California "get off its hind legs and get up and get doing. We can solve any problem but you have to get up and get doing things," he said in a speech prepared for the Sierra Cascade Logging Conference.

The Republican candidate, in the midst of a five-day tour, carried his early electioneering to heavily Democratic Redding after uncorking further criticism of Brown on agricultural policies.

Speaking before a growers' association dinner in Tulelake last night, Nixon declared agriculture is the biggest business in the state and deserves first-class status.

This was his second reference to Brown's move to place the Department of Agriculture in the new Natural Resources Agency, headed by William E. Warne.

The governor later awarded full cabinet status to the department.

Nixon renewed criticism of Warne, saying "he was a failure, giving money away abroad" as a foreign aid official.

Nixon's appearance in Tulelake, 28 miles from Klamath Falls, Ore., drew 700 persons in a farming community with barely 1,000 population.

Earlier, flying from Sacramento, Nixon outlined plans for a massive campaign in the next nine months before the Nov. 7 general election:

1. His target is 100,000 volunteers to join with regular precinct workers. He said he already has lined up 50,000.

2. He doesn't think the right-wing movement will have any significant effect on his vote.

3. It will be necessary for him to get an absolute minimum of 500,000 Democratic votes in order to win. Nixon said he hopes to draw 95 per cent of the GOP ballots.

4. He'll wait until a Republican "task force" committee completes its study of Brown's $2.9-billion-dollar budget before he decides whether he'll step into the legislative fight.

ON AGAIN, OFF AGAIN ORBIT SHOT OFF . . .

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The oft-postponed flight three times around the earth of Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. is now off until next Tuesday—at the earliest—because of continuing rough seas in the Atlantic recovery areas.

This was the 10th postponement since the 81,000-mile flight was originally scheduled Dec. 20.

The entire countdown will be recycled.

RITES TOMORROW

Adlai, Former Wife Host Son's Wedding

PEBBLE BEACH (AP) — Adlai Stevenson and his former wife, Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson, will be hosts tonight at a dinner preceding the marriage tomorrow of their youngest son, John Fell, to Natalie Owings.

Invitations were extended to about 60 guests, including Gov. and Mrs. Edmund G. Brown.

The 7:30 p.m. formal dinner will be at the Beach Club in Pebble Beach.

Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will be best man to his 25-year-old son.

Miss Owings, 22, an artist and designer, is the daughter of Mrs. John S. Barnes of Albuquerque, N.M., and architect Nathaniel Alexander Owings.

Cuba Blast At U.S. Defeated In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cuba's charge that the United States is plotting to invade her shores wound up on the U.N. scrap heap today after the General Assembly's main political committee roundly defeated a Communist resolution supporting Fidel Castro's claims.

The committee rejected both key paragraphs of the resolution by Czechoslovakia and Romania calling on the United States to halt alleged interference in Cuba's internal affairs.

Defeat of the resolution was seen as a triumph for the United States, which had labeled the 11-day debate a Red propaganda show staged to detract attention from the action of the Organization of American States excluding Cuba from the inter-American system.

With the two operative sections knocked out, the committee chairman, Mario Amadeo of Argentina, declared the whole resolution defeated.

As a result, no further balloting is needed on the issue. The General Assembly, which is expected to meet Monday, will probably just note that the resolution was killed in committee.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin, who had fought hard for the proposal, angrily told the committee after the vote that it proved many delegates did not believe in adhering to the principles of the U.N. Charter calling for non-intervention in the affairs of sovereign states.

Zorin said that the United States by its vote had given clear evidence that it intended to settle its differences with Cuba by force.

WON'T CHANGE AGAIN

College Professor To Stay At Plant

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Exit—Dr. Carl Vernon Holmberg, associate professor in forest chemistry at Syracuse University, married and father of three children. Enter—Verne Hansen, $1.90 an hour factory worker living alone in a second-class hotel.

That transformation was the decision today of a 45-year-old man who has been identified as a college professor who dropped out of sight nearly seven years ago.

Hansen was unmasked as Holmberg Wednesday by a routine check of fingerprints after he was arrested for a traffic violation.

A review of events since he disappeared from Syracuse University, May 11, 1955, showed:

The professor's wife, Dorothy, divorced him two years ago believing he was dead or never would return. She moved to California with their three sons—Carl, now 18; Lee, 11, and Richard, 9. Last year, she married Gordon Babcock, a consulting electronics engineer. The family lives in Menlo Park, Calif.

The professor said the last thing he remembers about his present life is a car lift a motorist gave him from Elgin, Ill., to Rockford some time in 1955.

He took a job as a pigment grinder in a paint factory and, records show, in November, 1959 married Mabel Ostling, 42. They are separated.

The professor made it clear at a news conference Thursday that he doesn't want to return now to his old station in life.

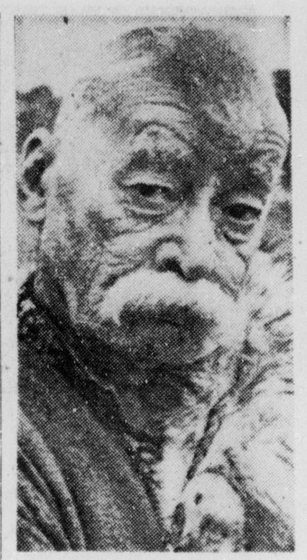
"For the time being, it is almost imperative that I remain what I am," he said. "There seems no necessity of digging back to uncover a life I know nothing about."

In California, the former Mrs. Holmberg said: "I have no further interest in Dr. Holmberg. We have no connection with him, either legally or emotionally, any more."

Hansen's boss, Francis J. Baudhuin, executive vice president of the Rockford Valspar Corp., said the man wants to stay with the company.

"I asked him what he is going to do about his past," Baudhuin said. "He told me he is not going to do a doggoned thing."

President Chester Arthur cleared out 24 wagonloads of old furniture, vases, moth-eaten rugs, and rusty mousetraps from the White House and sold the lot at auction. He refurnished the house in the gilt and plush popular in the 1880s.



VLADIMIR SOKOLOFF
50-year career ends

Veteran Actor Vladimir Sokoloff Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Vladimir Sokoloff, who once estimated that he had portrayed 35 nationalities during his 50-year acting career, is dead of a stroke at 71.

The Russian-born performer, once a pupil of the famed Stansilavsky, died in his sleep at his West Hollywood home yesterday.

The veteran character actor was the last of what Hollywood called "The classic Europeans."

Sokoloff was associated with the Moscow Arts Theater as an actor and director from 1914 to 1937. He began his acting apprenticeship under Stanislavsky, stage name of the creator of the "Method" school. Sokoloff later said he didn't approve of this type of acting for Americans.

Board Accepts Reports On Marin Sewage

Three Marin County reports on sewage disposal from houseboats, arks and barges moored along the Sausalito waterfront and in unincorporated areas were accepted yesterday by the Regional Water Control Board in Oakland.

It was indicated, however, that reports of the county health department, the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District and the City of Sausalito did not so much show much progress yet. On April 15, the three jurisdictions are scheduled to report again.

On May 17 when the board intends to decide what to do. Guiding its decision, it was indicated through discussion at yesterday's meeting, will be whether it finds the next Marin reports acceptable and indicative of action under way at last on the local level.

Another Marin County matter before yesterday's meeting was a set of requirements as to the nature of waste discharge by Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District into Miller Creek. The action was routine and part of the board's long-range program for the Las Gallinas watershed.

Marinite Is Named To Educational Unit

John E. Yocom of 579 Cedarberry Lane, Lucas Valley, has been named to the educational council of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Julius A. Stratton, president, announced at the institute in Cambridge, Mass.

Yocom, a 1947 M.I.T. graduate, is director of technical services for Arthur D. Little, Inc., in San Francisco. He will be one of 21 council members in the Bay Area. The council helps young men and women interested in science educations provided by the institute.

'TASK FORCE' FOR SAN RAFAEL

Chamber To Work For Parking, Better Downtown

San Rafael Chamber of Commerce directors have adopted a program for putting five "task forces" to work on the city's needs, with more offstreet parking and refurbishment of the business district as top priority projects.

The program is the brainchild of George Krusz, the chamber's executive secretary, developed in his first two months on the job.

In presenting his program, Krusz told the chamber directors:

"You people have more assets sitting on your doorsteps wanting to be tapped and developed than most communities ever dream of acquiring."

But, his said, it takes coordinated, cooperative effort to develop them. He asked that the chamber adopt a program of leadership in such development.

In a 42-page report, Krusz reviewed the assets and needs of San Rafael and Marin County, from the standpoint of its business community, and the role of the chamber of commerce.

Traffic congestion and business district beautification require first attention, he declared.

Sales tax records prove that San Rafael is Marin's shopping center, he said, and "if people are willing to come here under present conditions . . . just think of what will happen when an orderly downtown development program is under way."

Calling the traffic situation "the basic problem," he expressed hope engineer Daniel P. Coleman's master street plan—which the city council has accepted subject to revision when design of the realigned Highway 101 freeway is established — may provide the solution.

But hand-in-hand with the traffic problem is that of parking, Krusz noted.

Until the city master plan being prepared by Coleman and planning consultant William Spangler is adopted and implemented, "some temporary measure to relieve congestion must be taken," he declared. "Our offstreet parking is not adequate. I believe plans for additional offstreet parking were made at the time the present plans were drawn. It is of vital importance that these be added as soon as possible."

GEORGE KRUSZ
Surveys city's needs

Although most of Fourth Street presents a pleasing appearance, outside of Fourth Street are stretches of blighted commercial areas, he noted. It is up to merchants and landlords to get together on improvement programs, he declared: "It is not a question of 'if,' it is a question of 'must'."

On the subject of industry, Krusz suggested that "we have two potential industries, worth millions of dollars, just sitting in our laps waiting to be developed. I speak of boating and tourists."

"Properly developed, the boating industry in Marin could in itself make this area the recreational center of Northern California," he declared.

Among tourist attractions that should be exploited he mentioned the new county civic center. "The time to quit bickering over it is now," said Krusz. "We have it, so let's use its potential value to the fullest."

While finding the transportation picture good on the whole, Krusz commented, "Of course we need the rail service which has been discontinued."

He then proposed: "Public bus transportation from outlying areas into San Rafael for shopping purposes . . . might be a partial solution to our traffic problem as well as a great aid to our merchants."

Cultural activities represent a community asset that should be further developed, said Krusz. The proposed auditorium at the civic center "is urgent and would meet the need of a concert hall for our people," he declared.

He also saw "definite need for a teen-age social and recreational center."

To work on developing the program outlined, the chamber board agreed to create study groups or "task forces" on commercial and economic affairs, civic affairs, communication and membership, chamber administration, and chamber budget and income.

Krusz noted that the chamber's lease on its present quarters at Second and B streets expires in June, and urged that it be relocated away from charitable organizations with which it now shares quarters.

"It is important that visitors coming to the chamber offices receive the right impression of our city," he declared.

The Sikh faith, an offshoot of Hinduism, originated in the 15th century. It was founded by the Punjabi religious scholar Nanak, who was born in 1469 near Lahore.

Ike Thinks Nikita Wants Peace 'Terms'

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower believes Soviet Premier Khrushchev "would like very much to have an assurance there was going to be no war."

"But this would be on his own terms," Eisenhower said.

Eisenhower's appraisals of Khrushchev and other world figures he has dealt with were included in a television program broadcast last night by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

LAST PROGRAM

It was the last of three hour-long programs, "Eisenhower on the Presidency." The interviews, conducted by Walter Cronkite, were taped last spring.

Eisenhower said Khrushchev was forced to pay more attention to Russian public opinion than most Americans realized. He said Khrushchev was able to greatly influence public opinion in his country by preventing "free-wheeling reporters" from informing the people of what was going on there. However, Eisenhower added, Khrushchev could not ignore public opinion.

FAMILY MAN

At another point, Eisenhower said: "I don't think that Mr. Khrushchev is, himself, necessarily a cruel man, but he's raised in doctrine of force. I'm sure he loves children. He's always talking about his own family. He's very, very much of a family man that way."

Eisenhower, who replied to questions on a wide range of subjects, said he sympathized with Southerners facing a change in their way of life through integration. But he said he supported the Supreme Court decision against segregation in public schools.

New Food Experience On Tap For Marinites About March 1

A new food experience will be on tap for Marinites about March 1 when Le Chalet, a French and Basque restaurant, is scheduled to open at 405 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

If you remember the former Gambit restaurant—this is the same location.

Owners Raymond and Eugenie Coscaret have bought the property, including an adjoining home at the corner of Mabry Way. Both have had previous restaurant experience, though not recently. Raymond has been with it in France and also San Francisco. They are a Basque couple from the Pyrenees between France and Spain and are trilingual.

The restaurant, now being remodeled, will start with breakfast, lunch and dinner service seven days a week. Some variation in this schedule may follow as soon as low pressure days and hours are determined. The Coscarets will have a beer and wine license. Outdoor tables are being considered for fair weather.

I've had several inquiries about Basque food lately which up to now has been unavailable in Marin except perhaps for occasional novelty service, so this may prove to be a popular spot — particularly when the new Civic Center is opened near the highway.

Small place, but should set 50 to 60 comfortably.

LOOK FOR many changes forthcoming at Rickey's Rancho Rafael—some already in progress and others to follow. In view of the probable sale of Rickey's Studio Inn, Palo Alto, to Western Hotels, Inc., concentrated promotion of the Ignacio spot seems extremely likely. Operation, too, will be more locally controlled.

Evidence of this is in menu changes made by new manager Ray Lyon and his chef Joachim Hillebrand, whereas previous fare followed the dictates of Palo Alto.

Since Joachim stems from Nuernburg, Germany, it's natural to see such items as sauerbraten mit kartoffel pfannkuchen, Kassler rippschen and Rindsroulade appearing—along with authentic weiner schnitzel, of course. The lunch menu now has a daily special and even that may be German more often than not.

SUGGESTION for a Chinese dinner: Lobster tail Cantonese with black bean sauce (the sauce is what makes it outstanding), pork spareribs, chicken chow mein and rice. You can add other selections from a well balanced menu but this makes a nice combination. And we'll add that a table at Travelers Inn, San Rafael, is a good spot to order it.

Quiet, nicely decorated and a favorite family place. We've observed that it's popular with teen-age couples and groups—where they can dine sumptuously and economically. Reasonably priced American dishes here, too.

BLONDE OR BRUNETTE? You have your pick of pianists at the Colonel's Ranch Wagon.

Roberta Mandel who fits the first description most attractively plays Sunday and Tuesday nights. She has a tour background of the United States and Canada, as well as appearances at Bimbo's, the St. Francis, Palace and Claremont Hotels, Bay Area night clubs and KRON-TV — starts this Sunday at the Colonel's.

Kathy Phillips, her color antithesis, but no less glamorous, performs Wednesday and Thursday nights beginning next week. She's been accompanist to Pat Boone, Snooky Lanson, Jimmy Dean, Billie Holiday and others. You may also have caught her last acts at Facks or Bimbo's.

They're both good — so time your visit according to taste.

FRIENDS (about 100 of them) feasted at Wiltshire Towers Motel Restaurant last Friday night on Polynesian food and mai-tais to bid aloha to Shaun Wiltshire and his family who have taken off for a Honolulu vacation. They'll be back about the 25th.

WE'RE PLEASED to hear that Rosemary Miller has returned to manage the Woodlands in Kentfield after several weeks of illness and recuperation . . . Tonight is the grand opening of Spec McAuliffe's Irish Coffee—new venture of Frank McAuliffe and Al Firpo at 813 Fourth Street, San Rafael (formerly the Calvacade) . . . Don Altenburg of the Dock calls attention to his excellent facilities for watching Sunday water antics and things (like sailboat races) off Tiburon.

WORD FROM SABELLA'S is that Saturday night dancing will be introduced here in about a month. Lou Sabella says customers have been asking for it and claim they won't go across the bridge if the restaurant will nail down a good orchestra.

Sabella's is also starting to make a slow change in its cocktail lounge. Eventually it will be known as the Pirate's Den, but they don't want to close it while remodeling.

Patio Grill Reopens Under New Owner

The Patio Grill at 866 Grant Avenue in Novato has reopened under new management. Gordon Thompson is now the sole owner of the restaurant.

Thompson said that the restaurant will feature everything home made, such as pies, cakes and chili. He is especially proud of his coffee. "No weak coffee served in here," he said. The cafe is open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. It now serves evening dinners for the first time.

WINE CORNER

From Grape Came Wine —But So Many Kinds!

Herewith some suggestions for your added dining pleasure, how to pronounce the names, a few words on their characteristics and when to order them:

Cabernet Sauvignon (kab-ernay' so-vee-nyonh'). A dry, medium-bodied red dinner wine from the grape of the same name. Especially good with red meats.

Chablis (shah-blee'). A white dinner wine similar to Rhine wine but less tart. Especially good with seafoods and white meats. Chilled, of course.

Pinot Chardonnay (pea-no shar-doh-nay'). Of the Chablis school made from the Chardonnay grape. Pale to light gold. Dry and has good body.

Sauterne (so-tairn'). Light golden. Can be dry but more likely semi-sweet. Order with white meats and seafoods.

Cocktails too strong? Then try sherry or vermouth — the traditional appetizer wines. Tell the waiter you want it "over the rocks." Some of the lighter dinner wine types may also fill your bill, such as a rose, chilled but without ice.

SUSPENSIONS DUE DRINKING STUDENTS

Eight or nine students at Novato High School were to be suspended at the end of the school day today for drinking on a school-sponsored snow trip last Saturday, Principal Robert McKeay disclosed.

McKeay said the affair has been under investigation all week. He said liquor was brought to the school, and there was drinking on the three chartered buses and on the ski slopes.

The drinking was "on the sly" without knowledge of the six faculty members who accompanied the 120 students on the Pep Club-sponsored trip, said McKeay.

School officials today knew "the main eight or nine students involved." Investigation is continuing.

The length of suspensions of the students has not been decided, pending further study of the case, McKay said, but will probably be for one or two weeks. Their school privileges, such as dances, parties, etc. will be taken away from them, both while under suspension and for an indeterminate period after their return to school.

College Told Flood Plan Would Chop 5 Acres

College of Marin architects last night told the college trustees that Corte Madera Creek flood control measures planned by the Army Corps of Engineers would chop away almost five acres of property purchased last year for college expansion.

The Corps of Engineers plan to widen Tamalpais Creek, which leads into Corte Madera Creek and cuts through an 11.89 acres purchased by the district last year from Mosk Realty Co. The property was acquired through settlement of a condemnation suit, after the college board rejected the realty firm's price of $90,000. The county counsel's office negotiated a price of $61,000. The price was made public after criticism for conducting land purchase negotiations in executive session.

The property is planned for use as an athletic field. The plan includes creation of a covered culvert running from the intersection of Kent and College avenues to Corte Madera Creek.

The trustees decided to write the Corps of Engineers asking that the college plan be used instead of that proposed by the Army Engineers. The trustees will agree that the district would pay for additional costs necessitated by the change.

PARTING GIFT—Deborah Rossman (right) shows a festival mask, handcarved in Germany's Black Forest, to her brother, Jared, 13, and her sister, Elisa, 14. The mask was a gift to Deborah from her German "mother," Frau Ils, with whom she lived for six months while in Germany as an exchange student under auspices of the American Field Service.

Girl, 17, Returns From Study For 6 Months In Germany

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

Deborah Rossman, 17-year-old Sir Francis Drake High School senior, recently returned from a six-month stay in Germany, finds her school work here cut by less than half.

In Osnabruck, Germany, a city of about 100,000 population where she attended school since last August, Deborah took 14 subjects—par for the course for students in the 11th class, the equivalent of an American high school junior class.

Here she is on a normal schedule of six classes—including an advanced English class taken by only 10,000 high school students throughout the United States.

"Of course, German students don't take every subject every day," she said. Students there, in her opinion, will graduate from the 13th class with far more proficiency in languages and mathematics and with a taste of more subjects generally than their American counterparts.

Under sponsorship of the American Field Service, Deborah lived with Dr. and Mrs. Hans Ils ("papa and mutti") and their two daughters, Marianne, 17, and Adrian, 11, in the village of Iburg, about 10 miles from Osnabruck. In contrast to her own parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rossman of 2 Meadow Way in Fairfax, Deborah was surprised to find her German "parents" did little entertaining and seldom, if ever, visited friends' homes.

"The people in the north of Germany are very reserved," Deborah explained.

She said AFS students abroad are not lavishly entertained and sought after as foreign students are in the United States. One of her teachers, Deborah recalled, was unaware that an American visitor was in her class for at least a month after Deborah enrolled.

"I had been warned of the situation and expected it," she said. "But many of the American kids felt lonely and unwanted."

She found little political discussion other than from Dr. Ils, whom she described as "an unusual man."

"The people never referred to the war in political terms—only as 'the ugly time' or 'the time when we were hungry.'" The country, she observed, was rebuilding rapidly, leaving scarcely a trace of wartime devastation by Allied bombers.

German youths, she said, attend many plays, operas and concerts, being allowed to buy the best seats in top theaters for about 50 cents. "Their musical taste is a happy marriage of rock-and-roll and the classics," she said.

Deborah, who spoke no German when she left Marin last August, returned quite fluent in the language, she admitted with pride. "I was determined to learn to speak," she said.

Her most frustrating experience because of a language barrier happened soon after her arrival when she dropped one of her contact lenses through a grating into the basement of a store. The proprietor, who knew no English, could not understand what she had lost, frightening her out of her wits when he began trampling the grating to help her search.

"I screamed at him: 'Bitte spazieren Sie nicht!' (Don't go for a walk!)" she recalled. "It was all out of context, but it did the trick." Happily, she found the lens.

Her most moving experience came when a neighboring family made her a gift of a menorah, the tradition candleholder used by Jewish people during Chanuka. The man and his wife, a Catholic and a Lutheran, told her they had bought the menorah as a symbol, to remind themselves that they had taken no part in the atrocities of the Hitler regime.

"Not all of us were Nazis," they told her.

"I took the menorah back to my 'family' and we burned Chanuka candles in it alongside the Christmas lights," she said.

General To Tour Bay Area Model

Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the U. S. Continental Army Command, was to visit the Army Engineers' San Francisco Bay Area model in Sausalito this afternoon under a tour of the Sixth Army headquarters, Presidio of San Francisco.

He will depart for his Virginia headquarters Monday morning from Hamilton Air Force Base.

Trustees Set Stadium Way Sale Meeting

The meeting tentatively has been set for 8 p.m. Feb. 26 in room 61 of the art building on the college campus.

Kentfield trustees and Supt. Howard C. Harmon attended last night's college board meeting to attempt to purchase Stadium Way, which runs through the middle of A. E. Kent School property.

Harmon said the Kentfield district would offer $1 for the property. We do not know how to value the property so are leaving it open for negotiating," he said.

The Kentfield district wants to construct two corridors across the property, connecting the main Kent School building to a proposed new wing.

Ted Stolte of the architectural firm of Falk and Booth, college architects, told the trustees Stadium Way would not be needed in the expansion of the college.

Because of need for legal advice concerning right-of-ways and deed restrictions, the college trustees decided to have the special meeting of the two boards after obtaining advice from the county counsel's office.

Absent was trustee president Kent O. Seymour.

In other business, the college board:

1. Approved a contract with trustees of the California state colleges and Marin Junior College District whereby the state colleges may assign students to College of Marin for practice teaching.

2. Approved a portion of the sabbatical leave regulations and returned parts dealing with returning to service, reporting on the leave, applying, and posting of bond, back to President Stephen E. Epler for clarification.

3. Approved the following trips and conferences: (1) Dean Irwin P. Diamond to Fresno City College May 2 and 3, to serve as assistant to the Western College Assn. accreditation team; (2) basketball coach Calvin Reimcke to California Junior College Basketball Coaches Assn. meeting at Orange Coast College March 9-11; (3) football coach Richard Read to Junior College Football Clinic at Santa Monica Feb. 10-11; (4) Dean Diamond and counselor Margaret Greene to Asilomar Tuesday in preparation for state student government conference at which College of Marin will be co-host; (5) English teacher Gayle Wold to conference of California Assn. of Teachers of English at San Diego Feb. 23-25, and (6) Mrs. Greene, counselor John F. Gillin and 20 students to regional student government conference at Vallejo March 3.

4. Hired Robert D. La Gallee as multilith operator for the college at $420 per month.

5. Instructed architects to plan on enough space in the proposed gymnasium for laundry facilities, after hearing a report from Harry J. Pieper, chairman of the physical education division.

WHITHER FREEWAY IN NOVATO?

Novato City Council and representatives of the California Division of Highways will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Novato Community Building to discuss freeway routes, it was announced today.

The city council tentatively set up the meeting at its session last Tuesday night, subject to confirmation by the division of highways. J. P. Sinclair, assistant state highway engineer, agreed by letter yesterday.

The city also had asked that the record of the freeway hearing of Jan. 19 be kept open until March 15, so the city could add its decision to the transcript. Sinclair said the state would hold it open until March 5.

Registration Extended At College

After changing the registration rules for one student last night, College of Marin trustees decided to put another deadline on registration for the spring semester — for some cases — for Monday noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Zimmer of 37 Filbert, Sausalito, brought their son Richard to the board meeting and complained that delay in sending out the boys' final grades caused him to miss registration.

They said he had planned to go to San Francisco State but did not get his final grades from College of Marin. Then when he tried to enroll in a College of Marin evening credit class, it was too late. The deadline was last Friday.

The board voted unanimously to allow the youth to be enrolled. Later in the meeting, Dean Irwin P. Diamond told trustees others would probably try to be admitted after the deadline.

The trustees then set another deadline for Monday noon for "meritorious cases" of persons who could not register earlier. It would be for both day and evening credit classes.

Canal Committee To Elect Chairman

Members of the Saucelito Canal Dredging Finance Committee will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in Mill Valley's Municipal Golf Clubhouse, acting Secretary Francis Newton announced today.

Major business will be to elect a chairman to replace George Goheen, resigned.

Canada-To-California Natural Gas Line Opens

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Natural gas to serve the fast growing Pacific Coast flowed through 1,400 miles of pipeline today—underneath rivers and across rugged mountains—linking western Canada and California.

The giant project, conceived five years ago and completed last November after 14 months of work, cost 300 million dollars. It is privately financed, sponsored by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and organized through affiliate firms in two Canadian provinces and four Western states.

Nearly 1,500 persons, including government and business leaders from the two nations attended a lavish dedication ceremony Thursday night.

"We are really paying tribute to the initiative of free enterprise—and the wisdom of the cooperative government agencies which approved the project," said Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The 36-inch line originates northwest of Edmonton, Alta., and ends at Antioch at the upper end of San Francisco Bay.

Licensed for 25 years by four government agencies—two in each country—the pipeline transports 415 million cubic feet of gas to California daily. Officials estimate the Alberta gas adds about 20 per cent to supplies piped from wells in California and the Southwest.

Terra Linda High Junior Wins Lions Speech Contest

Julia Drummond, a junior at Terra Linda High School, last night won the student speakers contest sponsored by the Marin Civic Center Lions Club.

The contest is part of a California-Nevada speech competition sponsored by Lions International. Miss Drummond, representing Terra Linda High and the "Civic Center Community" from Puerto Suello Hill to Ignacio, will next compete in the zone contest (countywide) on March 13.

Miss Drummond spoke on the theme of peace and disarmament. Three runners-up were Sandra Egenberger, Jeannette Snow, and Wesley Davison. All spoke on the general topic of "My Responsibility in a Changing World."

The students were coached by Lauriston H. Tardy.

Last night's contest, held at Nave Lanes in Novato, was judged by County School Supt. Virgil S. Hollis; Ralph Giovanniello, assistant superintendent; and Clarence Leisure, radio announcer.

Baltimore Prophet Without Honor

BALTIMORE (AP)—In a famous restaurant on Fayette Street, a visitor from the West asked if the place were a favorite of H. L. Mencken.

"I don't know," the waiter replied. "Does he play for the Colts or for the Orioles?"

This Thief Broke His Way-Out!

San Anselmo police today were investigating a burglary in which the thief broke his way out instead of in.

Ludwig Schwalbe of Bolinas, partner in Ludwig's Liquor Store at 431 San Anselmo Avenue, reported to police Tuesday that a burglar had stolen cash from his store. He said $150 was taken from two cash registers and $400 from a hidden cigar box.

Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said investigation disclosed a side door of the liquor store, opening on Tunstead Avenue, had been broken open from the inside by ripping off a padlock hasp. He said the thief must have either entered with a key or been concealed inside when the store closed.

Schwalbe told police he believed some liquor had been taken also. Tuesday night, he called to say 27 bottles of whisky had been stolen from a locked liquor storeage area.

Buchignani said the liquor storage area had been opened with a key which had been returned to its hiding place.

You Can Advise Your Lawmaker, In 15 Words

There's a new safety valve for those who get wrought up about how our national or state lawmakers are doing—or should or shouldn't be doing. Instead of blowing mental fuses about State or the Nation, or arguing and even fighting with friends over where the country is going, you can put your views right on the desk of any lawmaker—providing you can say it in 15 words, and have 83 cents to expend for such public service.

After many years of transmitting Christmas, birthday, Easter, Passover, christening and other greetings, Western Union now offers a Personal Message Service, aimed at faster communication with Congressmen, assemblymen and state and U.S. senators. These telegrams express the sender's opinion on legislation.

The new service differs from that for holiday greetings. You can use your own words, instead being held to the Form A, Form Z or other varieties in which wordage was selected from a printed list.

"In your own words" is highly important. The aroused constituent would take too fearful a risk trying to advise on public issues from a catalog of prewritten telegrams.

Suppose the company had a prepared list of messages to lawmakers. Maybe you desire to simply say "drop dead." But suppose in your anger, your finger slipped past Form Q, and instead, the message received by the solon stated: "We in your district are very proud of you. I wish to express sincere appreciation and extend every support."

But a note of warning: Profanity will not be transmitted on the telegraph lines. A letter telegram on a lawmaker's desk is worth more than two weeks of locally express approval or disapproval.

SEEK MORE THAN EARTHLY TREASURES

Art lovers of 50 years ago were shocked by the mysterious disappearance of the world-famous Mona Lisa from the Louvre Museum in Paris.

Despite security precautions considered fool-proof, someone had made off with the da Vinci masterpiece.

Two years later, in 1913, an art dealer in Florence was summoned to the shabby hotel room of a furtive and haggard young man, who showed him the stolen painting.

"Take it!" he screamed, "I can't stand it any more."

The subsequent trial revealed that the man had absconded with the art treasure because of his love for a young woman whom he swore was the living image of the Mona Lisa. After her untimely death, the distraught young man had haunted the corridors of the museum until he decided to steal it. Sympathetic jurors gave him a light sentence.

Human ingenuity, in pursuing good goals or bad, often exceeds expectations. Use your own talent in behalf of man and not against him and you will find not earthly treasures, but heavenly ones.

"Granting wealth to those who love Me, and filling their treasuries."

(Proverbs 8:21)

Make me worthy, O heavenly Father, of the eternal riches You have waiting for those who love You.

Double Talk Is Way Of Bringing Out The Very Worst In Everyone

NEW YORK (AP)—Is your double-talk getting a bit rusty?

Well, we can't let that happen, or the art of civilized conversation will die out altogether.

For those who just came in, double-talk—in the sense we use the term here—is camouflage language, employed to say one thing when you are thinking something else.

Only savages and children always say what they mean.

Civilization, on the other hand, is cemented by double-talk which avoids wounded feelings and enables most people to save face. The older a civilization is the more it depends upon double-talk. That is why Chinese fortune cookies generally contain such polite messages.

For a brush-up session on double-talk, here are some examples from everyday life—followed by their literal translations:

"Unlike some colleges, we don't believe in buying our football players." We've found it cheaper just to rent them for four years.

"The organization wouldn't be the same without you, Joe." It probably would be a lot better.

"I'm glad to lend you the money if—." If I didn't know I'd never get it back.

"No, I didn't mind losing the election for the presidency of the P-TA. After all, who wants all that responsibility?" The guy who won—and me.

"I love your little girl's touch on the piano. Please have her play one more tune." This time with a hammer.

"Oh, what a darling baby. He's the very image of you, George." Some kids never have any luck.

"I HATE TO break up the game, but I promised my wife I'd be home early." Oh, boy, I must be $40 ahead—at least.

"I wish I could make a martini like that, Jim." I'd patent it, and market it as a sink cleanser.

"Your speech really laid 'em in the aisles, chief." They got tired sleeping sitting up.

"IT'S OKAY, JOE. I know you really didn't mean half of what you said." But don't worry, old pal, I'll get even for the half you did mean.

"Now, remember, if there's ever anything I can do for you—." Don't call me—and you can bet I won't call you.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

San Rafael police ordered four solicitors for "Comrades of the Purple Heart" off city streets because, said Police Chief Frank Kelly, preliminary investigation indicated that "none of the money may ever get to veterans."

Plans for construction of a county office building on the San Rafael Military Academy parade ground were quietly buried by county supervisors.

20 YEARS AGO

Sheriff Walter Sellmer advertised that "excessive drinking is a disease" and that "knowledge gained through contact with former patients has given your own Sheriff Sellmer helpful information." He was willing to share this under unspecified conditions.

A wooden power pole on San Rafael's South Irwin Street was shattered by a bolt of lightning, cutting a 60,000-volt feeder line.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'False Issue' In Marinwood

Editor,
Independent-Journal

In a desperate attempt to block passage of the proposed Marinwood park and fire station bond issue, its opponents have introduced two false issues.

First is the alleged poor design of facilities. In a recent letter to this column Mrs. Bejae Ray wrote that mutually adjoining park and firehouse constitute a hazard to children and a hindrance to effective fire protection. We have lived in two communities, Belvedere and Palo Alto, where such facilities adjoined. Palo Alto subsequently built not one but two additional park-firehouse installations.

Second false issue is the spectre of ruinous cost. Opponents claim the additional tax burden will drive them into bankruptcy. The cold fact is that the total cost per family for park, fire station and swimming pool is equivalent to the cost of one carton of cigarettes every three weeks. I've never heard of anyone who is too poor to smoke.

People make the decision to smoke not on the basis of how much it costs but whether they enjoy smoking. The cost of park and pool to a family of average Marin income is .00333 of its total budget. Just as we all can financially afford to smoke, we all can financially afford a park.

Let's all accept the fact that in a democracy, people who are equally honest, intelligent, sincere, and hardworking can be on opposite sides of a controversial issue. Let's vote on the simple issue of whether we do or do not want a park and adequate fire protection.

Sincerely,
MRS. LADA S. MARX
San Rafael.

I-J Chided On Marinwood Fires

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The article on page one of the I-J on Feb. 12 under the heading "CSD President Won't Resign Over Marinwood Fire Department Foulup" raises some questions and deserves comment in the interest of good journalism.

It was reported that "two fire department foulups" occurred. First, the firehouse telephone failed to ring when a lady called to report "two electric wires hanging loose." The fire department is not responsible for power or telephone lines. No fire was associated with the broken wires. Therefore would it, perhaps, have been more accurate to report that the caller used poor judgment or that someone fouled up in wiring a telephone?

Actually the event had no news value except to one who will use any means to propagandize in opposition to the Community Services District, no matter how well it may serve. It's a pity that news columns can be used for "unpaid political announcements" in support of one side of a community controversy. A properly skeptical reporter might have asked why the caller who failed to get through to the fire department did not next call the telephone company, or a member of the fire commission, or a member of the Community Services District Board.

There seems little doubt about the motive of the caller when instead she called the public relations chairman of the Marinwood Citizens Committee which has been opposed to almost every action of the commission and district. Was it intended to result in an unjustified front page accusation of "foulup" by the district shortly before the district's proposals for a recreation center-firehouse and swimming pool are to be voted upon? If so, it succeeded, thanks to cooperation of the I-J.

The second alleged "foulup" was reportedly due to the fire truck going up a wrong street and "taking between five and seven minutes" to find an address where a washer-dryer was on fire. Coincidentally the washer-dryer was in the home of the same public relations chairman of the anti-fire commission, anti-community services district, anti-recreation center group.

The simple unplugging of the appliance by a volunteer fireman extinguished the fire (if not the smoke of unfair publicity) and possibly saved the public relations man's home from further damage. Was it gratitude for pulling the plug that led to these unjust accusations being laid at the I-J doorstep? The subsequent front page article can best be described as a public relations coup for an anti-almost everything group.

I suggest that the unnamed unplugger of the public relations man's appliance deserves an I-J bouquet. Need I suggest who deserves the brickbat?

Incidentally, my only association with any of the principals is in the role of a generally satisfied recipient of the public services of the Marinwood Community Services District and a frequently pleased (but not always) reader of the I-J. I admit bias, however, on the side of fair and accurate reporting of news and plead that promotional advertising be recognized and restricted to the advertising section.

PAUL EASTMAN.
Marinwood.

She Believes In Bluebirds Selling

Editor
Independent-Journal

Your recent letter about the Cheerful Bluebirds of Tiburon and their parents' "uncheerful" attitude about mint selling prompts me to say I disagree with them wholeheartedly.

Every organization needs fund-raising, as all of us admit. But do those parents realize that it is only the youth groups who give something tangible in return for the donation? In our area the Campfire Girls sell mints; Boy Scouts sell light bulbs; and Girl Scouts sell calendars and cookies. Yet their parents think nothing of calling on us for donations to other worthy causes, with nothing but a sticker or card left for our money.

There is also the matter of the girls helping their own organization themselves. I have been a Brownie leader for nearly two years, and I know how proud the girls are when they help the group that means so much to them. A five dollar bill received from daddy and given to the leader does not bring forth a feeling of a job well-done.

As for the safety aspect of door-to-door selling: why don't the Campfire Girls borrow a "Safety-Wise" tip from their Girl Scout Brownie friends and insist that the girls always sell in pairs and only in their immediate neighborhood?

Yours very truly,
HELEN I. BAZNIK.
Lucas Valley.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

His progress impeded by a derelict with the familiar whine, "Kinyu spare a quarter for a poor man to get a cup of coffee?" a busy magnate handed over a dollar saying, "Here, get yourself four cups" and hastened on his way. Next day the derelict was waiting on the same corner. "Say," he snarled, "aren't you the wise guy that slipped me a dollar for four cups of coffee? You big bum—I couldn't sleep a wink all night!"

When Jack Benny recently revisited his home town of Waukegan, Ill., where a new high school was named after him, he planted a tree on the grounds near the athletic field. Returning to California, however, Benny learned that the tree had died within a month. Philosophized Benny, "How could they expect a tree to live in Waukegan with the sap out in Hollywood?"

A group of traffic experts convening in Washington, D. C., singled out two groups as the greatest menaces to safe driving: drivers under 25 going over 65, and drivers over 65 going 25.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Shopping Center Speeding And Football Field Water Skiing

IF YOU RUN OUT of exciting things to do these days, try driving through the Corte Madera Shopping Center. But wear safety belts.

Each time you make it through from the entrance off Madera Boulevard to the shops, you can't help but breathe a sigh of relief as you park your car. I don't know, maybe this is old stuff to many of you.

Cars come flying up from the right, the left, in front and behind you. You sometimes get the feeling of a duck in a shooting gallery.

I remember back a few months ago when Shopping Center owner Frank Rusalem presented the Corte Madera Planning Commissioners with a revised parking plan for the center which was to improve traffic and parking congesgestion. The commissioners passed the plan.

And that was on Sept. 11, more than five months ago. The traffic problem is the same, if not worse.

At times I have seen cars whizzing through the center, possibly traveling 30 or 40 miles per hour. The sad thing is that since the center is on private property, Corte Madera police can't make a pinch on someone driving too fast, as they can on speeders on public streets.

I FIND THAT Corte Madera Police Chief Frank L. Nelson was the only Marin police chief at the National Conference of Christians and Jews held at University of San Francisco last month.

Theme of the two-day conference was "Police—Community Relations." Nelson thought the talks by noted enforcement officials were quite profitable. Too bad more of Marin's police chiefs didn't take in the conference.

There will be at least two from Marin next year. Nelson will return and I understand San Anselmo Police Chief Ray Buchignani will go to the next conference. At least that's what I hear.

CONGRATULATIONS to William P. Schnell and Earl J. O'Grady on their appointments to the Larkspur Planning Commission. It has been some time since the commission has been at full (five) strength.

I guess Michael Kaplan, who also tried for one of the vacant positions on the commission, had passed up his chance to serve on that body.

Back on Aug. 23, Kaplan, who had been appointed to the Planning Commission in May, refused to take the loyalty oath. The City Council held his refusal to sign as a resignation—and accepted.

Kaplan relented and tried for an appointment to the planners again (this time saying he would sign) but failed to be named.

BEING FROM Sacramento originally, which is much dryer (and hotter, whew) than Marin, I am amazed at talk of old timers about the floods in the county.

When I looked at flooded Granton Park in Kentfield I was amazed. The old timers shrug and say, "It's not as bad as it's been before."

When I looked at flooded streets in San Rafael and saw cars up to their axles in water I was amazed. The old timer says, "Ya' shoulda seen that street back in . . ."

BUT WHEN I looked at the College of Marin football field and saw water skiers Tuesday, that was too much. I didn't hear anything from the old timers.

The skiers turned out to be Micky Beattie, Pete Allen and Ben Chollar, all College of Marin students. The football field was under about three or four feet of water.

Where else can you go but Mairn to see young men water skiing on a football field?

K's Summit Call Hints At Improvement—But Tact Needed

A high order of tact is needed to deal successfully with Khrushchev's proposal for a summit conference of 18 nations. He set March 14 as the opening date. Both the United States and Great Britain rejected this early date for a disarmament conference, in favor of a top-level gathering at a later date.

It is an embarrassing proposal because of compelling reasons why it cannot be accepted for such an early date, and equally compelling reasons why refusal must not be a rebuff. The West has a strong interest in Khrushchev not losing face in his struggle within the communist world.

Khrushchev likes summitry because he has power to settle questions directly. No Western statesman has such personal power; none can agree without approval of allies and consent of interested groups at home.

We have learned to be extremely reluctant and careful about summitry. We fear insufficiently prepared personal agreements, which may turn out unenforceable. We also know summitry arouses popular expectations, which it is dangerous to disappoint.

It goes without saying that no one thinks there is a breakthrough in the exchange of two spies, in an exchange of visits between Salinger and his opposite number, or the proposed exchange of television broadcasts. But these things and many others indicate there is a change of weather.

IF WE ASK ourselves what it means, we may say that the Soviet-American crisis is dissolving into a process in which both countries are adjusting their minds to the balance of nuclear terror between them.

The evolutionary process now under way may be said to have begun in 1953 with Stalin's death. Soviet society and the Soviet government are perforce modernizing themselves. Khrushchev has staked his career on the necessity of modernization. What lies behind this necessity? It is recognition that we are well into the nuclear age, that war, except perhaps nibbling with guerrillas, is obsolete.

Soviet economy and Soviet society are becoming highly complex; much too complex to be run by a centralized dictatorship.

Seedlings of freedom are already visible above the Russian ground. Yet they will not soon be a forest. We must not forget how long it took for our free institutions to grow from beginnings in the Middle Ages.

Tiburon Unit Forms To Seek Smallcraft Harbor District

Tiburon residents last night formed a committee to seek a small craft harbor district to preserve the peninsula's open waterfront.

The district would buy Northwestern Pacific Railroad land to provide mooring facilities for small boats and construct a marina-type development.

Robert Sterling of the Tiburon Chamber of Commerce, who moderated the meeting, was empowered to report back to the chamber that the group favors investigating the project.

Attorney James T. Morton of the legal firm of Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton of San Mateo, assessment district specialists, described various possible methods of forming such a district and financing the development through issuing bonds.

If the boundaries suggested were used, 50 signatures of title owners would be sufficient to qualify a petition for the district, Morton said.

Kenneth Frost showed the group a map of the proposed district which would include boundaries of the Tiburon Sanitary District.

He said such a district would help to solve some of the area's drainage problems since a catch basin could be constructed in the marina to hold runoff water from the hills.

There was some dissent on having the proposed district include only Tiburon. At this point the fire horn blew and Frost, who is a volunteer fireman, had his talk cut short as he dashed to respond to the alarm.

The evening was enlivened by frequent clashes between Mrs. Palmer Field of the Belvedere-Tiburon Conservation League, who reiterated a charge that the area is "overpriced and under-privileged," and local real estate operators.

William M. Rafter said the realty men agreed with her that an open waterfront should be preserved and "we're here to work it out."

Mrs. Field declared the waterfront area is run down and dilapidated.

Kirby Atterbury, Tiburon restaurateur, asked how much money it would cost to finance the district. Sterling said any figure that could be given would be only tentative, and gave no figure.

William Johnstone made the motion, seconded by Mrs. Field, to approve the study. It carried by a show of hands.

Named to the committee for the project were Johnstone, Richard Adams, Francis Newton, Ernest Chamberlain, Mrs. Field and Sperry.

Boy, 16, Leads Deputy On 70-MPH Chase

A 16-year-old boy from Inverness led a squad of police cars on a 30-mile midnight chase from Point Reyes Station to Tamalpais Valley last night at speeds in excess of 70 miles per hour, Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Irving reported today.

A road block set up by sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen, and Mill Valley police finally stopped the 1961 sedan at Shoreline and Panoramic highways in Tamalpais Valley.

SPOTS YOUTH

Deputy Sheriff Robert Bertrand spotted the youth with two 16-year-old companions in Point Reyes Station shortly before midnight. The car spun around on the main street, and Bertrand tried to halt it with sirens and red light.

The car sped south toward Olema, and Bertrand, traveling at speeds up to 70 miles per hour, radioed for help when the patrol car lost ground.

Police cars from throughout the county began converging onto Shoreline Highway where the road block was set up.

HAD SOME BEER

The young driver explained they had some beer in the car and were afraid of being stopped by the deputy sheriff. The driver was sent to Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of speeding, evading arrest, and a series of other traffic charges.

During the chase, the youth's car hit a road sign in Point Reyes and knocked over a half dozen highway markers between Stinson Beach and Muir Beach.

"They came within inches of going over the cliff," said Deputy Irving.

New Mill Valley Group To Probe Marine World

A dozen people met Wednesday night in Mill Valley to found the Mill Valley Citizens Advisory Committee — an organization to advise and inform Mill Valley citizens on preservation and improvement of the community.

Its first project, said Mrs. Albert White, secretary, is the proposed Marine World.

Mrs. White said the committee wants to determine (1) whether the whole concept of the project is in keeping with the character of Mill Valley, and (2) if the city does decide to sell or lease the 18 acres in the marshland to Marin World Inc., whether the offer is sound. It intends to investigate possibilities of other offers, also.

The city council Feb. 7 went on record as favoring the project in policy.

The committee is to be an enduring thing, Mrs. White said. Dr. Alfred J. Rider has been named chairman.

STORM

and Telegraph Co. officials said there was no interruption of service.

No new slides were reported at the Ben Young residence at 298 Belvedere Avenue, Belvedere, which the family was forced to flee on Wednesday. The Tiburon Lumber Co. on Tiburon Boulevard opened yesterday for the first time in three days, with three inches of water still on the floor.

Elsewhere in the state, at least two deaths were caused yesterday by the storm, reported United Press International. A 78-year-old woman was struck and killed while crossing a San Francisco street in a deluge of rain and hail last night, and a 7-year-old girl was drowned when she fell into swollen Upper Arcade Creek near Sacramento.

Lightning, which caused no reported damage in Marin, last night knocked out all activity in the University of California atom-smashing plant in Berkeley and struck and grounded an American Airlines DC-7 cargo plane between Oakland and Portland, Ore., according to Associated Press.

In San Rafael, .41 inches of rain fell during the 24 hours to noon today, bringing the season total to 28.94. At this time last year, 20.33 of rain had fallen on the city.

Marin Municipal Water District engineers reported a total of 17.68 inches of rain at Kent Lake since 8 a.m. last Thursday, the first day of the storm. Total rainfall at the district's other lakes during the week-long storm were Nicasio Dam, 8.43 inches; Alpine Lake, 13.5; Bon Tempe Lake, 12.92; Lagunita Lake, 17.47; Phoenix Lake, 16.42.

Total water storage in the district was reported at 8 a.m. today at 13 billion, 331 million gallons. A normal year's consumption is slightly over seven billion gallons.

Rainfall for the past 24 hours to 8 o'clock this morning throughout the county was: Phoenix Lake, .45 inches; Muir Woods, .48; Santa Venetia, .45; Larkspur, .5; San Anselmo, .37; Bon Tempe Lake, .35; Kent Lake, .24; Alpine Lake, .2; Lagunitas Lake, .4; Woodacre, .21; Fairfax, .2; Novato and Nicasio, .15.

Hub Chamber Bargain Days Plans Completed

Plans for San Anselmo Bargain and Get Acquainted Days, March 1, 2 and 3, were completed by San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce directors at their meeting at the Ranch House yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Patricia Mann, vice president, announced today.

From 25 to 40 merchants are expected to take part, she said.

Meanwhile chamber secretary George G. Washburn has begun a review of programs planned by earlier chambers and learned that all goals set in 1954 have been attained, she said. She said these included extensions of Cedar Street, removal of the brick building from old corporation yard, helping plan the new fire house in the corporation yard and lowering of rates for local business licenses.

State Seizure Of Files At Armory Protested

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The state's seizure of files on alleged subversive activities in Southern California sparked accusations and threat of a lawsuit today.

Retired Maj. Gen. George W. Fisher demanded return of the files. He said they are privately owned and have been used for the state's benefit. He threatened to sue the State of California for $250,000 if they aren't returned.

Maj. Gen. Roderic L. Hill, the adjutant general, personally took the files from a San Diego armory Tuesday. He contended they are state property and said they won't be returned.

The files were sealed and taken to the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification in Sacramento.

Fisher, president of the San Diego Research Library which compiled the files, said that, since 1928, information on 150,000 to 200,000 individuals and organizations has been gathered—not all of a subversive nature.

He said Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Hill know the files don't belong to the state.

"They tried to do the same thing six months ago," Fisher said. "It would seem that somebody is afraid the records in there are detrimental to him."

Hill called the removal a "protective move." He added:

"We had information there had been leaks from the files. I know of no specific instance of compromise but it was primarily a matter of concern that there would be compromise.

"It had been alleged these files were being used by unauthorized persons for purposes not in the best interests of the state."

The San Diego Research Library is an independent anti-Communist organization. Fisher described himself as "an anti-Communist fighter for at least 30 years, dating back to the early 1930s." He said the files were started in 1928 by Maj. Gen. Ralph Van Deman, a former Army intelligence officer. Van Deman died in 1952. Fisher said the information came from official government and congressional reports, ex-Communists, newspaper articles and reports from volunteer informants.

circumstances under which the county would be called to be spelled out.

(County Assistant Chief Bloom noted today that the county fire department is obligated to answer calls for assistance anywhere in Marin, within incorporated cities and fire districts as well as in territory for which it gives the sole fire protection. It responds to calls for aid from all other fire departments without any necessity for a "mutual aid agreement.")

The CSD board postponed until Feb. 26 action on a mutual aid fire protection agreement with Hamilton Air Force Base, deciding it should first be reviewed by the county counsel.

Robert Morris, chairman of the fire commission, said the new fire chief should be on the job by March 15. The fire commission recommended a salary range of $525 to $575 per month.

More than 100 residents were on hand for the CSD board's meeting.

Charges of fire department inefficiency have been injected into the bond issue campaign by opponents of the issue.

Hoytt told the Independent-Journal today the community center site has been held for that purpose "for five or six years now, and it's expensive to keep it.

"In the event the bond issues fail, we're prepared to use the land for other purposes," he said.

Bond proposals to be voted on Tuesday call for $356,000 to buy the land and construct a combination recreation center-firehouse, and $82,000 for a swimming pool on the same 10-acre property. The site is at Miller Creek and Lucas Valley roads.

Hoytt attempted to have the land rezoned for commercial use after a previous bond election failed narrowly last September. The request was denied by the county planning commission to give the CSD a second chance to buy the property.

Powder Plant Explodes —One Dead, 3 Hurt

PINOLE (AP) — An explosion in the Hercules Powder Plant here today killed one person and injured three others, two seriously, the Pinole Police Department said.

Officer Tells Of Domestic Ills At Trial

San Gabriel contractor, Robert Burdette Rogers, 43, had previous domestic troubles with his 35-year-old wife, whom he is accused of murdering on Aug. 7, 1959, a San Rafael police officer testified today.

Officer Leon A. deLisle told jurors he was called to 9 Greenwood Avenue, the home of Mrs. Blondie Devericks, the dead woman's mother.

Officer deIisle said Rogers asked him if there is any law that permits a husband to kill his wife if she is caught with another man. The officer said he told Rogers that California does not allow such violence.

A jury of nine women and three men are hearing the case before Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Defense lawyer George T. Davis contends Rogers was temporarily out of his mind because of his wife's affairs with another man.

this observation: "I think perhaps Mr. McBee means that prices differ in different localities," to which McBee nodded.

Defense lawyers immediately jumped up to object to Bales' observation. The audience snickered. Jurors brought their hands to their mouths to hide grins.

"Mr. Bales," roared Judge Brusatori, "if I hear any more such comments from you, I'll hold you in contempt. I want no further editorial comments!"

"That should apply to all counsel," Bales muttered.

Agent McBee then proceeded to acquaint the jurors with narcotics jargon and prices of heroin and marijuana.

"Stuff" refers to heroin, and "hooked" means addiction, said McBee. He said heroin prices in the Bay Area average $500 an ounce. In smaller quantities, the narcotic comes in $5, $10, or $20 "papers."

Marijuana is less expensive, selling for $75 to $125 per pound. Single marijuana cigarettes retail for $1 apiece, three $2, or five for $3, said McBee.

About 10 to 15 peyote buttons sell for $5 to $15.

McBee testified he was among the officers who arrested Anna Maria Kellam, 25, the prosecution's chief witness, at her Oakland home on the night of Nov. 13, 1961. Mrs. Kellam testified earlier that she got heroin at the home of Mrs. Pauline Herrera in Los Angeles and smuggled them into prison.

San Geronimo Lots Discussed

With County Planning Director B. D. Dobbs present, the San Geronimo Master Plan Committee last night discussed proposed minimum lot sizes outside the planned community areas in San Geronimo, Forest Knolls and Lagunitas.

About 25 members attended. Dobbs indicated from a map what the area might look like on the basis of tentative lot sizes and uses permitted.

Dobbs said he will have the planning staff conduct a more detailed study of lot sizes and suggested densities for reconsideration at the next meeting Thursday.

Corte Madera Planners Set Rezone Hearing

The Corte Madera Planning Commission Wednesday night set a public hearing for March 12 on rezoning from single-family, 7,000-square foot lot size, to single-family, 20,000-square-foot lot size, about 15 acres between Montecito Drive and Corte Madera Avenue.

The Independent-Journal, in error, reported yesterday the proposed rezoning would be from single family to multiple family.

Amy DuPont Dies

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Miss Amy E. DuPont, 81, daughter of a founder of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours business enterprises centered in Wilmington, Del., died today of a stroke suffered Jan. 10.

OBITUARIES

Henry Norton Dies At 57

Henry Norton, 57, construction foreman and laborer in Marin for more than 20 years, died in a local hospital early today, apparently of a heart attack.

Norton, of 111 Mabry Way, Santa Venetia, was admitted to the hospital last Friday.

A native of Thompson Falls, Mont., Norton came to Marin in 1941, settling in Sausalito. During World War II he worked in the Marinship shipyard. Later he was employed by Landon Pools of Belmont and helped construct swimming pools in the Bay Area including Marin.

Off and on for the past four years he had been employed by Ceccotti and Son of Marin, Inc., of Corte Madera.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Laura Norton; two sons, Charles of San Francisco and Harry of San Jose; three daughters, Mrs. Jean Radcliffe of San Diego, Mrs. Dorothy Tompkins of Clovis, N.M., and Miss Irene Norton of the Santa Venetia address; a sister, Mrs. Ethel Coons of San Francisco, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were pending at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Purse Stolen While Working At Church

Mrs. B. Wrisley of 135 Kipling Drive, Mill Valley, reported to police this morning that her purse was stolen while she was working at a bake sale at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour at 10 Old Mill Street.

In addition to $10 to $15 in cash, she said, the purse contained her driver's license, glasses valued at $50, identification and credit cards, and car and house keys.

Tam Sanitation Board Meeting

The Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District board will hold an adjourned meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the firehouse to consider an agreement for servicing four apartment buildings behind Peace Luthern Church on Tennessee Valley Road.

The apartments are within the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitation District but owners have asked services from Tamalpais Valley because of the proximity in location.

Bids are to be opened March 14 on installing a trunk line extension between Pine Hill Road and Peralta Avenue.

THEY'LL REMOVE 'WALL' — George Harrison, chief switchman for the Novato branch of the Western California Telephone Co., tests the 30 switches which will be thrown at 12:01 a.m. tomorrow to connect North and South Novato in one dialing system for the entire city. (Independent-Journal photo)

'RING ME TOMORROW

Novatans At Last Linked By Phones

At 12:01 a.m. tomorrow, it will be possible for Novato telephone users to dial numbers anywhere in their city, without going through an operator and paying a toll charge.

Two banks of switches, 16 on one and 14 on the other, will be thrown at that minute in the Novato plant of Western California Telephone Co. People will then be able to dial back and forth between the 383 or TUcker 3 and 892 or TWinbrook 2 and 897 or TWinbrook 7 exchanges.

The connecting system has already been tested, said George Harrison, chief switchman for the Novato branch of Western California Telephone Co.

Ross Wright, local manager of the company, said the tie between the two parts of the has been a long time in planning and preparation. It took three months to install the equipment after it was delivered, he said.

The company has installed 20 lines from the TUcker exchange which has 900 phones to the TWinbrook exchanges which have 6,400 phones. There are 15 lines going from the TWinbrook exchanges to the TUcker exchange.

"It took several miles of wire to connect the two exchanges both in wiring them inside the offices and between the offices," Harrison said.

There will not be a toll charge for individual calls, Wright said. However, TWinbrook phone owners will pay an additional 15 cents per month for a business phone. TUcker phone owners will pay 25 cents more per month for house phones and 50 cents for business phones.

Flood Conditions On San Rafael Agenda

Flood conditions will be the first item under discussion by the San Rafael City Council at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the city hall.

Letters from residents of the Dominican area, received at city hall this week, complained of stoppage of sewers and backing up of water in household facilities. Included in the discussion will be city plans for new sewers throughout the city, requested by Public Works Director Norris Rawles.

"Many of the city's sewers are from 80 to 100 years old," Rawles said, including those in the Dominican area. The project was estimated at more than $100,000.

Up for final adoption by the council will be ordinance controlling food handling and adoption of the uniform building code.

Rezoning of La Vista Way off Lincoln Avenue from single family to duplex residential, approved by the planning commission, will be considered.

San Rafael Elks Lodge 1108 will ask permission to stage a circus on Albert Field May 26.

Engineers Extend Deadline For Decision On Causeway

Time will be given the Marin County Planning Commission to consider and recommend on the proposed Santa Venetia Island causeway before any determination on the matter is attempted by the Army Corps of Engineers, according to the engineers' San Farancisco office today.

Original deadline for receipt of protests against the causeway, on navigational grounds, was tomorrow. But a considerable number of protests have been received from local residents, notably a 120-name petition from the Gallinas Creek Causeway Committee. This in itself would be a cause for further investigation before decision, a spokesman for the Army's district engineer said.

Though the attitude of the engineers will be navigational grounds entirely, the planners can deal with the subject on broad grounds. Arrangements have been made for attendance at Monday's meeting of both opponents and of the Billings-Hutchinson firm which proposes a solid fill approach to the island.

Band Concert Set By 260 Students At Terra Linda

A band concert by 260 students from four high schools will be presented Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Terra Linda High School gymnasium.

The bands of San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools will combine to form one musical group of 140 students. Students from Davidson and Santa Venetia junior high schools will form another band of 120 students.

It will be the first time that the bands have merged. School officials hope to make the concert an annual event.

Concert conductors will be band directors Gordon Lowe of Terra Linda High; Melvin Stanley of San Rafael High and Davidson, and Jean Stevens of Santa Venetia.

Job Security Trainee Exams Set March 24

Examinations for the position of employment security trainee with the State Department of Employment will be conducted March 24, Edwin W. Ayer, San Rafael office manager, announced today.

Applications and details on qualifications may be obtained from his office at 805 E Street, he said. Beginning salary is $436 a month.

San Francisco, Marin Plans Unit Proposed

Formation of a joint Marin County-San Francisco committee to work toward a regional master plan will be proposed at a Monday session of the Marin County Planning Commission by Commissioner Felix M. Warburg, he said today.

He put this idea before San Francisco's City Planning Commission yesterday in the course of voicing strong opposition to the proposed San Francisco-Tiburon Bridge, which he witheringly dismissed as so ill-conceived as to "make no sense at all."

Opposition by Warburg, an architect, and a group of Tiburon residents was instrumental in causing the San Francisco commissioners to vote unanimously against the proposed new span.

A resolution adopted by the San Francisco Planning Commission urged a "total examination of transportation needs in the San Francisco Bay Area on a regional basis" before commitment to any sort of new Marin connection save possibly rapid transit on the Golden Gate Bridge. It further urged that there be no further expenditure of public money in such connection save for traffic studies until a regional plan can be worked out.

Denouncing the bridge before the San Francisco meeting, besides Warburg, were Fred C. Hannahs, John Peter Eichorn and Elmo L. DeMartini of Tiburon.

Marin Boy Scout Week Winners Told

Cub and Boy Scout winners of the annual B'nai B'rith Boy Scout Week window display contest in Marin County were announced today by Herbert K. Walton Jr., chairman of the Marin Scout Council's activities committee.

For Miwok District, winners were Pack 58, sponsored by the West Novato School Parent-Teacher Assn., and Troop 27, sponsored by the National Sojourners Club of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Redwood District winners were Pack 5, sponsored by Isabel Cook School P-TA in San Anselmo, and Troop 24, sponsored by the Corte Madera Lions Club.

Southern District winners were Pack 1, sponsored by Mill Valley American Legion, and Troop 34, sponsored by the Mill Valley Optimist Club.

Explorer Post 56, sponsored by the Novato Rotary Club, was winner for best Explorer unit in the entire council.

Mosk Rules Out Federal Meetings In Secrecy Law

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —California's anti-secrecy law — commonly referred to as the Ralph M. Brown Act — does not cover agencies regulated by the federal law. Atty Gen. Stanley Mosk says.

Mosk said the law that forbids secret meetings of state, county or local governmental bodies does not apply to such organizations as the California Assn. of Port Authorities which are subject to federal regulation.

The port association had asked for the attorney general's opinion.

"Even though it is desirable that all organizations conduct their meetings openly, we cannot find that the state law compels a federal agency to do so," Mosk concluded.

Hub City Planners To Elect Chairmen

A new chairman and vice chairman will be elected for this year at a meeting of the San Anselmo Planning Commission Monday night. The commission will meet at 8 p.m. in the city hall.

Other items on the agenda include a public hearing on the new zoning ordinance and zoning map, and discussion of a proposed six-lot subdivision at 349 Redwood Road.

New business includes requests for five small subdivisions and several variances.

ARCHITECT FEARS MARIN CITY SLUM

To Go Before County Planners, Says Some Plans Must Be Changed

Plans for the single-family portion of Marin City redevelopment must be revised if the area is not to become a slum, architect John Lord King of Belvedere declared today.

King, chairman of the consultant committee of architects for the project, said he will go before the county planning commission Monday to ask that the plans be revised.

Anshen Allen of De Silva Island, also on the committee with Bolton White, said recommendations were made two years ago for changes and "we assumed they would be incorporated. This certainly will be a slum area if the changes are not made."

King, who said the committee has just finished reviewing the plans, said a majority of the proposed single family homes are on small lots and the minimum cost proposed by the redevelopers would make it more feasible to build row houses.

He said the committee will ask the planning commission to concentrate on the construction of good row houses rather than single detached houses. "In this way," King declared, "the number of roads and utilities would be reduced and the row houses would have yards that would be bigger than those for detached homes."

"We made some drastic reports on the first stage of the project, and hoped our recommendation would be followed. They have not," said King. "If they are not taken into consideration soon, there is going to be a stink."

Bert Klahn, redevelopment agency executive director, defended the plans, saying, "It is our feeling that the plans that have been prepared and developed by the architectural firm of De Mars and Reay are definitely acceptable."

Hearing on the Marin City architectural plans will be held at 11 a.m. Monday by the county planning commission, chairman William Upton announced. He authorized setting a specific time to avoid possible conflict with the time of the regular Monday afternoon meeting of the redevelopment agency commission.

Marin City Job Bids To Be Opened

Bids are to be opened at 1:30 p.m. Monday by the Marin County Development Agency Commission on temporary market facilities in Marin City.

The two present markets, Brice Brothers and Waldo, have indicated they would bid for a new single market site in a demountable building to be located on the future high school site.

Relocation is necessary, the commission has stated, so new roads may be built. Buildings in the present commercial area will be demolished.

Paper Racks Broken Into; Youths Held

Three youths, two from Marin City and one from San Rafael, were arrested early today in Sausalito, and admitted they had broken into three newspaper racks in Ross, one in front of Ross Police Station.

Bruce Wayne Walter, 19, of 345 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was booked into county jail, for petty theft, violating the curfew, and contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Taken to juvenile hall were the 16-year-olds, one from San Rafael and one from Marin City. They were charged with violation of the Sausalito city curfew, which is 10:30 p.m.

With Patrolman Michael Berney at the time of arrest was Thomas P. Hunter, expert hired by the city to analyze the police setup in Sausalito following protests by citizens. Hunter is night supervisor with the State Bureau of Criminal Indentification and Investigation.

Berney said the three youths were found at 1:30 a.m. in the all-night Sausalito Coin Launderette at Napa and Caledonia streets.

The youths were taken to the police station. Another officer searched their car and found $10 in pennies, nickles and dimes stuffed in ash trays, under the floor mat, behind the instrument panel, under seats, and in the cigarette lighter.

Gate Players Must Pay $1,000 In Rent

Gate Five Productions must pay up $1,000 in back rent on Sausalito's Gate Playhouse by March 4 or be locked out.

Al Lanier of San Francisco, who owns the playhouse, today said he had given the producing company the March 4 deadline.

To meet this and other debts — largely inherited from former management — Gate Five Productions will hold a Mardi Gras ball on March 3 aboard the ferry boat Charles Van Damme at 3500 Bridgeway, with all proceeds to go toward meeting the theater's debts, said Ann Carrol, chairman for the dance.

Lanier said if the $1,000 is paid, he will grant Gate Five Productions a long-term lease on the theater. Otherwise, he said he will seek another tenant.

The costume ball will start at 8 p.m. and go on "indefinitely," Miss Carol added. There will be a single admission charge for a buffet supper, dancing and entertainment. Prizes will be given for best costumes.

Tickets are on sale at the Gate Playhouse at 688 Bridgeway Fridays and Saturdays starting at 7 p.m. and at Crane Box Office, San Francisco.

Juanita Musson has loaned the use of the ferry boat, where her restaurant is to be located.

Quentin Escaper Jailed In Arizona

George Allen Brice, 34, who escaped from the minimum security ranch outside San Quentin Prison walls on Feb. 5, 1961, was captured in Maricopa County, Ariz., late yesterday, Asst. Warden Dale B. Frady reported today. The fugitive was held in the county jail in Phoenix.

Brice, a two-time loser, escaped with Frank Lee Jr., who was caught in Merced last May, and returned to the prison.

Brice was admitted to the prison May 20, 1960 from Humboldt County for receiving stolen property while on parole after a prior prison term for first degree burglary and rape in San Diego County.

Youths In Hub Theater Brawl Get Jail Terms

Two youths, who took wine into Tamalpais Theater and hurt an usherette who asked them to leave, drew jail terms yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Richard L. Aregger, 18, of 55 Corte Morada, Greenbrae, must spend 60 days in jail for battery against the usherette, Mrs. Glenda Dooley, 27, of San Rafael.

William H. Switzer, 18, of 1414 Scenic Avenue, San Anselmo, must spend 45 days in jail for disturbing the peace and illegal possession of liquor.

San Anselmo police arrested the pair the night of Jan. 21. Mrs. Dooley said she asked the two to leave because they were creating a disturbance. They refused, using profane language. She said Aregger twisted her right arm and injured it.

High Income Families Show Unbridled Enthusiasm for Newspapers

Nearly everyone in town reads a daily newspaper. Among the heaviest readers, according to a survey by the Psychological Corporation, are upper social-economic urban families. Another study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture found middle and high income groups were heavier newspaper readers than low income groups. This survey showed 73% of the low income group said they had read the newspaper, while the score increased to 88% for middle income groups and 95% for high income groups. No matter what service or product you sell, no matter what income group you want to reach, you reach more people through the daily newspaper.

Marichal Responsible For Official Clarification In Baseball Rules

HANLEY

Juan Marichal, the Dominican Dandy who became the first of the Giants' Caribbean contingent to sign his 1962 contract, is responsible for an official clarification in major league baseball rules.

"Yes, you could say that without anyone contradicting you," said Chub Fenney, member of the rules committee when he isn't acting as vice president of the Giant ball club.

Charlie Dressen, trying to fluster Marichal in his third major league start a couple of years ago, protested Marichal's pitching delivery was illegal. That was on July 28, 1960, when Marichal was beating Warren Spahn and the Braves 3-2 for his third straight rookie win after a one-hit 1-0 debut against the Phillies and a four-hit 3-1 victory over the Pirates.

Everyone, including plate umpire Jocko Conlan, knew that the wily Dressen's primary purpose was to unnerve the then 21-year-old rookie. Dressen claimed Marichal was pitching off the side of the rubber and that his free foot wasn't striding in a line directly in front of the pitching plate.

CONLON AND his first first base umpire Ken Burkhart carefully watched Marichal in warm up pitches before the start of the third inning while Dressen kept pointing to Marichal's pivot foot on the plate and his striding free foot. Finally, Conlan said: "C'mon let's play ball—there's nothing illegal about the way he's pitching."

Last spring National League president Warren Giles issued a bulletin to all N.L. umpires and, in effect, it reaffirmed Conlan's ruling. Now, the official 1962 edition of major league baseball rules has just come off the press and they clarify the matter once and for all.

ALTHOUGH IT always was illegal for a pitcher to make his delivery from the side of the pitching plate, whether in windup or set position, it took the 1962 rules to remove any doubt. The new rules state:

"The windup position. The pitcher shall stand facing the batter, his entire pivot foot on, or in front of and touchnig and not off the end of the pitcher's plate, and the other foot free . . ."

The phrase "not off the end of the pitcher's plate" never previously was included in the definition of the windup position, although it always was part of the set position definition.

THUS, THE insertion of the new phrase might be interpreted as a change in the rules, that heretofore a pitcher could make his delivery with only the toe of his pivot foot touching the side of the plate while he was in windup position.

"That's not true," said Feeney. "There was no change in the rules, merely a clarifying restatement. The Marichal-Dressen incident spotlighted the need for clarification. It doesn't mean that Marichal's delivery was illegal. To the contrary, it always was legal and he will continue to use his same delivery this year."

Drake Cagers Try Spoiler Role Tonight

By PAUL MILLER

The Sir Francis Drake Pirates, who have had less than an influential voice in Marin County Athletic League hoop contests this season, can throw a fat wrench into the wheels tonight—if they still have what it takes.

Drake plays a MCAL game at San Rafael tonight. The hosts are 6-1 in the league and at the summit of the standings. The Pirates are at the base, but in the second round of loop play have made every team work hard to defeat them. If Carl Brown's Pirates upset San Rafael it would throw the loop's top spot into a three-way tie provided Redwood and Marin Catholic, both with 5-2 records at second place, win their games.

Redwood hosts Novato and Marin Catholic hosts Tamalpais. All tonight's MCAL preliminary games begin at 7 o'clock. The game will be broadcast by Ted Mitchell and Karl Barron over KTIM-FM (100.9 mc.), 8:25.

In other contests involving Marin high school teams today, the San Rafael Military Academy played a Bay Counties contest against Emery in Emeryville; Tomales hosts Geyserville, 7 p.m., and Terra Linda did the same with the Redwood Junior Varsity this afternoon.

In the Bulldog-Pirate game, just about the only way the Pirates can do the trick—scramble the league—is have gunners Brad Busch and John McBride both hitting well the same evening. Plus Mark Boero, John Wallace and Dave Manuel will have to work overtime on the backboards.

Coach Mike Diaz' Bulldogs probably feel they are not about to let the loop's cellar club mar their league leading record. The combatant Bulldogs who will see to it most of the evening will be Bruce MacPhail, senior forward; Rich Robertson, backboard man and point maker; Jack Sovereign, Rod Monti, Jack Haney, Bret Tovani and Norm Riella, all of whom have been high point men at least once during the season. If they all should break loose against Drake and the Pirates at the same time have one of their cold spells, the Bulldogs will come down on them like the mud slides of Southern California.

The Redwood Giants will have a suspicious eye out for

Tucson Open Easy Pickings For Unknowns

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lesser known pros are having a field day in the $20,000 Tucson Open golf tournament that goes into the second round today.

Buddy Sullivan, who has never won a PGA event in 12 years as a pro, leads with 32-30-61, equal to the competitive course record.

Bob Stone — a vacationing club pro from Junction City, Kan., who hasn't qualified for the final rounds this winter—had a first round 63 yesterday. So did amateur Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson.

Bob Harrison, Fayetteville, N.C., has yet to win his first dime on the tour, but he's tied with Tom Nieporte, Cincinnati, and Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., a stroke back. Rodgers is the No. 3 money winner of the year.

Four strokes off the pace with 65s are Dick Bury, Bob Duden, Mike Krak and Glenn Teal.

SAME METHOD

They all used the same method to master the 6,484-yard, par 70 El Rio Golf and Country Club layout—sharp wedge shots to the greens and excellent putting.

Underdogs invariably do well in the early rounds here, with the big names surging forward on closing day. There are plenty of them poised close behind the leaders.

Jerry Barber, PGA champ and golfer of the year in 1961, is in a group of 10 with 66s. So is 1959 golfer of the year Art Wall Jr.

Just a stroke back of them are ex-PGA champ Lionel Hebert, Gene Littler and nine others.

Sullivan had an exciting day. First he had to give police a list of the clothing, clubs and other golfing equipment stolen from his car during the night. Then he had the best round since he became a pro.

"I had everything going for me," he grinned. "Everything I hit on the greens went in the hole. I had nine birdies and my longest putt was only 15 feet.

So far this year he has won only $136.

Austrians Monopolize World Ski Competition

CHAMONIX, France (AP)—An amazing Austrian ski team that treats the Alps as a backyard playground is turning the World Ski Championships into a private game of monopoly.

With four of the six races already run, the Austrians have claimed three gold medals, two silver and two bronze. France has won one first place and one second place. The best American showing has been a third place. No other nation has broken into the top three.

The Austrians' showing continued in yesterday's giant slalom, sweeping the first three places. Buddy Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., led the four Americans, finishing fifth.

Egon Zimmerman swept down the twisting, 9,280-foot course in 1 minute, 38.97 seconds and finished just ahead of favored teammate Karl Shranz, who finished in 1:39.-12. Werner was more than a full second back.

Jim Houga of Tahoe City, Calif., was 12th, Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., was 15th and Bill Marolt of Aspen, Colo., 19th.

Only practice sessions are scheduled today.

The races went on as the World Ski Games. But last night President Marc Hodler of the International Ski Federation announced the council had reversed itself and restyled the games as the world championships, subject to later approval by a special FIS council.

Cal Baseball Coach Says Game Needs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — George Wolfman, baseball coach at the University of California, feels that college baseball should be televised.

"I feel that we would help our attendance if games were televised," he told a luncheon of local baseball coaches. "It would prove to fans that college ballplayers don't run around with their caps in their hands and their stockings coming down."

Wolfman said that some college games in the Los Angeles area were to be televised this season.

Stanford coach Dutch Fehring said it was "high time college baseball gets the recognition it so richly deserves."

Fehring said he hoped baseball would become an official sport at the Olympic Games.

'68 Olympics May Include Baseball

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Stanford Baseball Coach Dutch Fehring aims to have the sport a part of the Olympics program for the 1968 games.

The former Purdue star athlete is chairman of the U.S. Olympic Committee's baseball group and he outlined plans to newsmen yesterday.

"We are trying to get baseball as part of the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo on an exhibition or demonstration basis," Fehring explained.

He believes Olympic baseball in 1968 to be a good possibility unless the games are voted to Russia, which does not have baseball.

Peruvian Soccer Team To Play S.F. All-Stars Sunday

The first big international soccer match of the 1962 season will be held at San Francisco's Balboa Stadium Sunday when the championship team from Peru plays San Francisco United, a squad composed of all-star players from the San Francisco Soccer League.

The Peruvian team, known as the Sporting Cristals from Lima, are on a world tour, which takes them to Hong Kong, throughout Asia and Europe. Their San Francisco game will be their only contest on American soil.

Kickoff time will be at 2:30 o'clock.

Safety Fund Drive Will Open Tomorrow

DENVER (AP)—A fund-raising drive designed to help advance safety in ski areas will be opened tomorrow by the National Ski Patrol System.

The slogan for the campaign is "SOS—Safety on Skis."

The patrol will seek to raise $250,000 through donations by skiers at approximately 400 snow sports areas throughout the country.

Louise Suggs Leads First Round Of Women's Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —The $7,500 St. Petersburg Women's Open Golf Tournament moves into its second round with 1959 titleholder Louise Suggs holding a slim lead.

The Atlanta golfer carded a 35-35—70 in opening round play yesterday on the 6,116-yard course.

Defending champion Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex., leading money winner in the Ladies Professional Golf Association, carded a 36-37—73 to wind up in a two-way tie for ninth place.

Tied for second at 71 in the 72-hole tournament were Barbara Romack of Palm Beach; Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill.; Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga., and JoAnn Prentice of Columbia, S.C.

NINE GIANTS ONLY HAVE YET TO SIGN

The San Francisco Giants today had all but nine players under contract following the signing of the hard-throwing righthander, Juan Marichal.

Marichal, 24, compiled a 13-10 record last year despite the fact that he missed the final 20 games of the year with a heel injury. He says the foot is in tip-top shape again.

Marichal won seven straight during the middle part of the season. These wins included four shutouts. His season record showed 185 innings pitched, 124 strikeouts, 48 walks, and an earned run average of 3.89. He was thought to have signed for around $18,000.

Demaret Still Top Man In Senior Test

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Demaret was a stronger favorite in the PGA National Seniors Golf Championship prior to his second round today than just after he posted a 5-under-par 67 Wednesday.

The older group—55 and over—eased off a fast starting pace on their second round yesterday. Charlie Sheppard of Pittsfield, Mass., whose 66 was the best of all ages in the first round, slipped to 71 for 137.

Demaret must reckon with 22 other par breakers in his 50-54 age group.

Stockton Fighter Wins

STOCKTON (AP) — Jose Luis Ramieriz, 123, Mexico, was knocked out by Dommy Felicia, 123½, Stockton, in the second round of their scheduled 10-rounder last night. Felicia caught Ramieriz with a right that ended it in 1:25 of the second.

Wreck Kills Charger Star

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Bob Laraba, 28-year-old linebacker for the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League, was killed today when his station wagon crashed into a light pole in a rain storm.

Police said his car was traveling at 65 to 70 miles an hour.

When Cash On Line, Hitter Lynch Is Mean

UP INTERNATIONAL

General manager Bill Dewitt of the Cincinnati Reds agrees today with National League pitchers who've said right along that pinchhitter Jerry Lynch is a mighty tough hombre when the cash is on the line.

Lynch batted a cool .404 as a pinch hitter last season and announced he wanted plenty of cold cash in return. To prove it, he rejected Dewitt's first two salary offers and then went to Cincinnati yesterday to confront the boss in person.

N. L. pitchers predicted the result unanimously: husky Jerry hit a fast ball right back into Dewitt's teeth.

Then Dewitt relented, husky Jerry smiled and said he'd even brush up a bit on his fielding and the two agreed to a salary estimated at $23,500.

"It's time pinch hitters received the same recognition accorded top relief pitchers," said Lynch, who numbered five home runs among his 1961 pinch hits. "And I figure it's time I set a salary precedent."

Lynch, who is viewed primarily as a pinch-hitter although he did bat .315 in 96 games for the season, is pulling down one of the highest salaries in history for his specialty. Johnny Mize probably earned $25,000 to $27,000 as a pinch-hitting specialist for the Yankees and Dusty Rhodes may have been paid $20,000 by the Giants after his fabulous pinch-hitting exploits of 1954.

The N. L. champion Reds near the opening of spring training with 10 unsigned players, including 21-game winner Joey Jay and star outfielder Vada Pinson. Dewitt said Pinson is driving to Cincinnati to talk terms this weekend.

Pitcher Ralph Terry (16-3) and utility man Hector Lopez (.222) signed with the world champion Yankees — each for about $24,000. Roger Maris, Elston Howard, Cletis Boyer and Bobby Richardson are the unsigned Yankees of whom general manager Roy Hamey remarks: "I expect no trouble at all from Howard, Boyer or Richardson."

Maris, whose 61 homers last season made him baseball's new all-time home run king, is believed to be demanding $75.-000 compared to an offer of $60,000 by the club. Maris and Hamey haven't talked since last weekend.

The Los Angeles Dodgers revealed the signing of fleet outfielder Willie Davis, who had a .254 average in 128 games last season. The 21-year-old outfielder said he is looking forward to playing in the Dodgers' new Chavez Ravine home rather than going through another year in the tricky coliseum where he hit only .203 in 1961.

Pitcher Bob Gibson, outfielder Doc Landrum and first-baseman Joff Long signed with the St. Louis Cardinals, leaving 11 unsigned players on the club's 40-man roster. Gibson had a 13-12 record and 3.24 earned-run average with the Redbirds last season. Landrum and Long played in the minors.

Zora Scores KO Over Big DeJohn In Third Round

DENVER (UPI) — Quick-fisted Zora Folley turned tiger in the third round tonight to knock big Mike DeJohn to the canvas three times for a knockout victory in their scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout at auditorium arena.

Folley of Chandler, Ariz., weighed 194 pounds. DeJohn, who fights out of Syracuse, N.Y., was in top condition at 208 pounds.

The fourth-ranked Folley hurt DeJohn with a solid right early in the third round and then floored him twice for the mandatory eight count before putting DeJohn away at 2:24 of the third. It was the 36th knockout victory for the smooth fighting Folley.

A crowd estimated at 6,500 paid an estimated $20,000 to watch the furious match. They were rewarded with three rounds of energetic exchanges.

LIVIE INJURED

Tar Ace May Miss Big Game Tonight

College of Marin Tars may be without the services of their top scorer when they meet the American River Junior College Beavers in a showdown battle for first place tonight at Sacramento.

Sophomore Lynn Livie, top shooter on last year's team and owner of a 20-plus point average in 23 games this season, is nursing a sprained ankle received in the final quarter of Marin's game with Shasta College last weekend.

"Lynn has not worked out with the team this week," said head coach Cal Riemcke. "We'll just have to wait and see how he feels at game time. If he isn't ready, Charlie Bullock will start in his place."

The crucial game brings together two clubs tied for first place in the Golden Valley Conference, each with a 6-1 record. The two teams have met twice before, once in pre-conference play and once in a regular conference contest. American River won the non - conference game in December by a 78-70 score and Marin took the second encounter in January by an 81-69 margin.

SCORING THREATS

Riemcke again will be faced with the task of holding down American River's big scoring threats, Bob Lewis and Bob Oliver. The last time the two teams met, Riemcke gave Tar forward Dave Neumann the assignment of covering Lewis. Neumann handled the job beautifully, holding the 6-5 center to one field goal and five free throws. The Mariners were not as successful with Oliver, who finished the game with 37 points. Riemcke figures to work a similar special defense in this game.

"The team, aside from Livie's doubtful status, is close to peak strength," said Riemcke.

BETTER BALANCE

"Our scoring is better balanced now. Both Livie and Neumann came up with more than 20 points. In addition, we had 14, 16, and 17 point totals from three other players.

"With Jim Mitchell gone, we do lack some rebounding strength. This is to take nothing away from Mike Kavanagh, who is doing a nice job."

"We outran the Beavers last time," added Riemcke. "I hope we can do it again."

Baseball Speedup Rules Opposed

Coach George Wolfman of the University of California says, "No."

And as usual, differences in opinion between the two traditional rival institutions brought a spirited discussion on whether too much time is now needed to play a game.

At Stanford, the freshmen and junior varsity will put a speed-up plan into action for their games this month and next. Under the plan, approved by Fehring, who is also chairman of the U. S. Olympic Committee's baseball group, the following changes will be made.

1. No warm-up pitches between innings.

2. No tossing the ball around the infield after each out.

3. Offensive and defensive teams must run off of and onto the field.

4. The team at bat may be allowed a courtesy runner for the pitcher if he has reached base.

5. Courtesy runners shall be allowed for the catcher after two men are out in order to give him time to put on his gear.

6. Intentional walks to first base may be handed out by the defensive team without pitching to the batter.

"I like the status quo," Wolfman declared. "With those rules it would be a new game . . . and I don't think the changes are needed."

Coach George McGlynn of the University of San Francisco went along with Wolfman, claiming,

Coach Paddy Cottrell of Santa Clara voiced approval of the proposals in general.

"I think you have to go along with new ways of thinking," he declared.

$10.2 Million Gets College TV Rights

NEW YORK —The Columbia Broadcasting system, pulling a coup unequalled in sports broadcasting history, owned the two biggest football plums available today—the exclusive television rights for the regular season games of the National Football League and the nation's colleges in 1962-63.

The network successfully bid a whopping $10.2 millions yesterday for the Saturday games of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. after last month agreeing to pay $9.4 millions for NFL games. The network now will have a total expenditure of $19.5 millions for regulare season football games alone, during the next two years.

The college pact was the bigbest single package ever paid on a per year basis, with the NFL pact second. The National Broadcasting Co., which made a losing bid of $8.8 millions, is paying $20 mlilion for a 5-year contract to present the World Series and All-Star baseball games.

CBS was an absolute darkhorse in the bidding, with NBC figured to fight it out with the American Broadcasting Co. for the rights. ABC held the pact for the past two years, paying $6.12 millions and bid $8.7 millions yesterday.

The only other live football series in ABC's contract with the American Football League for its regular season and championship games. NBC, which lost two NFL teams when CBS signed its package deal with the pro league last month, owns the pros' title game, and also has various postseason college games.

"We were surprised, though not completely," a delighted Bill MacPhail, CBS' vice president in charge of sports, said afterward. "We thought the bid was a good one for we realize how popular the college games are. This makes us the top football network, and it's given us something we've always wanted."

Under terms of the NCAA television code, there will be 14 broadcast dates for each of the two years, an increase of one per year over the old contract. The first date this year is listed for Sept. 15. The series will conclude Dec. 8, the week after the Army-Navy game.

Bill Flynn, of Holy Cross, chairman of the NCAA television committee, made the announcement of the acceptance after each network submitted its price in a sealed envelope. The bids were one-shot affairs, and the committee debated several hours before announcing acceptance.

Al Dark Tops Ball Players' Golf Tourney

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Alvin Dark, manager of the San Francisco Giants, held a slim lead today over former Giant Jim Hearn, his ever-present rival for the National Baseball Players Championship golf tournament.

Dark won the tournament three times, losing to Hearn in 1960.

"He's always right there," said Dark yesterday after posting a 35-39-74 in the first round of the 72-hole tournament over the 6,333-yard Miami Springs Country Club course. Hearn, a manufacturer's representative from Atlanta, carded a 39-36-75.

Roy Cullenbine, formerly with the Detroit Tigers, carded a 34-35-69, the low score of the day, in the inactive major league division.

Marinwood League Signups Tomorrow

Registration of players for the Marinwood Little League's 1962 season will be held tomorrow, 9 a.m. to noon, at the Mary E. Silveira School, announced Mrs. Albert Leibovitz, league secretary.

Each candidate must be accompanied by a parent and must present proof of birth date. A donation of $5 per family will be solicited at the registration, Mrs. Leibovitz said, to help defray operating costs of the league.

Also, mothers interested in joining the league's auxiliary unit may do so at tomorrow's registration.

RUNAWAY OR DOGFIGHT?

Tense Action In Big 5 This Week

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Will the Big Five basketball race be a run-away romp for the upstart UCLA quintet or will it be a four-team dogfight going down to the wire?

That is the question before the house as Southern California takes on UCLA in a pivotal two-game series in Los Angeles this weekend.

The Trojans are tenth-ranked in the nation on the basis of their 13-5 record, but UCLA—led by sharp-shooting Johnny Green—has moved out fast in the Big Five race with a 5-0 mark.

The Trojans (4-3) could throw things wide open with a sweep, while a split would still leave the Bruins securely in first and a Bruin sweep would just about end the race right there.

Rooting hard for the Trojans will be two more contenders, Stanford (3-3) and Washington (5-5). Stanford plays California (0-6) twice this weekend, while Washington has no conference action scheduled.

The Huskies will be far from idle, however. Saturday night they host Oregon State, winner of 17 out of 18 games. If anybody can slow down Mel Counts and company, it should be the Huskies who are always dynimite on their home court as Southern California and Stanford can attest.

The action is also tense in the West Coast Athletic Conference. League-leading St. Mary's (5-0) must face rough Santa Clara Saturday night, while those two pretenders to the throne, Pepperdine and Loyola (both 4-2) host San Jose State and Pacific.

Baxter Mile Run Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Beatty, the world's first indoor sub-four-minute miler, heads the field in the Baxter mile in the New York Athletic Club Games tonight.

Just last Saturday night in the Los Angeles Times meet, the 22-year-old University of North Carolina graduate chopped a huge hunk out of Ron Delany's indoor record of 4:01.4, hitting the tape in 3:58.9. He was the first ever to break four minutes on boards.

Lined up against Beatty will be Pete Close of the New York Athletic Club, John Reilly of Georgetown, Garry Wiesiger of the Quantico Marines and Tom O'Hara of Chicago Loyola. None has broken 4:05.

WEATHER CLOSES M.V. GOLF COURSE

The Mill Valley municipal golf course will be closed until further notice, Park Supt. Joe Penders said, due to saturation of heavy rains. Penders added that the rains have made the playing areas so wet that play would damage the course.

Marin Athletic Loop Cage Action Tonight

Novato tonight. The Giants must maintain a clean record to the end of the season along with Marin Catholic to keep in contention for top spot. Jan. 19, Dick Hart's Larkspur crew put down the Hornets without too much trouble. The count was 48-36 for the Giants. Since then Redwood has picked up three wins in the loop.

Novato has gathered three wins and three losses since the Redwood game. One of the wins was in league play. The Hornets' other league win was against Marin Catholic in a season opener. Coach O. T. McAtee's squad is tied with Tamalpais for fourth place. Both have 2-5 records.

Coach Hart will probably be without the services of Doug Detrick, still on the injury list. The 6-3 front lineman will be missed in the rebounding department.

STARS TO WATCH

Fans will be watching Redwood's Jay Johnson pump 'em in tonight and the same team's Pete Coy, as a rebounding threat. Standouts in competition will be Novato's trio of Joe Colfer, Jay Bucy and Martin Baccaglio. Colfer and Bucy will have to get off a lot of shots that connect to keep up with Redwood's recent balanced scoring, and Baccaglio will be up against tall and strong rebounders in Coy, Jud Longaker, Bill Epidendio and Don Rogers. Don Scribner will no doubt be giving Baccaglio some help, as will Harry Cassidy and Carl Morse. Colfer's and Bucy's aide will be Nick Willard.

Other important Redwood players in action will be Hillard Witt, Tod Lindner, Rick Skinner and Grant Stephenson.

Marin Catholic, like Redwood, will be out to protect a 5-2 record against a 2-5 team. The Wildcats will meet the Indians who have not had a win in their last four attempts, but who have lost their last three games by no less than four points. And two of those losses were only by a point.

WIN STREAK

Marin has a four-game winning streak and Bernie Schneider's boys have only dropped one game in the last seven attempts. The Wildcats' scoring has been balanced lately with Ron O'Connell, Jerry Smith, Bruce Makinson and John Enos leading the offensive pack. Considering the Catholics' lack of height, it may be a big night for Tam's 6-5 pivotman Pete Bardea. Competition for floor domination will be between Smith and Warren Domino of Tam.

If it goes like it did last week for the Indians, Ellis Williams will be the big point maker, followed by Bill Gillingham. Some point padding should be provided by Bardea, Art Ford and Art Foster, as well as Domino.

If the Tamites can control the boards and cover Smith and O'Connell adequately, they could swing it. On the other hand, if Schneider's troops bombard the Mill Valley athletes with a 23-point second period like they did against Novato, Marin will be assured a 6-2 record come 10:15 p.m.

HORSE OWNERS BOYCOTT RACE TRACK SHOERS

ARCADIA (AP) — Failing to resolve a price difference with blacksmiths, owners and trainers at Santa Anita have agreed to run their horses without shoes, beginning next Tuesday.

The platers boosted their price $1 and now are charging $18 to shoe a horse.

Clement Hirsch, chairman of the horsemen's committee, said the decision to run the thoroughbreds without shoes was unanimous.

"Rather than be dictated to by a small group, horsemen have agreed to take the shoes off their horses and run them slick until the current dispute is settled," said Hirsch.

He said the only exception will be the stake races, in which owners pay a nomination fee to run their horses.

Final Signups

Final signups will be held tonight for the San Rafael American and National little leagues in Room 201 at Davidson Junior High School from 7 to 9 o'clock.

WRESTLERS GET SET FOR TOURNEY

Tamalpais High School wrestlers are shown working out this week. Nine of them will attend the North Coast Section wrestling tournament at Castro Valley High School in Castro Valley tomorrow. Trial and consolation trial matches will be held from noon to 5 p.m. Beginning at 7:30 p.m., championship finals and consolation finals will be held. (Independent-Journal photos by Dick Steinheimer)

Still A Chance For Steelhead Fishing In North Cal Streams

STEVENS

He gave his name as John Falkner. He is a newcomer to the Golden State, and he has a persistant yen to get a steelhead on his hook. He asked what I consider his chances. Particularly he wished to know if the Russian River would be worth a trial by the weekend. Seems a neighbor did some raving over the time he had had on that stream a few weeks ago.

Just in case there are others who might be fooled, after the present stormy weather abates and we have sunshine again, into laying off work and hitting the highway for some steelhead stream, I am repeating the gist of what I told Mr. Falkner.

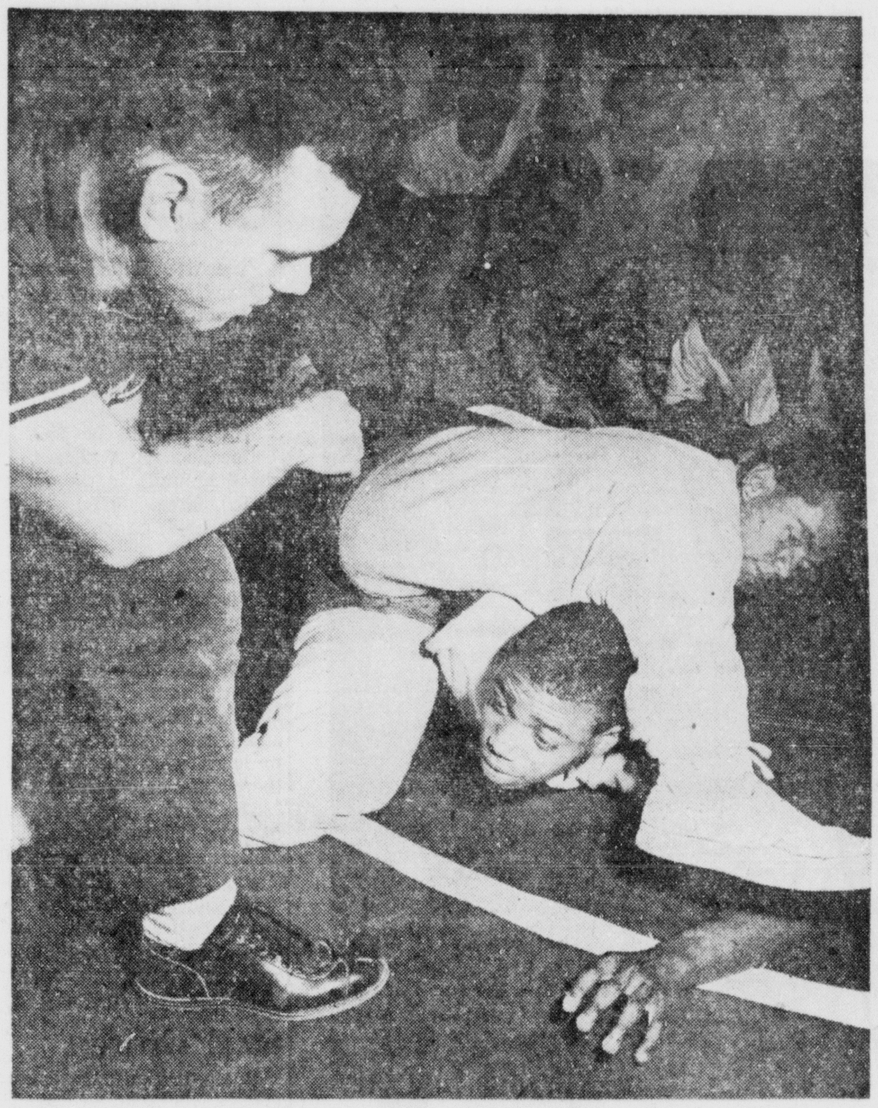
Take the Russian River first. Most people know that the Russian is in flood and of course unfishable at present. I hope I am wrong, but I have a hunch there will be no more fishing in the Russian before the season closes on the 28th. Always this stream is about the last of all the coast streams to lower and clear. Even if the rains quit by this weekend, it is doubtful that it will be productive any more.

GOING UP the coast to the Gualala, the Garcia, Navarro, the Fort Bragg streams and the South Fork and the main Eel River as well as the Mad, van Duzen and the Salmon rivers, there is still a chance that my caller and others can get in a few days of steelheading, but only, mind you, if we have a protracted spell of dry weather. , I usually figure from seven to ten days for the Russian to become fishable after even a slight rain; somewhat less elapsed time for the Gualala, say, around five to seven days. The Garcia is perhaps the quickest to return to normal, and I give that stream four to five days. Five to seven days for the Navarro and the Fort Bragg streams and about the same for the larger streams to the north. Short streams such as the Salmon River near the town of Bay, and the Salmon River up north; Brush Creek (a tributary of the Garciai), Alder Creek and other tributary streams such as the Mad and Van Duzen may return to normal much sooner, maybe three days will render the short streams fishable.

MOST OF the streams to the south of the Golden Gate will clear and lower sooner than the large streams to the north. For those who like to get in a day's steelheading close to home, I suggest you check on the upper Napa and the Marin County streams. Some mighty good catches are made eaech year in the upper Napa, and short streams in Marin County, such as Papermill Creek, frequently furnish some top-flight sport.

THE ADVICE I gave my caller and that which I would give to all is merely to await the end of the stormy weather —wait for at least four days after the last rainfall — then get on the phone and call whatever spot you would like to feature. Get the stream conditions. If the water is at the normal level and has a milky appearance, grab your gear, stop at your favorite baitshop for a side or two of steelhead roe, and highball to the stream.

Chances are that a good portion of such fish as are taken will be downstreamers, but don't let that worry you.



FANCY STUFF—Bob Souza of Tam wraps his leg over head of teammate Ron Foster as coach Pete Belden looks on to be sure it's an effective television-like hold. Both varsity athletes will participate in North Coastal wrestling tournament tomorrow.

Ball Diamond Planned On School Site

Pony League teams may have a baseball field at Gallinas School in Santa Venetia for the 1963 season.

William Lockett of the North Marin Pony League this week presented the San Rafael Board of Education a plan for installing the field on land now unused at the rear of the school building.

He said the Pony League backers were prepared to grade the site this year and seed it and install a fence and backstop in time for the '63 season.

The board already had before it a request for Little League use of baseball diamonds at Davidson School.

Supt. Bert C. Corona praised the plan for Gallinas, but at his suggestion it was referred to a committee which is at work on a proposed policy on use of schoolgrounds for such purposes.

CYO Basketball Playoffs At Marin Catholic Sunday

Three St. Raphael's CYO basketball teams will be involved in a series of semi-final games between Marin-Sonoma-Alameda-Contra Costa county titleholders at Marin Catholic High School Sunday.

The successful teams Sunday will qualify to play San Francisco's city champions in the CYO Archdiocesan Championships at Riordan High School in San Francisco Feb. 25.

The Marin champions are the fifth, sixth and eighth grade teams that won Marin divisional honors and eliminated Sonoma county's representatives in quarter-final games two weeks ago.

As host for these tournament playoffs, the Marin CYO has lined up the following schedule for Sunday:

8th Grade—St. Paul, San Pablo vs. St. Raphael, San Rafael (11 a.m.).
5th Grade—St. Felicitas, San Leandro vs. St. Raphael (12:15 p.m.).
6th Grade—St. Bede, Hayward vs. St. Raphael (1:30 p.m.).
4th Grade—St. Bede, Hayward vs. St. Eugene, Santa Rosa (4 p.m.).

Kiaola Wins Acapulco Race; Record Time

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UPI) — Some boats still are out at sea today, but the Kialoa, a 50-foot sloop skippered by Jim Kilroy of Newport Harbor Yacht Club, has been named the over-all and Class "B" winner of the San Diego to Acapulco yacht race.

Nine of the 21 craft in the 1,430-mile race still were unfinished yesterday — some as far away as 124 miles when a check was made at noon-time—but none of the late finishers will have a chance to better Kialoa's record.

The corrected time of 8 days, 7 hours, 7 minutes and 12½ seconds for Kilroy's sloop was almost five hours better than the record time set by the Windward in 1958.

PRINCESS SECOND

Princess, a 42-foot sloop owned by John J. Hall of the Balboa Y.C. was second in a time of 8 days, 15 hours, 2 minutes and 41 seconds; and third was the 50-foot legend, captained by Charles Ullman of the Los Angeles Y.C. in 8 days, 20 hours, 58 minutes and 49 seconds.

The three top finishers in the "A" and "B" classes were:
—A: Legend, Orient and Spirit.
—B: Kialoa, Princess and Mickey.

CONNOLLY

You'll never know how close Jim Gentile, the homerun hitting first baseman with the Baltimore Orioles, was to quitting organized baseball until you talk to his uncle, Leo Galli, the San Anselmo nursery merchant.

According to Uncle Leo, Gentile had all he could do to make ends meet. And there were times when the wolf was on the back porch howling—that's how tough it was.

"Not because he happens to be a relative," says the soft-spoken Leo, "but it took real courage and a genuine fighting spirit for Jim to battle his way to the top in baseball. He struggled almost six years in the minor leagues before the Brooklyn Dodgers sold him away, enabling Jim to really live out of the shadow of the great Gil Hodges.

"I remember when an offer of a fair job at an ordinary payroll check would have enticed Gentile away from the ranks of baseball.

"WHEN HE got his chance at Baltimore it was the 'jackpot break' for Jim. Paul Richards, the manager, got Jim to thinking success, got him to improve his hitting and confidence and convinced Jim that baseball was not only a tough business but called for arduous work.

"After Jim got to play regularly it ignited his spirit. Jim really played for peanuts until last year. And the small salary was always a big disappointment. But Jim kept on fighting and now at last he has proved his point and is getting a fancy salary."

Uncle Leo looks for his nephew to go places and do things in 1962.

"Once they allow him to bat against southpaw pitching, Jim will be right up there with the leading home run hitters," Uncle Leo maintains.

THERE IS a strong similiarity between Gentile of Baltimore and "Lovey Dovey" McCovey of the S. F. Giants. It should be quite comforting to McCovey who right now is in the shadows of Orlando Cepeda just as Gentile was in the shadow of Gil Hodges.

Had first baseman Hodges not been so great with the Dodgers our boy Gentile might have come to the fore a lot sooner.

And if Willie McCovey can grit his teeth and sweat it out with the Giants, he too may get up off the floor like Gentile did and make good.

'BORN YESTERDAY'

Comedy Has Message —But Worth Seeing

By ALTON BOCK

"Born Yesterday" is a comedy with a message.

But, if your prefer your comedies unburdened with sermons, don't hesitate to go to Brown's Hall on Miller Avenue in Mill Valley this weekend to see the Homestead Players' production of the Garson Kanin play. Curtain time is 8:30 tonight and tomorrow.

The cometdy in "Born Yesterday" is bright, and I doubt few people can seriously quarrel with its message.

Under the wise direction of Eloise Keeler, a woman who obviously knows her way around a stage, the Homestead group can be proud of their modest presentation of Kanin's humorous attack on ignorant men who hope to mold democracy according to their whim.

Harry Brock, a rich and powerful junk-dealer invades Washington, D.C., taking with him the assumption that he can buy the United States Senate just as he did city councilmen in Ohio.

But much to his dismay, he brings along his girl friend, Billie Dawn, an ex-show girl whose mind has been undisturbed by a single idea for 30-odd years. Brock, a ruthless and stupid man, first fears that Billie's lack of interest in anything but sex and gin rummy will not sit well with the "right people" in Washington.

He hires a liberal news magazine reporter to refine Billie, and before the last act she learns what skulduggery Brock is up to and sets out to expose him as a gangster and fascist.

Robert and Dorothy Adler, as Harry Brock and Billie Dawn, respectively, make a team that is a pleasure to watch. Adler has a good sense of the alternating effects of comedy and terror that derive from Brock's bombast and obtuseness.

Mrs. Adler makes no attempt to conceal the fact that the role of Billie Dawn is inseparable from the version that made Judy Holliday a star. And she brings off a Billie that isn't easily forgotten.

Alan Shelmerdine does well enough with the limited role of the reporter who has the duty as Kanin's spokesman. John Crain as a corrupt senator and Steve Hagarty as Brock's jaded and drunken lawyer give sympathetic characterizations of men who well know they are cheaters.

Roddy Volz has designed an impressive set from inexpensive material.

GIRL GETS UPGRADED—Reporter Paul Verrall (Alan Shelmerdine) gives chorus girl Billie Dawn (Dorothy Adler) some tutoring to improve her mind in the play "Born Yesterday" being presented by the Homestead Players tonight and tomorrow at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley. The three-act comedy is directed by Eloise Keeler. Entire cast is from Homestead Valley. (Bruce Harlow photo)

JOB WELL DONE

School Newspaper Can Be Proud Of Product

"Knowing that you put out a good paper, we would like you to see that we can put out a good paper too," a Marin editor wrote the Independent-Journal yesterday.

Her paper is the Student Assn. Tribune, mimeographed but tidy.

It's a monthly and the current issue is devoted to school election results with a congratulatory editorial by editor Messer addressed to Patricia Bohan as president, Scott Mitchell as vice president, Doris Nelson as secretary and Sharman McCamish as treasurer.

The Tribune pursues a policy long desired by all reporters of "by-lining" every news story.

Thus John Hermansky gives personality sketches of the new officers; Jerry Harder tells how the class is learning about California, and there is the start of fiction telling about how to get on the Ferrari race team. Unluckily the current installment is short and leaves questions.

There is even a crossword puzzle by new president Bohan. To solve it one needs to know, among other things, the names of the Bel Aire principal and the 35th president of the United States.

Joe Murphy contributes an "interview of the month" with Manuel Garcia of 29 Juno Road, Tiburon, whose ambition is to retire in good health.

An "Old Timer's Trading Post" conducted by J. Ryall and J. Harder offers such items as white rats (six adults and 15 babies—get them while they last) and a Cub Scout knife.

Finally there's a humor section with such things as this riddle: "Why did the little boy put suntan lotion on his chicken?" "Because he liked the dark meat." The authors of this section prudently content themselves with initials.

Two Tam Exchange Students To Spend One Week Away

Tamalpais High School's two American Field Service students will exchange schools for a week with two other foreign students out of the county.

Bente Hildeng of Norway will attend San Leandro High for a week beginning Monday, and Kenyon Gilson of South Africa will go to Hiram Johnson High in Sacramento.

Coming to Tam for the week will be Liliana Ruiz of Argentina, who will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Barnes of Marin City, and Hasan Erdonmez of Turkey, who will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Putney of Mill Valley.

Exchange Students

Bente Hildeng of Norway and Kenyon Gilson of South Africa, both American Field Service exchange students at Tamalpais High, will attend a high school youth conference at Asilomar Feb. 24 and 25. They will be accompanied by George Pohlmann, Tamalpais history teacher.

Tam Fire District Gets Phone Number

Tamalpais Fire Protection District, recently organized by consolidation of Homestead Valley and Tamalpais Valley fire protection districts has been given a new fire emergency telephone number — 388-3333.

Old numbers are to be destroyed, Fire Chief Herbert Owen said, but on dialing the old numbers, for the time being, the fire station will be automatically reached.

50 Sewage Connections Granted McNear Area

The San Rafael Sanitation District board yesterday granted applications by developers for sewage connections for 25 homes and 25 apartment units to the new Peacock Gap treatment plant.

The cost will be $500 per connection for service to the dwelling units in the McNear Beach area. Some of the homes will be completed in July.

The board after two hours of discussion of the future of the plant and its work load instructed Public Works Director Norris Rawles to consult with the various developers in McNear's Beach, China Camp and other districts in the area to learn what the population there ultimately will be.

The plant presently is built to serve 400 families and soon will be expanded to serve 800, Mayor John F. McInnis said.

He said about three or four years ago an ultimate population of 24,000 was contemplated. Rawles has been asked to confer with developers and reassess the figure.

"If the figure is going to go to 30,000 we ought to know now, so we can plan accordingly," McInnis said.

Agricultural Aircraft Accident Rate Down

FRESNO (UPI)—The Agricultural Aircraft Assn. has announced significant decreases in accident rates since a safety program was instituted five years ago.

The association said the pilot fatality rate was cut from 17 in 1958 to one pilot last year. Ground crew injuries were cut more than 200 per cent.

Tiburon Demos Elect Officers

Retraining For Jobless Urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Employment Director Irving H. Perluss has urged all unemployment insurance claimants who can't find jobs because opportunities in their lines of work are non-existant or extremely scarce, to apply for retraining benefits.

These retraining benefits were provided by the 1961 Legislature, according to Perluss, "to help solve the problem of persons who lose their jobs through automation, or technological changes in industry."

Persons accepted for retraining for a different line of work will continue to receive unemployment benefits, Perluss said.

Color Each Season Expressed By Blooms In Belvedere Garden

By PATRICIA ZINN

Color reigns each season of the year in the dramatic and aesthetic effects of blossoms at the Belvedere Lagoon home of the Willian J. Fergusons where Mrs. Ferguson expresses her love of color and form with flowers.

To achieve dramatic bursts of color every day in her home with its wall area of glass and "outdoors is part of the indoors" feeling, she has evolved the method by pot planting.

An ardent sports enthusiast with her surgeon husband and their four children, in tennis, sailing, skiing and camping, as well as a participant in community activities, Mrs. Ferguson, whose garden will be featured on the cover of the April edition of House and Garden, spends only an average of 20 minutes a day on her project.

Discussing her use of pot planting and why she does it, Roberta Ferguson says that despite a wonderful basic structure to the garden, designed by Lawrence Halprin, the only possible way to achieve constant color and still maintain a trimmed and balanced look was through pot planting.

"The time I had available to spend on the garden was very little but instead of accepting the solution to the dilemma — maintenance but low performance planting—I decided to experiment with short cut ways of achieving a high performance, dramatic colorful garden. Well, this of course, was an ambitious decision. However, all of the experimentation I've done in the past eight years has been enjoyed by every member of the family and in some categories interesting results have been achieved."

TO GIVE TALK

Getting down to specifics as she will in a talk Wednesday for members of the St. Stephen's Guild at the Belvedere home of the Stanford Browns, Mrs. Ferguson will explain that she has 200 clay pots and 100 redwood tubs under cultivation. She rotates these from an inconspicuous side patio when first planted to a position where the lighting and climate most approximate their need to, finally, the area where their beauty can be shown to greatest advantage and also where the weather exposure is most compatible with their needs.

She goes on to say that despite the fact that any plant can be tubbed quite happily, she has placed most of her specimen plants such as camellias, azaleas, rhododendron, holly, citrus and daphne in permanent places in the ground.

SPECIAL OCCASIONS

"For the most part, my potting now consists of bulbs, annuals and perennials and I plant for special occasions as in late July for Halloween and Thanksgiving beauty and August for a Christmas garden. For early spring drama I do a September and October bulb planting. A November or December planting of cineraria produces unbelievable later spring beauty; January for replanting fuchsias and pelargonium families via cutting, and in February for nemesia, lobelia and daisies.

That this vivacious woman spends only a small portion of her day on the garden is easy to understand in view of the fact that she was 1961 women's singles champion at the Belvedere Tennis Club, champion Shamrock class sailor in Belvedere Lagoon competition and participated in the Bay eliminations for the Adams cup and an enthusiastic member of the Belvedere Ski Club. In addition, she is a past president of the Reed Parent-Teacher Club, Redwood High School P-TA, and Women's Auxiliary of the San Francisco Yacht Club. With all this she still finds time for camping with her husband and children, Bill, Bob, Tom and Betsy.

MRS. FERGUSON, whose garden will be featured on the April cover of House and Garden magazine, is seen with spring flowers which are now blooming at the entrance of her home.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Travel Highlight Of Party Conversation

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Travel talk highlighted the conversation at Wednesday night's party at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club celebrating the silver jubilee of Catholic Social Service Agency of Marin. There was a report on the Alfred Quilicis who flew to Florida last week. They'll go to Nassau and Mexico City, return home Feb. 25. Her mother, Mrs. George Gehard of San Rafael, is staying with the younger boys. Ron, a freshman at the University of Portland, was flown with his ROTC drill team to Arizona last week. His unit won in the 22-team event.

Mrs. Peter Helms, who will be chairman of the agency's auxiliary's Candlelight Ball May 5, said she is an Eskimo widow, as Peter has been in Anchorage, Alaska, on an auditing detail for two weeks. The William Costellos told of a trip to Europe on which they will leave early in May. Headed for Mexico soon will be the John Rolls. They'll celebrate their wedding anniversary south of the border.

With Dr. and Mrs. Allen Conroy was her mother, Mrs. P. R. Gaboury, visiting here from Edmonton, Canada. Mrs. Cletus J. Fitzharris was delighted to learn that her cousin in Edmonton is one of Mrs. Gaboury's closest friends. Snow fun was didscussed, too. Mrs. John DeMaria told of the experiences of her son, John, who attends Bellarmine. He spent the weekend in Yosemite Valley with the Terry Ronnebergs. The heavy snow caused evacuation of hundreds of people at Badger Pass. Nancy Niederholzer, who was a week at Heavenly Valley skiing with her sorority sisters, found good snow. Nancy's parents, the Gus Niederholzers, are leaving soon for Puerto Vallarta in Mexico. The Conrad Sovigs are leaving soon for a week at Squaw Valley. They're taking their four children.

THE NEWLY MARRIED Mr. and Mrs. John W. Oakley were honored at a dinner, following their wedding, by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Nordmann of San Anselmo, at the Red Chimney in Stonestown. Attending were family members. The bride, the former Sherri Lee Nordmann, is the sister of Debra Lee Nordmann of San Anselmo, granddaughter of Mrs. Zora Nordmann and niece of Miss Donna Nordmann of San Francisco. The wedding took place at St. James Presbyterian Church in San Francisco. The newlyweds are residing in an apartment in that city. Sherri Lee and John first met when they attended the University of Nevada.

A RECEPTION in honor of the newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Denman K. McNear (Susan Anderson) will be given by his father, E. Denman McNear of Petaluma, and his brorther-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James McNab (Mary McNear) of Ross, at the Town and Country Club in San Francisco March 1. Denman and Sue, who were married in El Paso, Tex., in January, are on an extended honeymoon in Hawaii.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY graduates will meet tonight at a dinner in the dining hall of the Crown Zellerbach Building in San Francisco honoring the Honorable Mary H. Donlon, judge of the United States Customs Court in New York. The dinner is sponsored by the Cornell Club of Northern California, of which James B. Schryver of Terra Linda is treasurer and the Cornell University Women's Club. Mrs. Schryver took dinner reservations. Judge Donlon, first woman to be appointed to a Federal bench by President Eisenhower, is a 1920 graduate of Cornell Law School.

ON A CRUISE aboard the Mariposa the Russell A. Mackeys of San Rafael leave Feb. 21. They sail to the South Sea Islands and to New Zealand. They will leave ship there and make an automobile our of the island country for 10 days. They'll board the Mariposa on its return from Australia and be home early in April.

SPECTATORS at the polo game at El Dorado Country Club in Palm Desert Sunday watching the Hurlingham Polo Team from England play El Dorado's contenders were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hickingbotham of San Rafael. They were the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Haas. The British team, which won 10 to 5, will be in San Francisco the end of February and will stay at the Burlingame Country Club for three days. Mr. and Mrs. Haas are giving a dinner at their Hillsborough home honoring the Britons Feb. 28.

Newlyweds Feted At Reception

Recently wed Mr. and Mrs. James E. Rash Jr. of Tiburon were honored Saturday at a reception given for them by the bride's stepfather, Herbert H. Heidinger, at his home in Belvedere.

James and the former Lynn Mitchell were married in Reno on Dec. 31.

The bride, who before her marriage had lived with her grandmother, Mrs. Stella A. Ehrenfelt of Belvedere, since her mother died, is a graduate of Tamalpais High School. She attended an IBM training school and is now employed by an insurance company in San Francisco.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Rash of Mill Valley. He is also a graduate of Tamalpais High School, and served four years in the U.S. Navy. He is presently employed as a driver by the U.S. Post Office in Tiburon.

He has three sisters, Linda and Isabel Rash of Mill Valley, and Mrs. William Young of Petaluma, and a brother, Joseph Rash of Mill Valley.

JFK Gives Approval To Wife's Project

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy says his wife's White House refurbishing project will bring Americans more intimately in contact with the men who lived there.

After all, he points out, history is people, and seeing such items as President Grant's table, Lincoln's bed or Monroe's gold dinner set makes these men "more alive."

Kennedy said he considers U.S. history a source of strength and anything that dramatizes the great story of America, "as I think the White House does," is worthy of the closest attention and respect.

Joining Wednesday night at the end of Mrs. Kennedy's hour-long television tour of the White House and the restoration she has made, the President said he was glad his wife had undertaken the project.

He said he hoped future occupants, like past First Ladies, would continue to try to make the White House "the center really of a sense of American historical life."

The President confided that he thinks history is sometimes " a dull subject," with so much emphasis on dates.

If American boys and girls come to the White House, he said, and "in a sense touch the people who have been here, then they'll go home more interested, and I think that they'll become better Americans, and some of them may want some day to live here themselves, which I think would be very good."

"Even the girls," he added with a grin.

Kennedy noted that the White House is becoming more and more important to the American people and last year a record total of 1,300,000 "passed through our home." He said he hoped the number would double this year. He said every President gets "stimulus from the knowledge of living in close proximity to the people who are legendary but who actually were alive and were in these rooms."

Mrs. Kennedy, accompanied by commentator Charles Collingwood, took American viewers on the tour which was taped a month ago. She also gave a personal narrative of White House history.

The First Lady said she felt the President's home should display "all the things we did so well, pictures, furniture—I think this house should be the place where you can see them best."

Her 3-Year-Old Daughter Suddenly Fights In Rude, Hateful Manner

"I'm sick with worry," a mother writes, "about the change in my daughter. She is 3. Formerly she was wonderful. She always obeyed. She was happy, and very helpful. But now she fights any suggestion I make. She is rude, hateful and mean. She seems to enjoy doing things which hurt me. Have I made a terrible mistake with her? Is she ruined forever?"

MRS. R. de S.

Let me reassure you. Your little girl has entered a new phase of growth. The change in her is normal. Probably you have made no serious mistake. She is not ruined. She should improve, gradually.

Up till about 3 most children are conformers. They always try to obey. Their goal is to do what their parents want them to do. But this can't last. They need to become independent. They need to establish their own controls and standards. They need to rebel, and learn from the consequences. Psychologists call your girl's phase the "period of negativism" but most parents have stronger names for it.

You can help in many ways. Set up clear rules to guide her conduct. Be sure she understands them. Be consistent in enforcing your rules. Have your husband be consistent, too. Present a united front. Then she'll learn fast.

Punish her when necessary. But always use the mildest punishment which will teach the needed lesson. Reserve spankings for the few most dangerous mistakes she makes. Don't be afraid of reasonable rewards for unusually good conduct. Keep showing your girl that you love her. When she fights you she fights her whole universe. She needs your patient support, as well as your guidance.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "My son continued his rebelliousness up to the time he entered kindergarten. Then he settled down. Is this unusual?" MRS. Q. A.

(A) No. Many children carry their rebellion up to kindergarten. Teaching them better conduct is one of the reasons for having kindergarten.

Federal Health Aides Map 10-Year Search For Birth Defect Clues

BETHESDA, Md. (UPI)—Blood samples from some 75,000 expectant mothers may reveal the relation of virus infection to mental retardation, mongolism, cerebral palsy and other disorders in infants, reports the U.S. Public Health Service (PHS).

Scientists from the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness (NINDB) and the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) are testing the blood samples for evidence of infection. These two institutes are research divisions of the PHS.

The tests are part of a large-scale program to gather information on factors which might be related to disorders of infancy and childhood before such disorders develop.

The project involves making examinations and keeping records on expectant mothers and their babies at 15 U.S. medical centers over a period of ten years. The PHS hopes the tests will provide a better understanding of conception, pregnancy, labor and delivery in relation to the infant's growth and development.

In the blood tests scientists use antigens, substances which stimulate a chemical defense mechanism in the blood. If a patient has been exposed to infection, this will be indicated by a greater number of antibodies in her blood.

The 15 medical centers cooperating in the project send the blood samples to NINDB here for testing. The serum is then stored in minus ten degrees Fahrenheit in two huge freezers 1,390 square feet in total size. Information on the patient's pregnancy is kept along with data on the serum sample for ready reference.

To test the serum, scientists supervised the production of a panel of more than 100 viral antigens ranging from common cold viruses to those causing paralysis and death, the PHS said.

As new viruses appear among the patients, antigen production must be increased to meet the demand. The PHS said antigen development requires extensive work in gathering viral materials, devising new tests, and arranging favorable conditions to grow the virus for antigen production.

Her Sport: Tumbling Out Or Airplanes

FLEMINGTON, N.J. (AP) — Once Judy Simpson tumbled from an airplane and landed on a cow.

It turned out to be a rather unnerving experience for the cow. Judy is sure the animal stopped giving milk for weeks.

Miss Simpson—pretty, petite and 25—is one of the country's few ladybirds, a practitioner of the art of skydiving. When she's not tumbling out of airplanes at 12,500 feet, she works as an advertising copywriter in New York City.

Two years ago she saw a skydiving exhibition, liked what she saw and enrolled for lessons. She is now licensed to fly single-engine planes, is licensed by the Parachute Club of America and is a member of the Tri-State Skidivers Club. The later club, which has 80 men and 10 women from New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, is believed to be the largest civilian skydiving group in the country.

How do you skydive?

When the plane, usually traveling 80 m.p.h., reaches 12,500 feet Judy bales out, drops 10,000 feet (about two miles), then pulls the ripcord on the parachute.

Once free of the plane, the fun begins.

Juvenile Hall Auxiliary Is Organized

By BARBARA HOSMER

An auxiliary organization to Marin County Juvenile Hall was formed Wednesday at a meeting at the hall with the purpose of letting the community know what the hall is doing and what the people of Marin can do for the youngsters at the hall.

In the words of David Fogel, director of the hall, the new group will "coordinate and make the best use of the time of volunteers out there."

Mrs. Esther Oleari, acting secretary for the new group, said that the auxiliary has no wish to compete with fund raising or service organizations but will fill specific needs at the hall as they are recognized by the volunteer committee and by the Juvenile Justice Commission and the hall staff. The group will work closely with the staffs of Juvenile Court Judge Richard M. Sims, Roy Ibach of the commission and Fogel to coordinate time and services of organizations already working at the hall and of individuals from throughout Marin who wish to help.

She explained that the idea is to work directly with the youngsters on programs suggested or approved by the authorities.

At the organization meeting Judge Sims gave the welcome message to the group, which included representatives from many Marin organizations already working with the youngsters at the hall. Mrs. George Alpers, temporary chairman, outlined purpose of the new auxiliary and Ibach discussed its aims.

Mrs. Vera Schultz moved passage of formation of the auxiliary which will be open to widely diversified groups throughout Marin as well as to individuals who wish to do the volunteer work.

Groups represented at the meeting were Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa, the Fleet Reserve Auxiliary, Juvenile Justice Commission, Family Service League, Junior Social Service Auxiliary, Mannequin League of Marin, Marin Council of Boy Scouts, and the Parent-Teacher Assn.

Persons who have formed the auxiliary include Mesdames Willard Hall, Robert Walker, Kay Parkinson, George Alpers, R. W. Barbey, Cynthia Cogswell, Rome Brusati, David Geoffrion, Louis Cuneo, Earlene Barbeau, Oleari, Marge Mealman, C. A. Kircher, Blanche Redmond, Pat Rooney, Vera Schultz, Roy Olson, Frank Klineman, Ruth Martinez, Harold Morgan, Desmond Mactavish, W. G. Opera Star Kirsten Finds Leningrad Most Sophisticated

Editor's Note: Metropolitan opera soprano Dorothy Kirsten continues her tour of four Soviet cities as the first American singer ever to appear as guest artist with four Russian opera companies.

By DOROTHY KIRSTEN

LENINGRAD, USRR—I had been told that Leningrad is the most sophisticated city in the Soviet Union and that I could expect its audiences to be the most critical.

But when I sang my first role there, "Traviata," the reception I got was the loudest and most exciting of my whole tour. The applause at the end of the second act was so long that it actually delayed the performance, something which had never happened before, according to my colleagues in the Leningrad Opera Company. The audience continually shouted my name in very good English.

At the end of the opera there were incessant calls for "bis," "bis" which made me wonder if they really wanted me to start all over again. The curtain calls just never stopped, so finally I had to stop going out onto the stage. The Russians are really spoiling me!

Everywhere I have gone—Tiflis, Moscow, Riga, people have pleaded with me to stay for just one more performance. My last performance here has been sold out for a long time and tickets are going for double the usual price when they can be obtained.

I have never faced such an opera house as here. There seem to be twice as many people as can be accommodated in the seats and heads pop out of every available space. There are even standees on the stage near the wings. Cameras stare at me from every angle.

There are many things in the performance of opera in Russia that are different from the way we do it in the United States. Many of their ways are ones which we have not thought of and I am going to take their suggestions back to the United States.

I came to Leningrad from Latvia, the capital of Soviet Latvia, where I sang both "Traviata" and "Tosca," the first American singer ever to appear in that seaport city. I was particularly thrilled with the fine baritone who sang with me in "Tosca" there. He spoke only Latvian but we soon learned to understand each other through sign language and just by knowing the opera.

One of the most moving experiences I have had in Russia came after my last performance of "Traviata" there. More than 300 persons followed me back to my hotel and surrounded me. I told them I could not stand in the fierce cold, so they just moved into the lobby and spread all over the hotel.

Certainly these people love me, not only as a singer, but because I am an American. I shall be sad to sing my farewell performance, which will be "Faust" at the world famous Bolshoi Theater in Moscow. My reception in Russia has been warmer than I ever had dreamed possible. (UPI)

FACE AND FIGURE

Preparations For Removing Lines Around Mouth, Eyes

By NANCY TAYLOR

"Although I am only in my early thirties, recently I have noticed fine lines around my eyes and mouth and even deeper lines on my forehead. What kind of beauty preparations do you recommend for these?"

The magic potion women have sought since the beginning of itme. As wonderful as modern beauty preparations are, the rule of an ounce of prevention still goes when it comes to prematurely aging skin. There is, however, much you can do to help correct this condition.

First of all, be sure to use a moisturizing cream or lotion every night after cleansing and toning your skin, then again before applying make-up in the morning.

Because the process of aging skin is due not only to dryness, but also to loss of "tone" in the inner muscles and tissues . . . more drastice measures are called for. One answer is a nightly facial massage. After your skin has been thoroughly cleansed and toned, apply a lubricating cream generously on your face and throat and massage as follows:

Begin your massage with fingers of both hands held close together over your nose. Mold gently outward toward temples. Hands should flatten out as they pass over your cheeks.

Place your three middle fingers flat on your cheeks near your nostrils. Mold outward toward your earlobes.

Brace your thumbs under your chin with both index fingers meeting under your nose. Guide your index fingers around your mouth to just under your lower lip.

With elbows resting on your dressing table, face supported on your knuckles, move knuckles toward your ears with deep, firm pressing movements.

With right hand, glide fingers over the right side of your neck in circles, moving from your jawbone to the base of your neck. Repeat on left side.

Holding your wrists loosely, slap under your chin briskly, using first one hand, then the other. Repeat to the count of 20.

Place both elbows on your dressing table, thumbs beneath your jawbone. Gently mold your fingers over your closed eyelids to your temples.

Press your eyebrows between your thumb and index fingers. Begin near the bridge of your nose and move outward with pressing motions to the end of your brow.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of the year with 318 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching it full phase.

There are no morning or evening stars.

On this day in history:

In 1868, the Elks Club was founded to practice charity, justice, brotherly love and faithfulness.

In 1938, Austrian Chancellor Kurt von Schushnigg bowed to Nazi pressure and agreed to admit Austrian Nazis into his cabinet.

In 1945, American paratroopers started to land on Corregidor in the Philippines and raised the U. S. flag over a half-mile stretch of land.

In 1959, Fidel Castro took the oath of office as premier of Cuba.

A thought for the day: Gen. George Marshall said: "If man does find the solution for world peace it will be the most revolutionary reversal of his record we have ever known."

An Unusual Trick Brings 'Topsy-Turvy' Slam Home

Normally speaking, you try to ruff in dummy when you have length that matches dummy's shortness. Just to show you what a topsy-turvy world we live in, here's a hard in which you do just the opposite.

You start out with eleven tricks — five trumps, five hearts, and the ace of clubs. Where is the twelfth trick?

It does you no good to ruff a heart in dummy, but this is dummy's only short suit. Dummy is longer than your hand in both diamonds and clubs.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

CREATE RUFFER: Despite dummy's length in clubs, your best chance is to create a club ruff in dummy. If you go about it the right way you can discard some of dummy's clubs on your good hearts.

After ruffing the first diamond, you draw one round of trumps with the ace. The next step is to lead a small club and let an opponent win the trick.

Back comes a heart, let's say, and you win. Draw one more trump and then cash two good hearts to discard two clubs from dummy.

That leaves dummy with just a singleton in clubs. Cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in dummy, get back to your hand by ruffing a diamond, and draw the last trump. Then you can claim the rest of the tricks.

The lesson is borrowed from the world of business. The clubs are useless when you have too many of them. Create a shortage, and they become priceless.

DAILY QUESTION: Partner opens with two hearts (forcing to game) and the next player passes. You hold:

♥ 9 7 5 3
♦ A 9 8 7 4
♣ Q 10

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three hearts. You have enough value for a positive response with four trumps, an ace, a queen and two doubletons. There is no need to show the ace; partner will find out about it if he is interested.

NEW DATSUN ONE-HALF-TON PICKUP

This Japanese manufactured truck is one of three Nissan Motor Corp. vehicles being shown by Marin Triumph, San Rafael, which has recently acquired the Datsun agency in Marin County. It features a 60-horsepower, four-cylinder engine and will carry up to 2,400 pounds of cargo. Other models are a four-door station wagon and a four-wheel drive patrol car.

Ross Valley Players Schedule 'The Gazebo'

Jim Urquhart and Glory Stevens will be starred in the Ross Valley Players next play, the comedy-mystery "The Gazebo" that proves murder is not an art easily mastered by a do-it-yourself addict. The melodramatic farce will be presented for three weekends beginning March 8 at the Barn of the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Urquhart will be seen as a successful mystery writer for television who decides to turn murderer and hilariously bungles the job. Glory Stevens will be seen as his wife who has no inkling that her husband has been experimenting in extermination.

This will be the first appearance on the Ross Valley Players stage for Mrs. Stevens. Her dramatic background includes appearances with the Spokane Civic Theater and the Tiburon Cove Players. Urquhart will be playing his second role as a Ross Valley Player. Last year he won an "Arvey" as the Players' best supporting actor.

Supporting Mrs. Stevens and Urquhart in this mixture of mirth and murder will be Eric Norman as the district attorney who is the writer's neighbor and friend; Bill Murray, Don Wilson, Bob Holliday, and Justin Handlos as four gentlemen on the side of law and order; Ben Borden and George Shistar as a pair of comically unusual gangsters; professional real estate woman Reggie Waldon, as, appropriately enough, a real estate woman; Lois Wilson as a motheringly bossy maid, and Bill Waldon as a night watchman.

March 10 has been designated as "players' night" when members of the group and their guests will indulge in a champagne party following "The Gazebo." Tickets and reservations are available through the Orrick Travel Bureau, San Anselmo.

Far Rightists Ask Brown For Action

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Far rightists have asked Gov. Edmund G. Brown to place "hundreds of things" before a special session of the legislature, almost all of them sanctions against communism.

Brown's staff said the governor has received 400-500 letters from ultra-conservatives asking him to call a special session concurrent with the 1962 budget session which reconvenes March 7.

There was no chance of any of the items getting before the legislature.

"Almost all of the things have been taken care of," one aide said. These include proposals to restrict Communists from tax exemptions, from being on the ballot, from holding public office or jobs and from using public buildings for subversive purposes.

All of these proposals were contained in an initiative constitutional amendment drafted by Assemblyman Louis Francis (R-San Mateo). The initiative will go on the November election ballot automatically if the conservative group backing it gets the name of 420,000 voters on petitions.

Brown aides said they had 81 "logical requests" to put subjects before the lawmakers.

The only one sure to make it was the proposal to reapportion the State Senate to give Los Angeles more representation in the upper house. A "blue ribbon" commission appointed by Brown and the legislature has been studying the issue and has prepared a report which, if adopted by the legislature, would give Los Angeles County three more state senators.

Another good possibility is the Defense Production Act, a law which must be extended so that women may work in airplane factories more than eight hours a day.

Brown has said there will be very few emergency items put before the legislature. However, legislative aides pointed out that Brown said this before the 1960 budget session also. He started out with one item on Squaw Valley and later put nearly 40 special items before the legislature.

Nearly 40 California counties have asked Brown to call a special session on the jailing of drunks. The County Supervisors Association says a new 1961 state law made vagrancy a state rather than a local crime, so drunks are now lodged in county rather than city jails.

The association says the bulging drunk tanks in county jails are costing counties an added seven million dollars a year and state liquor funds given to local governments to cover misuse of liquor should be redivided to give counties a bigger share.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than one and one-half (1-½) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

The envelope enclosing the proposal must have stated thereon, "Proposal for the Installation of the Ross-Greenbrae Transmission Line, Section II."

Specifications may be obtained at 874 4th Street, the office of the District. The $25.000 deposit required for each set of specifications will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

RED HOT OPPORTUNITY

International Co. is looking for distributors for brand new direct sale product which has been sold in Calif. with 95% of demonstrations closed. Product: "NEWS ROLL-A-LOG" is a "do it yourself" home manufacturing process which rolls old newspapers into valuable fireplace logs, guaranteed to burn 2 hsr. or more. The apparatus rolls, ventilates, and impregnates the log with a chemical solution which hardens the news log like wood as it burns. Converting old newspapers into fireplace logs costs less than 2c ea. Logs can be made all year long. NEWS ROLL-A-LOG sells on sight after demonstration. Retails for only $25 tax incl. Choice counties are now open for franchise distributorships. Write resume, financial status & stability to: Mr. Alfegra, 724 Alta Vista Rd., Mill Valley or Call DU 8-4023.

CREAMPUFF '56 CHEVROLET WAGON
$805
If you're looking for the most dependable wagon in town without spending a fortune then this is it. Only two months ago we completely overhauled the V8 engine on this little wagon for a customer of ours and also went through and put all new brakes. He spent over $400 on the wagon then fell in love with a late model Buick and turned the wagon in on the Buick. It's a 4-dr. 210 series with powerglide, heater and all the extras. Perfect condition.

Festival Theater Will Open With 'Chalk Garden'

Festival Theater of San Anselmo will open its 1962 season Feb. 24 with "The Chalk Garden."

Performances of Enid Bagnold's drama set in present-day England will be on Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 7 p.m. at the theater on Bolinas Avenue.

The opening night performance will benefit the Mills College Alumnae of Marin. The box office opens at 5 p.m. on performance nights only. Special rates are available for groups of 20 or more.

Featured in the cast are several well-known Bay Area players, including Carol Brumm and Louis Bennett of the regular company of the Festival Theater. Others include four members of the former Company of the Golden Hind, Eileen Earle, Russell Ernst, Barbara Demaree, and Beryl Grafton.

Art Rental Show Preview Tonight

The Quay Gallery at 32 Main Street, Tiburon, will hold a preview of its rental show from 7 to 10 p.m. today.

Pictures and sculpture will be available to rent on a three months or six months basis.

The paintings and sculpture are on exhibit at the gallery until Feb. 25 and include works by artists from Marin County, New York, Seattle, Minneapolis and parts of the Bay Area.

Gallery hours are 1 to 5 p.m. on Thursday and 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Friday through Sunday.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Claim Overdeduction For Social Security

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

If your total earnings were over $4,800 and you had more than one employer in 1961 your employers have deducted over $144 from your paychecks for F.I.C.A. (Social Securit) taxes. The maximum that you are required to pay for F.I.C.A. taxes is $144, that is 3 per cent of $4,800.

P. J. WIKEL

Any overdeduction of F. I. C. A. tax can be claimed on your federal income tax return as additional income tax withheld.

The W-2 slips your employers give you should show the amount of F.I.C.A. tax withheld, as well as the amount of income tax withheld. Add these F.I.C.A. amounts. Subtract $144 from the total and show the balance, the overdeduction, on your income tax return under the column "Income Tax Withheld." In the column headed "where employed," write F. I. C. A. tax.

You have paid in too much for F.I.C.A. tax and now you are using the excess to pay your income tax or to increase the refund you have coming to you.

If you were self-employed in 1961 and your self-employment earnings were over $400 and you are not otherwise exempt, then you owe Uncle Sam 4½ per cent of your net self-employment income, but not more than $216.

Your self-employment income, for tax purposes, is reduced by the amount of any salary or wages you had which were subject to Social Security tax. If you received wages in excess of $4,800 then your self-employment income is not subject to tax.

FILM FARE

Movie Finds Germans Not Very Cricket

By LES DARD

An interesting collection of films are due this weekend on Marin screens:

FAIRFAX THEATER

If the British had set out to spoof "The Guns of Navarone" they couldn't have done it more adroitly than was accidentally achieved in "Invasion Quartet," now showing at the Fairfax.

The story begins in an English hospital early in World War II. Wounded, bandaged soldiers are playing cricket when "Herman," an enormous German gun across the channel, dumps a shell in the wicket. This is too much! Four of the walking wounded set out to silence the big gun.

They scrounge ammunition and a boat, down a Stuka dive bomber and dodge mines on their way across the channel. Once there, they slip past whole regiments of Germans, themselves don enemy uniforms and, eventually, achieve their mission.

TAMALPAIS THEATER

"Tender Is the Night," the 20th-Fox version of F. Scott Fitzgerald's novel about his generation of wealthy expatriates who inhabited the lush resorts and posh hotels of Europe, comes Sunday to San Anselmo.

They are married, and set off on a traveling honeymoon that never finds an end.

The girl demands incessant attention, and gets it. The husband lives on her money, without working, and soon is more dependent on wealth and liquor than his wife is on him. As she grows stronger, he weakens, until the marriage is a mockery.

NOVATO AND SEQUOIA

Billy Wilder's brilliant cold war comedy, "One, Two, Three," opens Sunday in both Novato and Mill Valley.

James Cagney stars as a West Berlin Coca Cola exec who sets out to sell "the pause that refreshes" to Iron Curtain countries. Trouble sets in when his boss' feather-brained daughter runs off with an East German communist.

Pamela Tiffin, Horst Buchholz, Red Buttons, Arlene Francis and Lilo Pulver co-star.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

Rock Hudson stars as an American millionaire who usually spends his Septembers at his Italian villa with Gina Lollobrigida. This time he shows up a month early, finds Gina getting serious with a Britisher and his villa being run as an eleven-month resort by major domo Walter Slezak.

Co-featured is "Sapphire," an excellent British mystery.

RAFAEL THEATER

"North to Alaska" is a farce-melodrama which stars John Wayne, Stewart Granger, the late Ernie Kovacs and Fabian. It arrives at the Rafael Sunday.

Basically a Western set in the tundra, it spins a tale of two pals, Wayne and Granger. The latter sends Wayne north to pick up his girl (Capucine) and bring her home, then the complications set in.

MOTOR MOVIES

"Never So Few" is a war story with a dash of romance. It co-stars Frank Sinatra as a U.S. captain in the Burma jungle and Gina Lollobrigida as the beauty who finds him irresistible. It opens tonight at Motor Movies.

The film tells of a small band of Kachin natives led by Britons and Yanks who battled Japanese invaders during World War II.

LARK THEATER

British prisons are let in for their share of spoofing in "Two Way Stretch," the Peter Sellers satire held over in Larkspur.

Sellers plays one of three cynical convicts in a prison whose governor thinks he can cure criminal tendencies with hobbies like gardening, basket weaving and embroidery. Sellers and his chums sneak out for a robbery one night and sneak back in for roll call—the perfect alibi.

Health Needs Survey Can Give Marin Vital Plan

The survey of total health needs for Marin County this week received official county co-operation.

The Board of Supervisors named Administrator Alan Bruce as its liaison with the Citizens Advisory Council of the Marin Hospital District and trustees of the William Babcock Memorial Endowment. The State Bureau of Hospitals has named a staff member in a similar position.

This survey can be as important to the welfare of Marinites as the work of the county and local planning commissions, in studying present and future needs and outlining a course for efficient expansion to meet the continued growth of population.

Present and future hospital needs of Marin County; a factual study to determine the wisest course concerning the County Hospital and Farm in Lucas Valley; the welfare caseload and need for nursing meet the needs of senior citizens with varying incomes—all of these are as important to Marin's future as are other long-range studies now under way.

Vicious Ravens Aloft

We were chilled recently to learn of the vicious attacks by Ravens on northern Marin's new-born lambs and their weakened mothers.

These purplish-black birds are really huge — sometimes attaining a wingspread of four and a half feet. These big birds attack helpless sheep in swarms and pick out their eyes, kill them and devour the rest.

Most of the time, ravens travel singly. In the spring they often perform spectacular aerial acrobatics, including a raven version of the barrel-roll, as part of the mating ritual.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to the San Rafael Chamber Orchestra, its conductor, Hugo Rinaldi, and its sponsors on its excellent 1962 concert series. Second appearance is Sunday, Feb. 18 in San Rafael High School auditorium. No admission charge.

A BOUQUET to Mrs. Helen Newman, Tiburon, new chairman of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

A BOUQUET — wet with tears—to Wallace Andrews, who announced his retirement in June from educational work. He spent forty years of his career at Tamalpais High as a teacher, basketball coach and counselor before becoming counselor at Sir Francis Drake High in 1951.

A BOUQUET to William M. Roth, Sausalito, for newest addition to his many other important civic positions, the presidency of the San Francisco Planning and Urban Commission.

A BOUQUET to the San Quentin News for receiving a top national award plaque for its splendid special edition promoting National Newspaper Week. This was won in competition with America's larger daily and weekly newspapers, and was the only prison paper to be honored by the judges.

A BOUQUET to the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District, whose 1961-62 budget lowered the previous year's tax rate by one-half cent, and whose annual report concludes: "In the years ahead, as the assessed value in the District increases along with more efficient abtement practices, it is hoped the tax rate will continue to drop."

A BOUQUET to the City of Novato for deciding on a master plan for street lighting, in which residents are given opportunity to petition for lights at points citizens think they are needed.

HIGH PRICE FOR HER BRAVERY

"She is an extremely brave woman," was the way a truck driver summed up the action of a mother who was seriously injured while saving her 6 children.

The housewife had been given a lift home from a shopping trip in Peekskill, N. Y. On arrival the driver stopped on a sharp incline, set the hand brake and put his pick-up truck in second gear.

As the 2 adults hopped out of the vehicle, it jumped out of gear and began to roll backwards with the helpless children, aged 3 to 10, trapped inside.

Since she was the closest one to the moving truck, the valiant mother lunged for the cab to get at the brakes. In doing so she was trapped between the left fender and a stone wall. Her leg was so badly injured that it had to be amputated. The children were unhurt.

God has placed an unquenchable spark of greatness in every person, which is often ignited by a sudden and perilous situation. Imitate this courageous woman's readiness to forget self in aiding those in need.

Even High Tides Getting Meaner; Lloyd Bridges Gets Marin 'Post'

Sometimes we get the sneaking suspicion that Mother Nature takes delight in playing tricks on purpose.

For weeks on end, not even a sprinkle, and we have to drag out our garden hoses in mid-winter to water the plants. Then all of a sudden, a regular dosage of three or more inches of water per day. It goes from one extreme to the other—either scorch us or drown us.

AT THE HEIGHT of the storm, a couple of engineers stood at a street corner looking over a danger spot next to a creek. They were in serious discussion on the effects of high tide, mean low tide, etc.

A distraught resident, badly battered by wind and flood, overheard enough of the conversation to join the discussion. He sloshes up to the engineers with this sage observation:

"Ya can say that again, fellas. That was the MEANEST high tide I ever saw!"

THE NEW HUB intersection they're putting in at San Anselmo looked pretty good for a while, but then the rains came.

One spot there north of the widened hub seemed to collect more water than before the widening. Hope they haven't mislaid a couple of drainage pipes somewhere along the line.

SPEAKING OF WATER, did you know that TV actor Lloyd Bridges, who stars in Sea Hunt, is now an honorary member of the Marin Sheriff's Underwater Rescue and Recovery Unit?

It came about in this way. Jetaun Fisher, who works in the sheriff's office, met the actor at the Sheraton-Palace during the Guys and Dolls performance this week. She made a couple of key introductions, and Marin's underwater unit suddenly had an actor on its honorary roster.

DOGS ARE smarter than you think. The other day on Third Street, a mongrel with flopping ears broke into the middle of traffic and slowly jaywalked across Third. A truck screeched to a halt, and toot-tooted in musical rhythm about eight times. It didn't bother the mutt in the least.

In due time, the dog ambled across to the other side, then peered back at the truck as if to say, "I know you. You can't hit me!" On the truck was a sign identifying it as a Marin County Humane Society vehicle.

COINCIDENCE—A woman, called up for jury duty in the second murder trial of a San Gabriel contractor, had a ready excuse.

She had been called for jury duty on the same case the first time it was tried back in 1959.

Santa Rosan's Name In Congress Race

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

The name of Tom Cox, secretary-manager of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce, has jumped into Republican congressional discussions. Cox, a young Canadian with an Australian wife, is more than a little interested in seeking Rep. Clem Miller's seat in Washington. He has more than a little knowledge, too, about the congressional district.

Before he became Santa Rosa's ballyhoo boy, he was on the staff of the Redwood Empire Association for a year. As an "outside man," he combed the counties of the Redwood Empire, which roughly coincide with the counties of the First Congressional District. Thus he has a working knowledge both of the district and of its business and industry.

As far as we know, he left a pretty good impression behind him and, we're told, he's made a more than creditable showing in Santa Rosa. So he may become a fresh and savory morsel for the Republicans to contemplate.

THEY MAY GET a more definite look at Cox on March 3 in Ukiah. That day the First Congressional District Committee meets again to interview prospective candidates and to try to make up its mind whether it will or will not endorse a candidate before the June primary.

THERE WAS SOME talk about trying to move that March 3 meeting up a week in order to avoid a conflict with the annual convention of the California Republican Assembly in Berkeley that same weekend. However, Marin County Chairman David Winslow has gone East and won't be back by Feb. 24, so chances are slim.

The three-day assembly convention, which starts on March 2, is expected to attract some 400 Republicans from all over the state. Sen. Thomas Kuchel will address the CRA luncheon on Saturday, March 3, and William F. Knowland, former senator and GOP gubernatorial candidate, will speak at the banquet that night.

The organization's Candidate and Fact Finding Committee will meet a day before and during the opening of the convention, making its report for possible endorsements to a Saturday general session.

Although Marin County has no chapter of the CRA here, some Marinites are involved in its operation and a number of them are expected to attend. Lee Sherry of San Anselmo will serve as a member of the fact-finding committee for state treasurer.

DEMOCRAT Robert Carrow of Novato, who is being endorsed this afternoon by the Marin- Sonoma Democratic Clubs as their candidate for State Assembly, may get his wish for a debate with the Republican incumbent, William T. Bagley of San Rafael.

Bagley is giving serious consideration to Carrow's challenge to debate and is of a mind to accept for a meeting sometime in April or June, after the current legislative session but before the primary.

A LAKE COUNTY MAN known to many Marin residents because of his three terms as president of the Redwood Empire Association, Don Emerson, is shaping a course which would put him in the race for state senator from the Lake-Mendocino district. Emerson, a Republican, operates Forest Lake Resort. He hopes to unseat Democrat Waverly Jack Slattery of Finley, Mendocino County, who is this year completing his first term in Sacramento.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Plan Of Babcock Foundation Asked

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The purpose of the Babcock Foundation seems to be a matter of much conjecture. During the recent Marin Sounding Board discussion: Future Places for County Patients, a listener phoned, questioning use of this fund for financing the building of the new wing to Marin General Hospital. None on the panel seemed able to answer this questioner with facts.

Many believe that Mrs. Babcock set up this fund to help those Marin County residents who do not qualify for county aid; those who, through unforseen and prolonged illness are unable, temporarily, to meet medical expenses without foreclosure of home mortgages, etc.

It would seem that the facts of a matter of such general interest should be made public.

ELLEN LA VOIE
(Mrs. Hector La Voie)
Mill Valley

(NOTE: Julia Mae Babcock's will set up a multi-million dollar trust fund for the "charitable relief and treatment of those inhabitants of Marin County who are sick and infirm and in need of medical or surgical assistance and hospital services, or any thereof, without regard to race or religion." The Babcock Foundation was established with this fund to assist persons who do not qualify for county aid. However, more funds are available than needed for this purpose and the foundation, under a section of the will putting "no restrictions . . . with reference to the object or methods of accomplishing the purpose of this trust," have made funds available for hospital construction.)

Maybe Congress Needs Bankers

Editor
Independent-Journal

I'm not writing to say that we need more bankers in Congress, but I do suggest that if we had more Congressmen as bankers things would certainly ease up for me and others I can name.

What I'm talking about is an item that I read the other night about a request that the Secretary of the Treasury made to Congress. He said that he would like Congress to increase the national debt limit by a couple of billion dollars right away, as the government will need more money to operate on.

Asked why, he said that the government's income is uneven, that it doesn't flow in steadily, and that even if the budget is balanced on a 12-months basis there are some months when expenses far exceed income and that it is accordingly that the debt limit should be raised.

Now only a few of us financial experts can understand this matter, but Congress indicated that it would go along with the raise, strictly on a temporary basis. Actually, the debt limit is 285 billion dollars, but Congress each session has raised it a little, temporarily only, to give the government time to work out of its financial difficulties. The limit has now been raised to 298 billion, with two billion expected to be added shortly.

This is why I would like to see more Congressmen as bankers. The U.S. Treasury and my own financial situation are exactly alike. My income and expenses also have their ups and downs, and I don't want to go further into debt permanently—just temporarily.

But it's hard to find a banker with Congressional ideas. When a banker fixes your debt limit, that's it until you increase your assets enough to justify an increase. Sometimes it's hard for me, just as it's impossible for the government, to operate on these terms.

But it's probably better that way—bankers running banks and Congressmen running Congress. If you think that you have seen a crisis in Berlin and Africa, just think what kind there would be in Washington if the Secretary of the Treasury had to confront a Congress run like a bank.

And think how much fun you and I could have if we could find a bank run like Congress.

Yours faithfully,
FOREMAN THOMPSON.
Mill Valley.

'Name Marinite Poet Laureate'

Editor,
Independent-Journal:

We were surprised to learn that the post of poet laureate of the State of California is "up for grabs" and that the State Legislature is considering several unpublished poets for the appointment.

It's time that something be done to give dignity and meaning to the post of poet laureate. The first step is to have the legislature appoint as poet laureate some person who has achieved distinguished recognition in the field of poetry.

Marin County has a distinguished poet of whom we can all be proud. Rosalie Moore (Mrs. William L. Brown, 11 Crescent Drive, Fairfax) is a native Californian of pioneer stock (Placer County). She graduated from the University of California a Phi Beta Kappa and with highest honors and took her M.A. degree in English. Her poems appear in some 26 textbooks published around the country. One of her best known poems, Catalog, first appeared in the New Yorker and has since been republished many times. She has had two Guggenheim Fellowships for Creative Writing and appears in Who's Who of American Women. Her book, The Grasshopper and Other Poems, was published by the Yale University Press, with an introduction by W. H. Auden. Her poems appear in numerous publications, including The Saturday Review, Poetry, New Yorker, Yale Review, Commonweal, Quarterly Review and New World Writing, as well as in many magazines in other countries. Her poems have also appeared in many anthologies, including Accent On Barlow, recently published by Lawrence Hart in San Rafael. She has received awards and prizes from The Poetry Society of America, University of Chicago (Sergel Award) and Poetry Magazine.

In 1959-60 when my husband and I traveled around Latin America for the Reader's Digest we heard many compliments on the outstanding performances of the San Francisco Ballet which is a credit to the Bay Area, the State and the Nation. Similarly, we have distinguished poets in California, such as Rosalie Moore, who, if appointed poet laureate would add lustre and be a credit to our county, our State and our country.

Let's have a real poet for our poet laureate!

Sincerely,
DOROTHEE S. WOLFE.

Due to confusion in civil defense alarm signals, county supervisors authorized installation of a direct private phone connection between Sheriff Walter Sellmer's office and that of the office of civil defense in San Rafael. Sellmer complained a false blackout had been ordered by mistake.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

A 10-year-old boy was instructed to take care of his kid sister while his parents went to town on business, so he allowed her to accompany him on a fishing expedition. "I'll never do that again," he told his ma that night. "I didn't catch a thing." Ma said, "I'm sure she'll be quiet next time if you just explain to her." "Oh, it wasn't the noise," explained the boy. "She ate the bait."

Patrolman Michael Conlin was banished to a beat in the darkest and dreariest part of town. His sin? He inadvertently arrested a man climbing into a taxi in a convict suit, only to discover that said man was an irascible judge on his way to a fancy dress party. The cop learned his lesson. "That's the last time," he swears, "I'll ever book a judge by his cover."

In Marin, The Trend Is Blend

By DON KEOWN

In Marin, the contemporary and the new "return to elegance" furnishings are running neck-and-neck in the home decor sweepstakes. And the tendency is to mix or blend the two, rather than rely upon one style in the decorating of a house.

So reports Lee Marriott, an interior decorator for 35 years.

Marriott adds that the result of this blending is "the suggestion of complete cosmopolitan enjoyment of the surroundings."

Another important decorating trend in Marin and across the country, he says, is the surge in popularity of Oriental pieces to add interest to either a contemporary or elegant decor. "While Oriental decor has been in use here for the last 10 years," he says, "it has begun only recently to influence decorations in the East to any degree."

INTERIOR DECORATOR Lee Marriott shows you the specially-designed mural wallpaper selected by Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Marrin for the rumpus room of their home at 40 Fairway Drive, San Rafael. It uses as its theme the figure of an old Mayan goddess. Specially-designed drapery corresponds to the gaiety of colors—brilliant blues, greens, turquoise and cerise—of the wallpaper. (Independent-Journal photo)

Early American furnishings are rare in Marin. But in some few homes it has been used with striking effect.

THE MOST popular wood at present with Marin householders is walnut "finished somewhat lighter than it used to be." But Marriott hastens to add that "of course, no one is throwing their mahogany away."

As for colors: "Much more intense colors are being employed than ever before in home decoration. The most popular are tones of green-blues contrasted with white, and strong reds and the general range of secondary hues."

"Wallpapers have become almost a necessity," Marriott continues, "and in these, the variety is endless."

The decorator notes that manufacturers have during the last decade sought to coordinate their individual products with those being offered by related trades. "Consequently, it is possible to plan either the simple contemporary style of furniture, or the more elaborate 'return to elegance' fashion in furnishings."

Marriott hastens to add that today's contemporary furniture is completely unlike what was called the "moderne" some 20 years ago. The clean-cut lines, the comfort and pleasant living are there. But the contemporary, too, has at least a touch of the elegant.

As one expression of the "return to elegance" trend in decoration which now shares leadership with the contemporary school of decor, Marriott points to the popularity of gold bathroom accessories. "These can be truly regal appointments," he says.

The Marin decorator continues: "Elegance is also expressed in the renewed interest in the baroque and Italian renaissance decorations."

MARRIOTT ADDS that it is important that the decorator not rely upon his personal preference in making suggestions to the client. "It is the responsibility of the decorator to establish the taste of the client and to be able to supplement those desires, then assist in carrying them out," he explains.

What can a decorator do for a home owner?

First, says Marriott, he can serve as a coordinator between architect and owner when construction of a new home or remodeling of an old is involved. He can make interior suggestions for furnishings, groupings, and colors in keeping with the family's desires and needs. He can see that the special needs of the various members of the family are not overlooked. He can suggest color schemes to coordinate each room with other areas of the home.

And, a relatively new development, he can oversee details of interior construction such as cabinets, bookcases, and built-in television-stereo facilities.

"While TV sets were first considered a separate article of furniture around which the entire room was centered, now the arrangements are much more flexible so as to permit listening to music as well as viewing of television."

Once the furnishing list has been completed and the pieces placed in their intended spaces as shown on the plan, then the actual selections can be made as determined by style and, of course, price.

"The interior decorator must have access to the complete market to be able to provide the variety of furnishings requested," Marriott stresses. "The decorator must also have an absolute knowledge in such selections as to their quality and serviceability.

"In general planning, first consideration is given to style in accordance with the building interior and (if a house) exterior.

"Suggestions are offered when color and style decisions have been made, usually starting with the floor covering, followed by the furniture, upholstering fabrics, draperies and accessories."

SOMETIMES, Marriott says, a request is made by the owner for an extremely unusual treatment of a room presenting a completely different thought from the general tone of the rest of the house. This might be particularly true of a homeowner interested in the new elegance. As a result, manufacturers have made available many more colors and designs than were once available to decorators and home owners.

Marriott stresses that it is the duty of the interior decorator to produce the desired results within the price limits set by the client. If the home owner's desires are financially impractical, then he should be told so in straightforward language, Marriott adds.

"The decorator can actually save the client money through his knowledge, experience and contacts in the home furnishings field," declares Marriott. The interior decorator's established "personal service charge" is based upon the amount of time necessary for him to complete the "legwork" for the client, Marriott adds.

With whom does the decorator work? Is it the housewife or the husband who makes known the family's desires and preferences?

"Well," Marriott smiles, "you usually start out with the husband saying that he doesn't want anything to do with it—that it is up to 'the little woman.' But in nine cases out of 10, before you are through, the husband has had his hand in it. And in many cases, he becomes even more involved than his wife."

Meet The Browns— A Furniture Family

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"We're a furniture family," Lester Barnett Brown said.

Brown, owner of Brown's Home Furnishers at 38 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, said his late father, his two brothers, his sister and his wife have all been engaged in the furniture business.

The good-natured, efficient store owner began his work in 1922 in Sausalito at the shop of his father, S. H. Brown. He sold radios and phonographs "with the big horns."

After Brown met and married Tillie Cooper they lived for 10 years in Mill Valley in the little house next to the store which Brown's father had built in 1927.

WHILE THERE, they installed a speaker system by which they could check the children during the day. Mrs. Brown said they moved to 401 Magee Avenue in 1941 "to get away from the speaker."

Besides, said Mrs. Brown, "people wouldn't hesitate to ring our doorbell at 11 at night and say 'I need a pillow,' or 'I need a blanket, I'm having extra guests.' I don't know how many times this happened to us."

Brown now employs 15 persons. "When we started, there was my father, myself and a man in the truck—three," he recalled.

Born in Oxnard in Ventura County, Brown spent his school days in Alameda.

His father had owned stores in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and Alameda before coming to Sausalito in 1922. The Brown store was near the square with a warehouse just outside of town, and sold appliances.

After high school and prior to going into his father's business in Sausalito, Brown worked for about six months for the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Brown's father built the store at its present location in Mill Valley in 1927. "He was 73 years old when he built it," Brown said. "The contractor went broke and my father borrowed money to complete the construction. Can you imagine doing this at 73? That was the kind of person he was!"

The younger Brown sold phonographs and radios while his father handled the furniture. In 1930, the senior Brown retired and his son took over the management of the business.

AT FIRST, one-half of the store was devoted to hardware—but this was dispensed with.

The store was originally about 18,000 square feet in its floor space, Brown related. "In 1952, we had a bad fire in the warehouse. We then rebuilt to 25,000 square foot."

When we commented that this was a large store, Brown replied: "Not for furniture. You never get enough space for furniture."

He pointed out the space requirements for all the different departments housed in the long, two-story building. There is an appliance section as you enter, followed by large sections of furniture on both the main and second floor, plus departments for toys, drapery, bedding, nursery goods and decorating.

"We have an unusual feature for a small town," said Brown, "our television and stereo service, as well as refrigerator service department." The store also has a large garden furniture section outside.

"We keep our old customers," he said. "I'm starting to serve my third generation."

"WE'RE LIKE an old-fashioned store," the proprietor continued. "We still finance our own papers here."

What Mr. Furniture doesn't like to handle, Mrs. Furniture does.

"For example," said Mrs. Brown, "Lester doesn't hesitate to move furniture around. It's fortunate he does enjoy it, because I don't like that part at all.

"He hates lamps. I really enjoy them. Gift items, I do completely without him. He won't look at them.

"It's perfect. I like things he doesn't like. He likes to order furniture, appliances, TV sets. He keeps control of the stock."

"Mr Brown also loves the office and working with figures. If he isn't too busy, once a week he gets out of the office with a pad," his wife said, "and checks every single item in the store. He checks to see if it is marked properly and in good shape."

For fun, Brown plays tennis. He is a member of the Mill Valley Tennis Club, a member of the Elks Club in San Rafael and a charter member of the Onipa Club in Mill Valley

He has no hobbies other than tennis. "He has no time for hobbies explained Mrs. Brown. "He works six days a week. He hates gardening."

Mrs. Brown added: "I love it."

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Brown say they will ever retire.

BROWN SAID that he and his wife both like to travel. "We're taking a trip to the Orient on the maiden voyage of the Roosevelt in April," he reported.

They have also been to Europe twice, to South America, Australia and on a Mediteranean cruise. "If you don't want to take pictures or write a book, you can have a ball," Brown said, grinning. "Makes you realize what a buck is for."

The Browns both like to dance and admit they like ships because "there is lots of activity aboard."

They were planning to leave for a similar trip by ship 10 years ago. Two weeks before they were to go, the warehouse burned.

A carload of refrigerator merchandise, which arrived one day before the fire, was destroyed. Fortunately, an iron door between the store and warehouse saved the store from also being destroyed. Business continued for the Browns and they took their trip anyway.

In 1954 Brown's brother, Reuben, suffered loss of his furniture store, Brown's Furniture Co., in the San Rafael fire which damaged many stores on Fourth Street. Following this, Reuben Brown decided to go out of business. He had once been partners with a sister, Gertrude Vorst.

Another brother, Albert Brown, was in the furniture business in San Anselmo. Now Brown and his wife are the only members of the family in the furniture business.

THE BROWNS have two daughters. Gloria is married to Thomas Miller, who works in the store. The Millers live in Mill Valley and have two sons, Bradley, 2½, and Gregory, six months.

The Browns' other daughter, Nannette, lives in Kentfield and works in the office of the College of Marin.

The employee who has been with the Browns the longest is manager Elmo Harris. In his 14 years with the firm, he has seen many changes in trends and colors, he observed. "People one day are all interested in modern or wrought iron, then they turn right about face and go in for traditional."

He has seen "tremendous changes" in appliance lines, he added.

"Nylon is now getting a big play in carpets whereas years ago it was cotton and wool. And," he said, "colors change. A few years ago everything was chartreuse. Now we do more in beige, brown and turquoise."

Harris pointed out, with pride, the outstanding customer service award of merit which he said the store has received for eight years for its refrigeration department.

Times have changed, Mrs. Brown agreed, since she and her husband made their first buying trip to San Francisco.

"We were like two babes in the woods, then," she told.

THE BROWNS are proud of the fact that they carry a wide variety of merchandise. Mrs. Brown said: "Many times we have been told 'I have looked every place, and you have it right here in Mill Valley'."

She said that one time when Brown was outgoing president of the Onipa Club, he was presented with a silver cigarette case. "He was told: 'We went every place before we found this. I hope it will fit in your house.' I said we carry them in our store. We have a gold one in the house. We have access to everything that others have."

"I took two years off once and tried playing bridge," Mrs. Brown said, "but I got so bored I decided to come back to work." Her chief interest is in buying. "This is a big challenge," she said.

For Mr. and Mrs. Brown, the whole business is a big challenge. And they are meeting the challenge well.

INTERESTING AND TRUE!

THE CURTIS MATHES STORY

The Curtis-Mathes Company was founded in Dallas in 1899, and has been successfully serving American homes for over 62 years. Through wars, panics, depressions, booms, and technical revolutions, the company has never failed an obligation or a warranty. The company has grown steadily until today it includes over twenty acres of plants in Athens, Dallas and Houston, Texas—ideally located to serve all of America.

Curtis-Mathes is an acknowledged phenomenon in today's highly competitive business world. The company set out to prove a very tired and abused phrase in today's business, "to sell merchandise of the highest possible quality and still sell at very low cost." The two usually are not compatible—proving another old truism "that you get just about what you pay for." Not willing to sacrifice quality to keep prices down, the company set about finding other methods of operation completely opposed to 'normal' means in order to cut operating costs. Here are the things the company has done to accomplish this aim. First, they realized that producing fine merchandise requires the liberal use of fine materials and skilled labor. Since this was the Curtis-Mathes way, it cost them considerably more money than competition in this regard. However, in non-essential costs that contribute nothing to the value of the merchandise but much to its cost, Curtis-Mathes has by far the lowest costs in the industry. By reducing to a minimum national advertising, trade paper advertising, multi-stage distribution, (for example, CM's policy of selecting outstanding merchants as retail distributors who buy direct from the CM factory saves up to 20% of the final cost), excessive occupancy costs, excessive executive costs, and generally high burden costs, the company is able to use finer materials and skilled labor most liberally to build the finest quality, the most beautiful merchandise that the industry affords at costs far below those of their competitors.

Next, of course, is the other part of any set . . . the electronics part. Take TV chassis for example. There are three main qualities. The difference in each case is the number of tubes and luxury features used to produce the finest picture under all conditions. CURTIS-MATHES USES ONLY MAXIMUM QUALITY CHASSIS IN ALL SETS. For other quality CM electronic features check with your distributor.

Treasured Heirlooms In A Modern Home

That's The Happy Combination Enjoyed By The Walter Coynes

Constructed for the owners by William H. McDevitt, building and engineering contractors of 511 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael, the contemporary home and pool were conveniently oriented on one level. The McDevitt firm specializes in custom-designed homes.

The hilltop site was graded to accommodate space for the magnificent 40 foot by 20 foot living room-dining room combination, large combination kitchen and family room, three family bedrooms, each with its own bath, as well as servants' quarters. Private patios for each of the bedrooms are provided. All principal rooms face the oval pool and share a splendid view of the mountains. Tile floors are used for ease of maintenance throughout the house. Extra high are the eight and one-half feet sliding glass walls fronting on the pool. An unusual feature is a skylight running the length of the house.

Board and batten redwood siding is used for both exterior and interior walls. Chocolate brown trim on roof and beams contrasts with off-white exterior wall stain. Overhanging roof provides shelter and shade. Natural beauty of the wooded sight is enhanced by flowering shrubs.

Setting the keynote for the delightful home is lacy Victorian wrought-iron entrance gate, an inheritance from Mrs. Coyne's family. Double doors open to reveal the spectacular living-dining room whose brick hearth and wall paneling are painted white. Exposed beams provide architectural interest, while a built-in storage wall provides space for bookshelves and cabinets and doubles as a divider. Oriental rugs are used on the floors to blend with the warm tone of the tile. A bamboo shade hung over the skylight gives daytime lighting control, since it gives softened light on bright days, or when pushed aside, maximum brightness is achieved during winter months.

Dramatic focal point of this beautiful living area is a carved walnut antique organ which has been in Mrs. Coyne's family for over 75 years. This period piece

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

Home furnishings are items that all families must deal with. Each woman of the house has her own individual tastes as to types of wood, style of furniture, arrangement, etc. When one enters a room that is tastefully furnished and arranged, although not necessarily expensive, you instinctively admire and categorize the occupants as being orderly and organized.

The Stereo Hi-Fi set, because of its two speaker separation requirements, is necessarily a large piece of furniture. Therefore, this piece of furniture will occupy a prominent position in the home. The wise home decorator will choose the Stereo Hi-Fi furniture with as much care as was used to choose the dining room or bedroom furniture.

The family who enjoys good music, and who is critical enough in their sound requirements to demand that components be used to make up their home music system, can select the furniture that houses the stereo items with as much care as they used to select the record changer, tuner, and amplifier.

Since Component Music Systems have become the recognized means of achieving concert hall realism in the home, many of the foremost furniture manufacturers have designed and introduced elegant cabinets to house these sound units. Many styles such as Swedish Modern, Italian Provincial, Early American, Contemporary, South Seas Contemporary, Tropical Modern, Oriental, etc., are available. Features such as Antique White, Parchment, Green and other colors, as well as the standard oiled walnut, satin walnut, mahogany, and maple finishes are available.

Your selection of cabinets to house your components will allow you to choose from long, low single cabinet varieties to the matched three separate cabinet varieties. The three unit furniture will give some decorators the extra flexibility required to place the loudspeaker cabinets correctly for sound and appearance, and the equipment cabinet for convenience and appearance.

The days when the wife had to tolerate a conglomeration of parts and wires so that they could enjoy good music are gone. Now you can have the superb sound offered by components, and also have decorator elegance to house these components. Your home music system can be your most treasured and useful possession. Visit our show rooms and let us show you how to achieve perfection in Sound and Furniture.

An ancient priedieu makes a charming point of interest in the long hall which serves the bedroom wing. Set against a white brick wall, the little shrine is pleasingly lighted by the skylight. The all-white wall treatment is continued in the bedroom wing, with wall to wall beige carpeting. Excellent closets and storage space have been incorporated in this wing by the McDevitt firm.

Some Tips For Those Who Desire Antiques

Is there a key to choosing antiques for the home?

Many amateur collectors ask that question. The current trend to antiques and traditional reproductions is making many people dissatisfied with the furniture they own. Others do not care, but if antiques are the fashionable things to have, they're for them.

People of financial means may rely on reliable dealers to supply them with the finest furniture at a price. The purchaser merely decides whether she wants to live with the formality of say, the popular French salon furniture, or the warmer Provincial styles.

But what of the woman with a small budget who now covets antiques about which she hears so much?

SHE CAN BUY good reproductions. These are so authentic that she can feel they are a pleasing substitute. Or she can settle for a few antique accessories or old American furniture, not quite the before-1830 date that marks an antique.

A great deal of furniture made in the latter half of the 1800s is priced right for beginner collectors. Much of this furniture is NOT worth the price, but one with good taste should know the difference. The good pieces may some day be classified as antiques. In any event if kept in good condition they may be resold without loss, and perhaps with profit.

Southern country furniture and early and mid-Victorian furniture is still reasonably priced. Lady and gentlemen chairs, side chairs, sofas and love seats made in America during the Louis XV period have the French cabriole leg and mix well with French provincial furniture.

A good yardstick for beginners could be to choose furniture that harmonizes with woods now used in the home — acquire pine hutch, dry sink or Boston rocker; a cherry cupboard or dropleaf table; mahogany bow-front chest; walnut wash stand, spool or cotton chest. One who wants to collect from scratch might seek out tiger maple in beds and chests.

Invest in an eye-catcher if you can afford only a small beginning. A warm, friendly conversation piece like a mantel clock can give a room a lift, and give you a great deal of satisfaction. American clocks made before and after 1830 are attractive and comparatively inexpensive. These are used on mantels and shelves and may be used in a section of a bookcase. The plain ogee style of clock of Chauncey Jerome vintage compliments any decor.

OTHER EYE CATCHERS used for drama could include old coal bins (tole bins) used for wood or magazines, duck decoys or oversized amber or green bottles as lamp bases, colored glass shades on kerosene lamps, samplers, trivets and silhouettes on the walls. Weathervane figures such as a fish, ram, cock, horse or Indian make good wall placques. Large and small hooked and braided rugs, coverlets, candlesticks, wall sconces, are all possibilities for beginner collectors.

Old pewter is getting scarce but it is still available in some areas, and a piece picked up here and there may get a little collection rolling in no time. Use porringers and small plates, ash trays, mugs, as flower holders.

People who love contemporary furnishings should stick with it. A home will be far more attractive if the occupants furnish it with things they like rather than things they choose just to be fashionable. Contemporary furnishings that are available are of good design and well made. The public has better taste now and most manufacturers are not producing potboiler designs.

THE TABLE in the dining room of the Col. E. L. Kearney Jr. home at 254 Las Lomas Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base, is French Provincial in fruitwood and antique white. The host chairs are in antique white, the side chairs in fruitwood. Bellach's Design Center, which planned the decorating and furnished the home, also provided the handsome serving cart and bar (see photos at right), a dramatic filigree ceiling fixture in antique white with obscure glass inner bowl for soft lighting, a pair of wall sconces in burnished gold and transparent draperies so the view can be seen through them from the inside. (Photos by Ken Molino)

The New Home Furnishings— A Tribute To Consumer Taste

Manufacturers Cater To Housewives' Appreciation Of Classic Refinements

New home furnishings may generally be considered a tribute to consumer taste.

Classic refinements in nearly all categories give the new pieces a "collector's item" effect . . . an indication that producers are aware of the average homemaker's ability to appreciate such refinements. Further, most of the new lines incorporate enough individuality that they may be used together—an entire room furnished from a single line—or in conjunction with other pieces (previously owned or selected from other new lines) to create an attractive, integrated, but not tastelessly "matching", setting.

As a result, this versatility is an aid as well as a tribute to the consumer. No longer need the homemaker suffer doubts as to whether a new item will harmonize with the existing pieces in her home, nor need she fear that furnishing a whole room with pieces from one line will result in a sterile "show window" effect.

MANUFACTURERS are to be congratulated on this accomplishment; it cannot have been easy to achieve the design of long lines with such individuality among the pieces—or to soften extreme stylings to permit harmony without boring same-ness. The consumer is to be congratulated for her good fortune: Now homemakers may feel free to select just about any furnishings which appeal to them, confident that their choices may be combined into an interesting and integrated end decor.

No single period dominates the new offerings, but nearly all are represented. A full range of provincial, traditional, and contemporary lines is being offered—harmony among them being achieved by grace of line, rich finishes and fabrics, and luxurious but generally restrained detailing. The elaborate Italian influence has grown more widespread, but it has been modified for adaptation to today's homes and needs. The same is true of the still-popular French derivations and even of many provincial lines, which continue last summer's increased refinement and minimize the primitive effect. Contemporary design has lost its starkness, taking on softened contours and warmth in wood and fabric colorings. Here, too, greater richness is added by such refinements as carved legs, dressy hardware, and marbled tops. Most lines show a trend toward larger-scaled pieces, but graceful contours eliminate any resultant bulky appearance.

Walnut continues to retain its first-place popularity, but exotic woods such as teak or rosewood are frequently seen. Antique white finishes are widely shown, often with gold accents, while fruitwood and maple are still favored for provincial and early American styles. Some tendency is seen toward a lightening of natural wood shades. Combinations are also displayed in some lines: One manufacturer combined natural walnut with ebonized banding and accents in its classic contemporary collection; another firm has introduced an early American line featuring decorated black or white with maple. A California producer utilizes palisander wood with black leather. Black leather inserts are also seen in teak and walnut tables.

DINING TABLES indicate further interest in the trend to more formal mealtimes. Larger in scale, the tables include both stationary and extension styles. Tops often combine easy-care with glamor, as in the frequently shown marble tops — including a variety specially treated to be abrasion-resistant and impervious to all stains. One table features a gold-dust-under-glass effect.

Storage problems are solved in a number of ways: Cabinets, room dividers, and breakfronts are available in a range of styles and finishes. The new offerings include a vertical cabinet, simple in line with elaborate pulls, suitable for hi-fi installation or for china, linens, or other shelf storage. Constructed with painstaking care is an unfinished wood room divider which actually incorporate an entire dining unit: table, storage, open shelves, and even magazine racks.

Convenience also keynotes the styling of bedroom pieces. A new informal early American collection in a new mellow-nut finished birch has plastic tops for durability and easy care. A versatile classic line in an antique champagne finish features fully mitered case pieces, with flush ends to facilitate modular groupings.

Grace of line is evident in the new upholstered pieces being shown, with Italian and French design sources popular in transitional styles. Contemporary design has not been overlooked, but it has lost its severity in the new collections' flares, curves and broken lines.

Upholstery fabrics are seen in two color trends: Hot, brilliant hues or pastels. Bright tangerines, golds, and reds are perhaps more widely seen —but there is considerable interest in cool, delicate shades. Pale off-whites and beiges are still popular, and soft vinyls cover many new upholstered pieces.

RICHNESS IS carried out in the new floor coverings. Clear colors in a broad palette of somewhat subdued tones contribute to this effect, as do deep textures and multi-tone weaves—many having a hand-loomed look. Patterns have new importance, with many florals, bold tweeds, and geometrics offered. Favored in the wide color range are still-popular earthtones, off-whites and gold—the latter offered in almost every line and quality.

Preferred fibers are wool, nylon, or Acrilan. One floor covering producer is offering a carpeting tufted with two different nylons to give a three-dimensional tone-on-tone effect.

THERE'S BEAUTY in the traditional as this 18th-century style bedroom designed by Everett Brown demonstrates. Windows feature cornices and draperies trimmed with fringe over sheer undercurtains, and a small over-all pattern wall cover is used above the plain dado. The four-poster bed has a draped tester top. Cork floor is of pegged planks. Wing and Chippendale chairs complete the setting.

HERE'S A ROOM DIVIDER of many talents. Not only does it set off the dining area from the wide open spaces of the modern living-dining combination room, and yet takes up very little floor space, but it also offers shelves for displaying prized artware and crystal and a drawer suitable for anything from linen napkins to a chess set. A special feature is the spacious center compartment which is closed off by doors. Open the door and you have a handy refreshment server.

HAVE YOU HEARD THE LATEST?

Lucinda and Dell Shuttleworth (of Lu-Dell's, you know) have attended several gift shows in the last month. They were away for several weeks. They had a ball! They wined and dined and were wined and dined . . . and they bought like crazy. Lots of new, new things for the store, of course. They met lots of people . . . including some very good salesmen . . . and when they got home they found that they bought more things than they have room to display or stock. So they have to move out the old stock and there are really some wonderful items. I think they could use a little money, too. That's why they've decided to have a sale. Prices are real, real low. They call it—

RELAXATION and the rocking chair are practically synonymous. Thanks partially to President John F. Kennedy's well-publicized fondness for his rocker, these chairs have staged a tremendous comeback. All members of the family, mother, father, big sister, big brother and the baby, enjoy their comfort. Here a "family"—Mrs. Frank Walker, John McDonald and Scott, Brett and Darcy Powell serve as their models—tests some rockers from the Salem Square collection at Montgomery Ward & Co. in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. They approve. But Robert Batty, manager of the store, says that in Marin, tastes run more toward the newer, contemporary styles in rockers. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

Build Party Room Around Your Hobby

If so don't look in the decorating handbooks for tips. Put your family's hobbies to work and center the room's decorative theme around them.

A philatelist, for example, could key the party room decor to his stamp collection, using plaques of mounted stamps for wall decorations and arranging others on mats laid underneath the glass top of a coffee table.

A SKIER could do the same, decorating walls with photographs and travel posters of mountain scenes, and he could even display his equipment as part of the room's decoration, with skis, poles, and boots set in handsome built-in racks that make use of corners.

A person interested in the history and lore of faraway lands could put his knowledge to work by transforming the party room into a South Seas island, an Italian fishing village, or a Japanese tea house.

One home owner, whose interest in American Indians has given him an expert's status, developed his party room into a modified museum, with glass enclosed show cases recessed into the walls for displays of Indian artifacts. Capitalizing on his own artistic talents, he then carved authentic Indian spirit figures right into the wall paneling of the room.

THE PANELING was a tongue-and-groove pattern in Douglas fir, a wood which is noted for its durability but which is also easily worked with small hand tools.

the STEREO HIGH FIDELITY CONSOLE FOR YOUR HOME

NEAT, WELL-PLANNED

That Tailored Look Keynotes The Newest Rugs And Carpets

That "tailored look" — in every sense of the word—is the design highlight for new carpets and rugs.

Strictly speaking, there are carpets as tailored as a well-cut tweed suit. Many have been derived from the sturdy qualities used in commercial installations such as hotels, theaters, offices and schools. Tight-looped, dense textures and neat combinations of two or three colors are the rule in designs of this type.

Color — "Cool and clear" is the color forecast for spring. And if any two colors stand out in the broad spectrum now seen in carpets and rugs, it would be green and blue. These two hues — by themselves, or in combinations — are the colors most favored in new designs.

Blues range all the way from Bristol and rich teal to pastel shades. Green has an equally wide range, with emphasis on bronze and olive, and to some extent on a willow green which can be used as a decorating basic.

Used together, these two colors provide even more variety. There are blends of royal blue/kelly green; light blue/olive; clear blues and greens with purple or lavender tones intermingled, and carpets with six or more shades of blue and green combined.

On the warm side, there is great interest in variations of gold—also a decorating basic —and richer versions of copper, rust and warm brown. Reds are a staple in many lines, in true red or bright scarlet shades.

Solid primary colors stand out — the true blues, sharp reds and clear golds — but they do not tell the entire color story in carpets and rugs. This year more than ever, colors are mixed, scrambled, blended or shaded—and there is further design emphasis on color effects heightened by the skillful use of texture.

There is virtually no limit to the number of colors that can be put into a carpet or rug design—for example, 72 different colors used in one floral pattern. But the result is never color run riot; it is always controlled color, with many different shadings used to define a pattern or emphasize a texture.

Developments in dying techniques have resulted in some new color and pattern interest for 1962 — "space-dyeing" and "deep-dyeing" processes, used chiefly for continuous filament nylon. The first makes possible some mingled color effects, more interesting than the usual tweeds, but with the same practicality underfoot. The second is used in creating light-dark patterns through the use of yarns treated for intensive color reception.

Textures this year continue to highlight these new color achievements and to emphasize the "mood" of a carpet or rug. Looped textures are predominant — in many cases designed in multi-level or embossed fashion — and there are new versions of cut-and-looped pile and twist yarns.

Area rugs are striking in design, as well as in shape. Clean-cut geometrics show up frequently in these self-contained design units, and unusual shapes are seen along with border or center motifs.

Rectangular and oval shapes range in size for 3'x5' and 4'x6' all the way to larger sizes than can provide almost a complete floor covering in a room — and there is, in fact, a market trend to the use of larger sizes.

Many of the new carpet styles, manufactured in standard broadloom widths, lend themselves to use in room-size rug form, because of their precise design and emphatic texture.

And there are companions for many rugs—the same colors or design motifs available in carpeting so that soft floor coverings can be used in compatible styles but in different forms throughout the house.

In price and quality, as well as design, the new carpet and rug collections have been tailored to 1962 consumer demands. Prime examples are the collections of custom-made carpets and rugs and the growing availability of "commercial" qualities for the home.

The influence of designers who work with large public areas has made an impact in the home furnishings field. In carpets this influence is seen in qualities with extra durability and appearance-retention qualities built in, and in the steadily-growing importance of bold design. Some carpet qualities which have been proved in large comercial installations have been made available for residential use, often restyled in patterns or colors most suitable to today's homes.

In the custom field, the customer's imagination is the only limit, since a number of major American mills are now equipped to produce a rug or carpet in a dyed-to-your-order color, unusual texture and in any size or shape desired.

The 1962 "tailored look" is by no means confined to any one price level. A broad choice of color and style can be made as often in the $8 to $10 price range as in the $20-up category. Thus, style-conscious consumers can find good designs and desirable colors in rugs and carpets that are bought for short-term use, as well as in qualities chosen for major home furnishings investments.

Home Is Best Place To Make Carpet Selection

The best place to choose carpet is in the place where you will use it — your own home.

Fortunately, most retailers today offer an "in-home" selection service which has greatly simplified the process of carpet shopping and resulted in satisfaction for new carpet customers.

The advantage of in-home buying is twofold: You save valuable time, and you can see exactly how the carpet will look in the setting of your own furnishings.

Seeing carpet samples in your own home furthermore eliminates any guesswork about the suitability of color and texture.

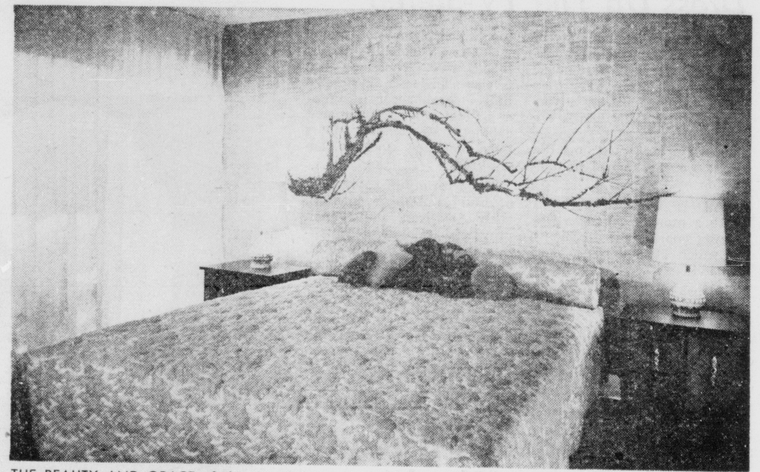
Maybe You Like Contemporary—

A CONTEMPORARY DESIGN group entitled "Dimension" is featured in the Marin Bay model home for which Casa Marin selected contemporary decor with Oriental touches. Travertine-topped cocktail tables with walnut bases complement the walnut-topped end table, and the candlestick lamp adds a bit of the classic.

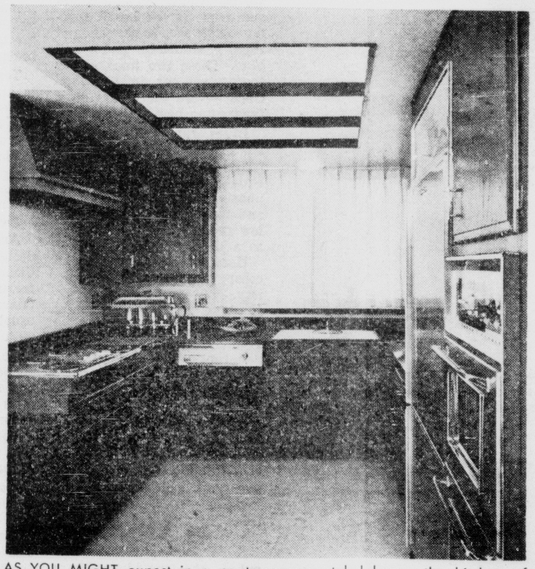
THE SUNKEN BAR and vaulted ceiling are special attractions in the paneled family room of this contemporary Marin Bay home. Free-form breakfast bar continues from the family room into the kitchen. Two serigraph wall hangings add an effective touch.

But If You Prefer More Elegance—



THE BEAUTY AND GRACE of the tastefully decorated home in keeping with the "trend toward elegance" decor so popular now is strikingly apparent in the Marin Bay model home which Casa Marin has done in that style. Scenic Van Luit wallpaper in gold and black, a handsome king-size bed with custom-made quilted spread, cylindrical bolsters in which pillows can be stored, Italian provincial commodes and traditional-styled lamps all lend elegance.

IN THE ADJOINING dining area, the Italian-framed scroll chairs complement transitional American designed walnut and pecan table. A matching buffet services the area.



AS YOU MIGHT expect in a contemporary styled home, the kitchen of this Marin Bay model is all-electric, ultra-modern in furnishings and appliances, and handsomely paneled.

2 STYLES IN DECOR

On Page M-4 interior decorator Lee Marriott discusses the popularity in Marin of the contemporary and the "return of elegance" trends in decoration.

For a personal inspection of the two contrasting styles, you can visit Marin Bay where, on Riviera Drive, two neighboring model homes constructed by Bayview Homes provide striking examples of the two "schools" of decoration. Casa Marin of San Rafael has decorated one of the homes in contemporary, with Oriental touches; the other in the "return to elegance" style featuring Italian provincial.

But in both homes you will note some blending of furniture fashions as reported by Marriott.

ELEGANCE IS THE WORD for the charm of the dining room. See how the semi-modern, high-backed chair offers styling and comfort, and yet adjusts readily to the elegant theme of the entire area.

HERE IS A VIEW in the contemporary-decorated model home at Marin Bay, looking from the dining area into the living room and showing you how the two areas stand as independent units but without a "personality" clash.

THE ELEGANCE of a classically-designed transitional sofa lends an air of grandeur to Casa Marin's Italian Provincial decor of this Marin Bay model home. The sofa is done in elegant silk fabric and is serviced by an antique white cocktail table bordered with gold leaf that also lines columns of the base. Sultan bench matching the sofa and a pair of low-back chairs grouped for a view of the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club are other features.

Smartly-Styled Cabinets Dress Up The TV-Stereo

Thanks to the ingenuity of furniture manufacturers, today's families can hear music and see television when they wish—without having to accomodate in their homes the constant business-like appearance of a "hi-fi set" and the dark eye of a turned-off television set.

All is now camouflaged with a number of firms featuring smartly styled cabinets in which TV and stereo may be hidden.

Figured walnut is used for the four matched doors of a handsome armoire designed to house stereo components, television receiver, and forty tapes. Jewel-like pulls ornament the clean-lined piece, which is six feet high and 31 inches wide. The same firm is also showing a flat-topped hi-fi ensemble consisting of a six-foot center component cabinet with tambour doors plus matching speaker enclosures.

Hugh variety of cabinets is offered in Danish modern, early American, and French provincial cabinet designs—in a selection of oiled walnut, cherry, fruitwood, or mahogany—for housing sound equipment.

MRS. DOUGLAS GODFREY relaxes in the entry to the music room of her home at 144 Center St., San Rafael, which she and her husband have redecorated completely. All in wedgwood blue and white, the room features antiqued white furniture such as the piano seen here, all done by Mrs. Godfrey. Wedgwood wall-to-wall carpeting is next on their list.

"Where There's a Wall There's a Way!"

. . . And Look at These Excellent Features:

Spring Housecleaning Rites Include Furniture Restoring

When spring zephyrs blow and the busy homemaker turns her thoughts to the annual rite of housecleaning, her husband or an older son is usually reminded that a long-delayed "major project" should now be tackled.

Below are listed the proper steps to take when working on a number of furniture repair jobs that are likely to crop up at this time of the year:

Improving Sticky Leather: Wash surface twice with gasoline and allow to dry. Mix an ounce each of lacquer and lacquer thinner and, if possible, spray a coat on the leather. If sprayer is not available use a camel's hair brush and be sure not to repeat strokes. Leave the article in a dust-proof room until it is thoroughly dry.

Dents in Furniture: Wet the affected part with warm water. Fold a piece of brown kraft paper five or six times, soak the paper in warm water, and lay it on the dent. Apply a warm (not hot) iron until the moisture evaporates. If the bruises are not gone, repeat the process. If the surface is not broken the dent will disappear. Be sure to repolish the area.

Scratches on Furniture Shallow scratches on dark finished furniture can often be hidden by touching up with iodine and then polishing. But deep scratches require filling. Remove all loose splinters. Then brush stain—be sure it's lighter than surrounding wood—with a fine brush. Fill the scratch with white shellac but do not permit shellac to overlap the edges of the scratch.

THIS FEMININE Empire bedroom designed by Tom Lee features white-on-white striped vinyl wall covering and has its fleur de lis motif echoed in gold on a white lampshade, in white on the blue acrylic fiber blanket and again in gold on the cornice of the bed curtain. Furniture is warm fruitwood and blue accents appear in opaline accessories. Area rug, also acrilan, in shades of deep rich blue and white contrasts with the solid color wall-to-wall acrylic fiber carpet. All fabrics, blankets and floor coverings can be cleaned with detergent and water.

The New Lamps Gain Inspiration From The Past

Within the past year "traditional" has become a key word in furnishings for the home. This portmanteau term denotes design with definite inspiration from the past, yet interpreted in a fresh new manner and incorporating up-to-the-minute functionalism.

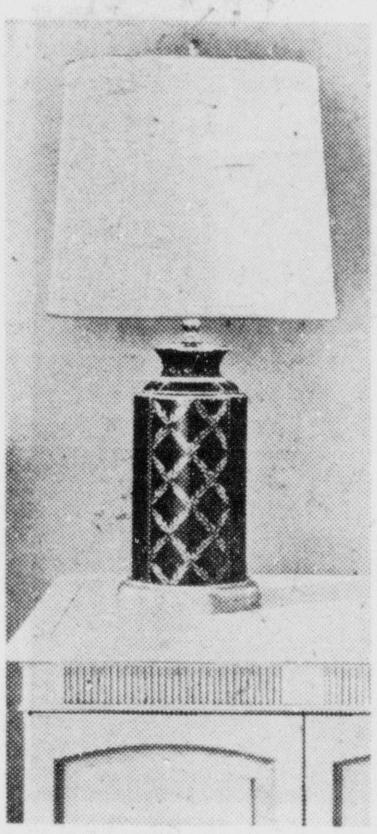
Reports from the Lamp And Shade Institute of America reveal that 60 per cent of lamps introduced this year may be placed in this category.

Versatility is, perhaps, the greatest advantage of transitional styles. A pole or floor lamp with frosted globes echoing the gas light era may be equally appropriate in a room with Victorian decor or one with French Provincial predominating. Urn, obelisk, column and candlestick bases are as compatible with sleek contemporary furniture as they are with period designs. Simplicity of design, restrained decoration and skilful handling of materials characterize lamps in the transitional style.

Fruitwood polished to a glowing sheen, or with an antiqued finish highlighted by gold is highly popular. Gleaming brass, cut crystal, Bristol, marble and white ironstone are among the many materials used for transitional lamps. Traditional tole lamps have been given a new look and are often larger in scale than the familiar single or double candlestick. In some cases the usual flared metal shade with its pierced gallery have been replaced by parchment drums. New tole colors are Williamsburg blue, cantaloupe, and sea foam green. In a more elegant vein are hand-decorated porcelain bases that may be termed traditional because of their classic shape and refined decoration: Laurel wreaths or garlands; acanthus; bead and reel. Background colors are deep and jewel like or clear fruit tones of lemon, lime, or orange.

The symbolic eagle and the pineapple, which stands for hospitality, are used in a number of ways in current lamp decoration. In some instances the eagle or pineapple may comprise the major part of the lamp base and in others either of these motifs may be applied in the form of a brass or gilded wood medallion, hand-painted or as decoupage. Adaptations of ship's lanterns, whale and kerosene oil lamps, gas lights and carriage lanterns are shown not only for table lamps, but for tray, floor and pole lamps, wall and ceiling fixtures. These new versions are treated in a more restrained and sophisticated manner than heretofore so their use is no longer limited to Early American or Victorian decor.

White fabric shades with simple trim are, according to the Lamp And Shade Institute, the most popular choice for transitional lamp bases. Pale neutrals come next, followed by opaque hard shades in deep green, red, blue, brown and even black.



THE SLIGHTLY scalloped oval of the fine china base of this lamp is complimented by the perfect oval of the shade, making a charming lamp for any number of interior styles. The base is decorated and fired in a technique developed in the fine porcelain works of 18th century Bavaria. Oval shantung shade is banded top and bottom with hand-sewn ruching in gold thread.

TOLE LAMP in classic column design acquires new elegance through the use of tinted color washes over gold. Colors include pale canteloupe, misty green and a Williamsburg blue. Dram shades are exactly color matched to the bases and have dull gold banding at top and bottom.

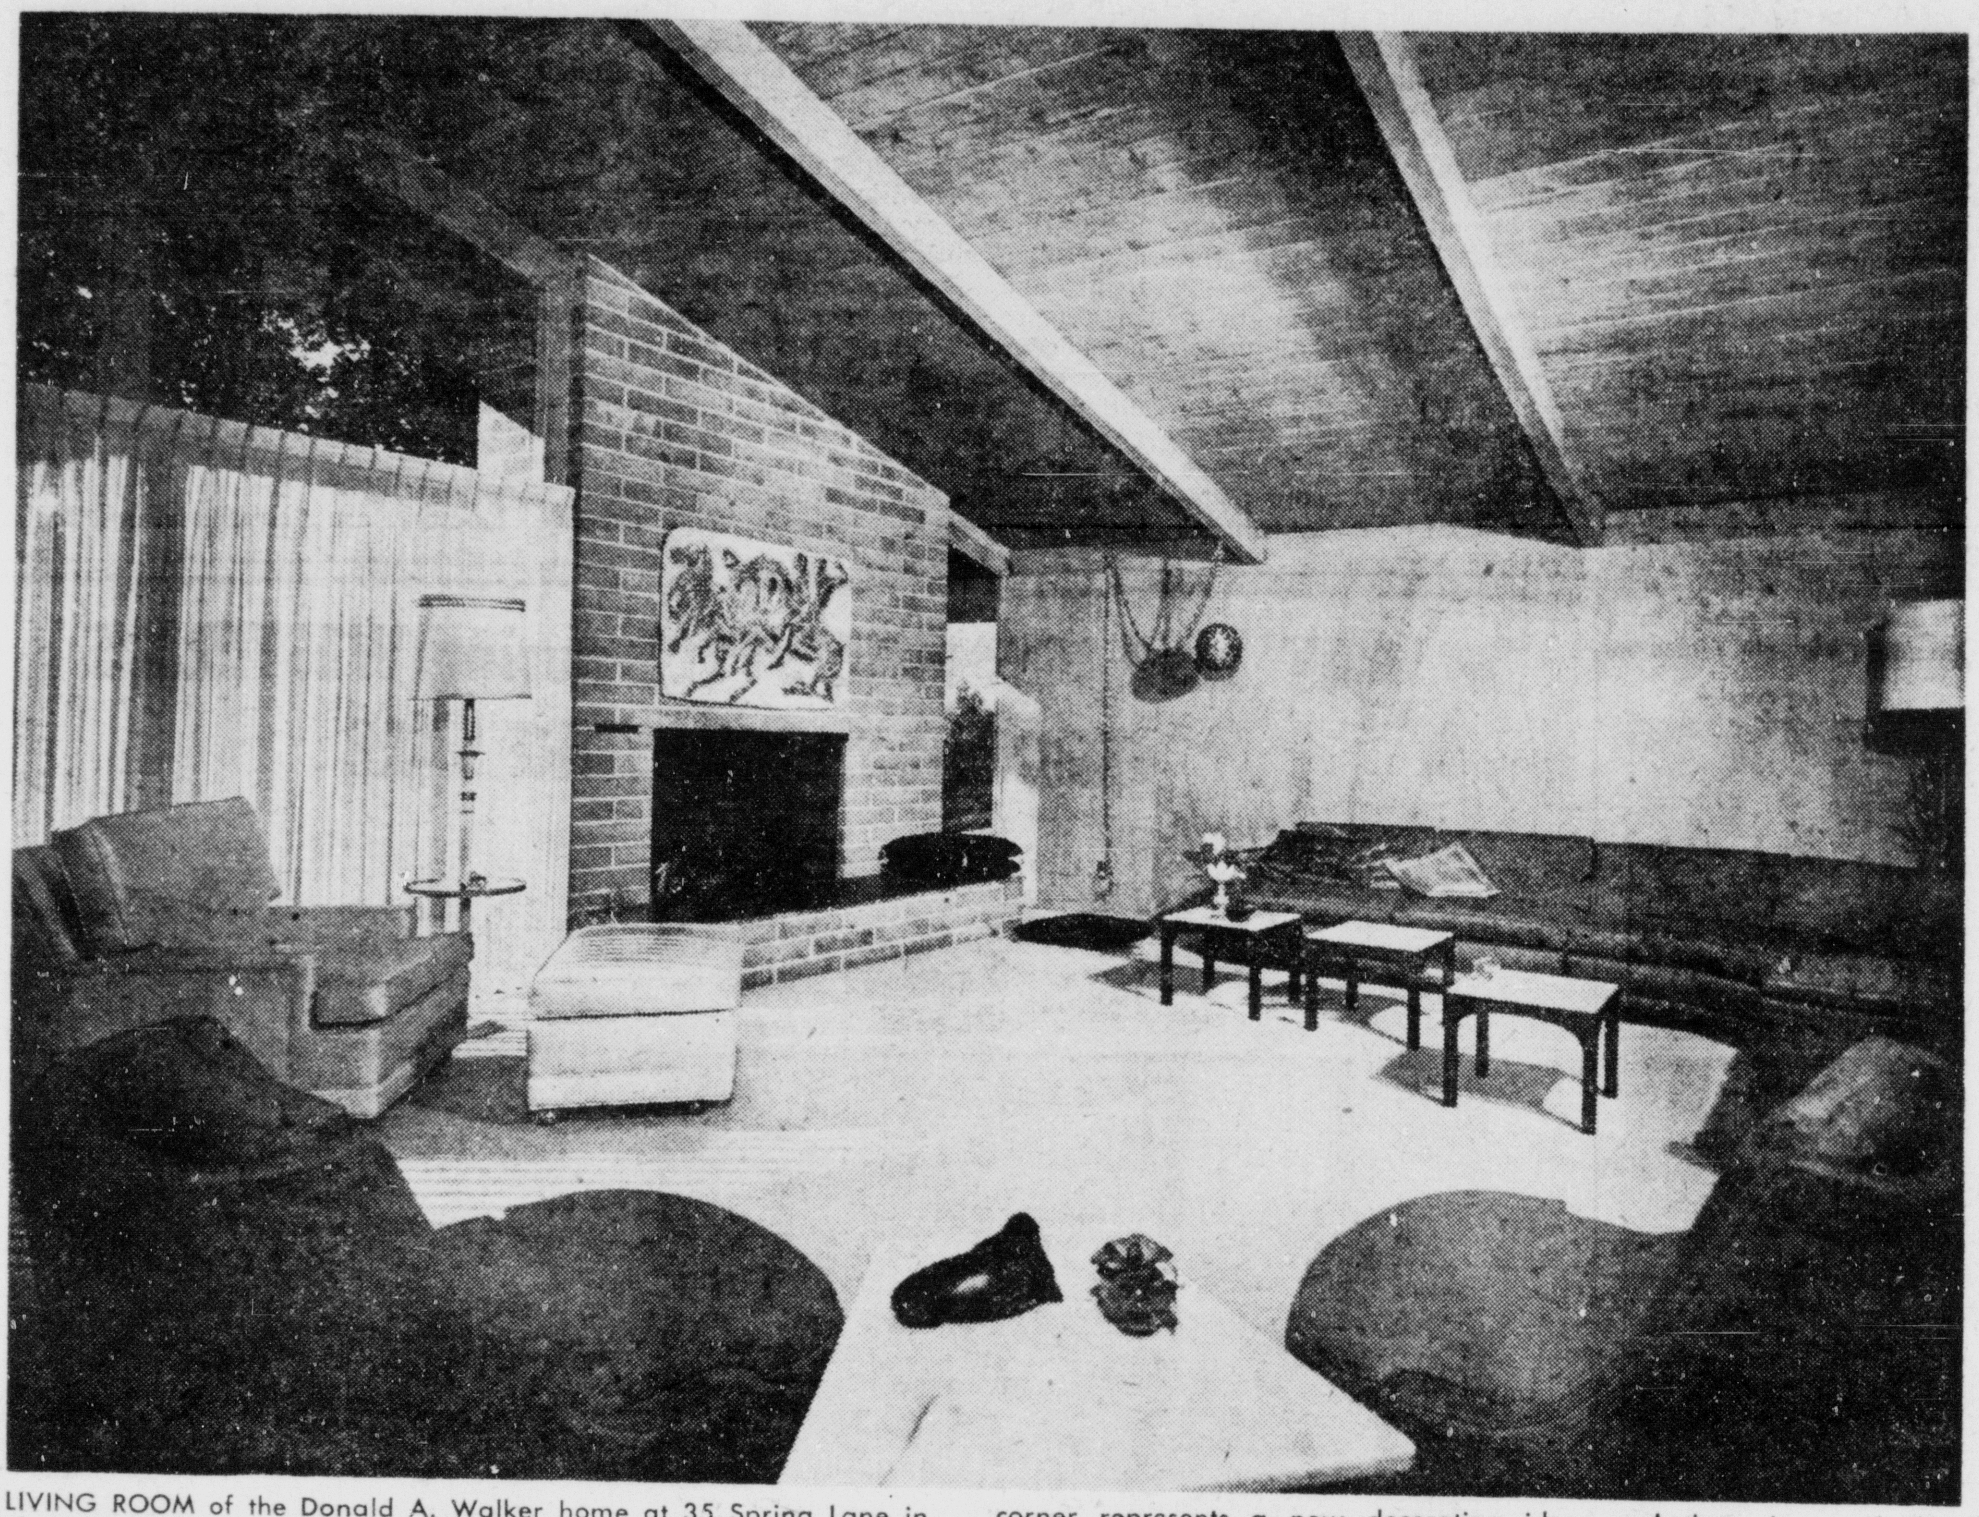
Two Rooms In A Tiburon Home



THE LIVING ROOM of the Donald A. Walker home at 35 Spring Lane in Tiburon features this angular sectional sofa of avocado green matlesse. Bellach's Design Center, responsible for decor and furnishings, also provided three domino tables. Carpet is 501 nylon, off-white. Corner table behind sofa is upholstered in same fabric. Chain lamp hanging in the corner represents a new decorating idea, and there is no "built-in" lighting. The special swivel chairs are gold with a wedge, marble-top table between them. Man's chair and ottoman are in natural naugahyde with a stick lamp that provides a built-in table for ash trays, drinks, etc. On fireplace is a white and gold facsimile of a Grecian frieze. YOUR LEFTOVER TILE CAN BE PUT TO USE

Countless thousands of leftover floor tiles have been used ingeniously after full rooms have been tiled.

A very popular use for leftover tiles is in closets. They provide easy floor cleaning and carry through the decorative effect of the adjoining room when the closet door is opened.

Ease of maintenance also is important for shelves, and leftover tiles can be used to line shelves in clothes closets as well as kitchen and linen closets.

Tile-topped play tables for children are very popular because of the easy cleaning. And designs may be created with 1"-wide feature strip and pictorial themetiles to add individuality.

Leftover tile also can be used to line trays and in wall and door paneling. Covering whole walls, lower portions and room dividers is popular.

Flexible tile such as rubber or solid vinyl can be cut with scissors into shapes suitable for coasters and cushion bottoms for lamps and ash trays.

EVEN CHAIRS will be pairing off this spring. Among the new "Mr. and Mrs." chair combinations is this one by Dearborn Co. For the "Mrs.," it's an armless wing chair measuring 27 inches in width and standing 31 inches high in a light, girlish fabric. For the "Mr." it's a bolder wing chair with arms. The print is dashing and masculine and it stands 36 inches high and is 32 inches wide.

Garden Furniture Gets Fancy

The newest collections are far too handsome to put outside and forget, for a few years, anyway. Many pieces would make excellent choices for newlyweds furnishing a small apartment with an eye to making the same furniture do for a suburban terrace, loggia or rumpus room in a few years.

In fact, one wrought iron line offers "starter sets" for young-marrieds. Moderately priced, it includes each chairs, loveseats and occasional tables in several unusual designs. One design is fashioned of airy meshlike wrought iron, curved up like an ice cream scoop at sides and back of seats.

Foam cushioning and a choice of striking upholstery fabrics make the group dressy enough for indoors, but the metal frames are rust-resistant for outdoor use in later years.

Collectors' pieces, too, can be found in the new garden furniture lines. Outstanding in this category is a slimly-styled metal chair in a regency design reminiscent of French court furniture of the 18th century. It's cushioned in foam rubber and upholstered in white vinyl with the look of top-grade leather and strictly for connoisseurs; the retail price is $1,250.

Rattan, too, has gone high style and high priced this year. One rattan chaise, cushioned in foam rubber, covered in a raw silk twill, its long exposed back accented with rawhide bindings, carries the price tag $500.

Whimsical little woven-palm circular hassocks in the same collection have foam-cushioned tops and the tiniest of back rests, accounting for the name, "backache seats." Philippine inspirations, they are good for corners.

Conversation piece of the rattan collections is a lotus chair with petal-shaped back that could pass for an Oriental throne.

YOU AND YOUR INSURANCE

THOUSANDS OF MOTORISTS NOW SAVING MONEY ON AUTO INSURANCE UNDER SAFE DRIVING PLANS

Many thousands of motorists are saving money on their automobile insurance under "safer driver insurance plans" which capital stock insurance companies have already introduced in 34 states, according to the Marin County Association of Insurance Agents. Such a plan has been effective in this state since 1959.

Generally speaking, these plans are based on a penalty point system. Points are charged for accidents in which the policyholder is at fault, and for serious traffic violations. If he accumulates points, he pays higher premiums for his insurance. But if his record remains clear, he pays a lower premium than usual. Thus, the plans encourage safe driving.

By placing a dollar value on careful driving, the plan provides a motorist with a strong incentive to mind his highway manners and develop the defensive driving habits essential to the avoidance of accidents.

This is a reason why the safe driver plan has been endorsed enthusiastically by many motor vehicle administrators as a valuable ally of highway safety.

Good drivers have long protested against having to pay the same premium as those who cause accidents through their recklessness and disregard of the highway laws. The safe driver plan not only recognizes the merits of careful driving through a premium saving, but provides a financial inducement to the careless to be more alert in the future.

The reception of the safe driver plan by the public has demonstrated that the great majority of motorists favor insurance rating based upon the driving record of individuals, a method by which those with clear driving records during the experience period pay lower rates than accident-prone drivers—those with a record of mishaps and serious motor vehicle traffic violations, the Institute stated.

Three of every four drivers qualify for the safe driver plan rate discount, national studies show.

Questions sometimes are raised as to whether drivers with records of convictions for serious traffic violations should be classed in the same category with drivers having accident records. A distinction between the two groups would be meaningless. Official state studies have demonstrated that, as drivers accumulate a record of traffic violations, they also are likely to accumulate a record of accidents.

This was borne out, for example, by a study of some 95,000 drivers in California. Drivers in this study with no records of moving traffic violations had a much better accident record than did those drivers who had been convicted of traffic violations.

Over the three-year period on which the study was based, those who were free from moving traffic violations had a ratio of only nine accidents for every 100 drivers. Drivers with four or more moving violations in their record had a ratio of 50 accidents for every 100 drivers. A study in Texas showed a similar correlation between traffic violations and accidents.

Companies offering this plan are members of National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and National Automobile Underwriters Association.

"WHY DID MY SILK PARTY DRESS SPLIT?"

Splitting of silk is a mystery to even the experts. Some say that silk is especially vulnerable to perspiration, heat, wear or light. Others say that raw silk is stiff, naturally, and the processing of it causes the splitting. Then some say the ply of the yarn, the twists per inch, balance between lengthwise and crosswise yarns cause splitting. Frankly, no one knows exactly why. We do know that most breaks or splits occur at the bend of the elbow, the shoulder area, waistline, seat, sleeve cap or at tightly fotted darts or seams. It does occur where wear has caused flexing and strain.

Once a split has started, drycleaning may show it up or even cause more splitting. However, do not let splitting make you hesitate about having your silks drycleaned. Splitting happens only to one dress in thousands. Silk fabrics, almost without exception, dryclean beautifully. Wear them and enjoy them and, of course, have them drycleaned.

POWERFUL BUSY

What did I do today, you ask?
I didn't do a single task;
I was powerful busy just the same
Doing things you wouldn't name.
I went a walking amongst wild wheat
And heard the kernels crack and squeak,
Beside a stream I sat real still
And listened to the ripple rill;
I looked up at a fleecy cloud,
And heard a bluejay laugh out loud.
There was a breeze as soft as silk
And the bee buzz had a happy lilt;
I looked deep within a flower
And smelt the perfume for an hour.
Then when I finally took a rest,
I saw a robin build a nest.
In doin' things you wouldn't name,
I was powerful busy just the same.

SAUSALITO — FRANCISCA McCLUGGAGE

THE APPARITION

One day while walking on the moor
Along the North Seas barren shore
I saw in the distance a beautiful white dog
Barely visible through the fog;
This mastiff perched on a windy knoll
Made me shudder as I heard the distant village bells toll,
But when these eerie strains had left the air
I looked again and the dog was not there.
To this day I still remember that sight
When I lie awake in my cottage at night.

NOVATO — RAY VOGENSEN

OUT OF TUNE

His hands are pale, his hair is set;
There are those who call him "pretty."
"Eyes of blue," "I love you," "dear heart,"
"When we part"—a moron's ditty.
The tune's not his; words another's;
The girl from an unknown city.
This singer is healthy enough
To work, but won't. What a pity.

THIS IS THE WAY the audience will see conductor Hugo Rinaldi and his San Rafael Chamber Orchestra on stage when they present their concert tomorrow afternoon in the San Rafael High School auditorium. But for some weeks now, the musicians have been seeing a somewhat different Rinaldi as the conductor has been putting them through their paces, rehearsing for tomorrow's concert. The other pictures on this page show you that Rinaldi—a musician's eye view of an energetic, expressive conductor hard at work polishing the performance of his charges.

How Musicians See Conductor

San Rafael's Chamber Orchestra is now two years old and 30 members strong. It includes musicians from San Francisco, Oakland and Marin symphonies.

Under the baton of its conductor, Hugo Rinaldi, the chamber orchestra will appear in its second concert of its current series tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the auditorium of San Rafael High School. Tomorrow's concert has been made possible by a grant from Local 6 of the Musicians Union.

Two other concerts, completing this year's baroque series, will be staged later under the sponsorship of the San Rafael Recreation Department.

For every concert appearance, there are, of course, hours of rehearsal time in facilities provided by the music department of Dominican College. It is then that conductor and musicians work together to make certain that the performance their audience will hear will be their finest possible effort.

In the photographs on this page you see conductor Rinaldi and his charges in rehearsal. What you are getting is a rare opportunity to see the man with the baton as the musicians see him, for the photos were taken from various sections of the chamber orchestra.

OF THE CELLISTS in the chamber orchestra Rinaldi begs: "Canta . . . sing when you play!"

TO THE FIRST VIOLINS of the baroque orchestra, conductor Rinaldi offers this advice: "Con cuore . . . play from the heart." And they heed their leader.

Catalog Of The Classics

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, Bay Area FM and Cultural Guide

One of the finest catalogs of classical music on record is being assembled by Deutsche Grammophone Gesellschaft in direct-import factory sealed albums available at most record shops in the Bay Area. Included among the outstanding musical artists on DGG are the greatest Russian pianist living, Sviatoslav Richter; the leading Soviet symphony, the Leningrad Philharmonic; the famed cellist Mstislav Rostropovich; soprano Irmgard Seefried; pianist Geza Anda; violinist David Oistrakh; and such world-renowned conductors as Ferenc Fricsay, Herbert Von Karajain, Karl Bohm, Eugen Jochum and Jevgenij Mravinsky.

Another attraction of Deutsche Grammophone is the superb sound reproduction, both in stereo and monophonic, and the extremely quiet record surfaces. Among recent releases of unusual interest are the last three Tchaikovsky symphonies in stereo, with Mravinsky and the Leningrad Philharmonic; the "Schumann Cello Concerto" with Rostropovich as soloist, "Italienisches Leiderbuch" of Hugo Wolf sung by Irmgard Seefried; the "Second Piano Concerto" of Rachmaninoff played by Richter (winner of a Grand Prix du Disque); and the First Piano Concerto of Bela Bartok, performed by Geza Anda and the Berlin Radio Symphony Orchestra.

Complete operas are also an important part of the DGG repertory: "A Masked Ball" of Verdi; "Elektra" of Richard Strauss; and "Bluebeard's Castle" by Bartok, another Prix du Disque recipient.

The West German record company traces its origin back to the Berliner "Grammophon" of 1898 and the beginnings of the recording art itself. A label to look into seriously.

He Takes Camera From Country To Country To Catch Their Color

By EMILY WHITE

They will be shown at the San Francisco Museum of Art for a month beginning March 21.

Casey himself has just returned from Mexico and plans to go back there after the San Francisco show.

THERE WAS A time when the itinerant photographer in America arrived in his own type of covered wagon, put up his box camera in your home, and returned hand-tinted photos, large and expensive. These photos graced the carefully-kept parlors, even if the photographer often lazily painted the same dress on all the ladies.

Now a traveling photographer can be, as in the case of Casey Sonnabend, a seeker after rare sights, catcher of enchantment. And with his camera he goes out, not from state to territory, from town to settlement, but from country to country. In place of a covered wagon he might have a compact car. But Casey usually dispenses with this.

He manages to show pictures from Italy, Spain, Denmark, Tangiers, Formosa, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Marin County.

He grew up in Los Angeles, but Sausalito has been his "home" since. To be present at one of Casey's homecomings, either in Sausalito or at North Beach, is an event. Although he is usually addressed as just plain "Casey," (his real name, not a nickname), people hailing him from cars, or along the waterfront, in a bookshop, usually call out "Sonnabend" in a long drawn-out way. It is a sound that includes surprise at seeing Casey back again.

AS THE FRIENDS gather round to chat, there is some envy as Casey tells of his

THIS AMERICAN ballet dancer was spending a summer in southern Spain when she was photographed by Casey Sonnabend. The wild, unruly hair resulted in a most unusual "portrait."

trips—now of Mexico and his excitement over the poetry of the Zapotec Indians of the Oaxaca Valley. To his old friends he gets around to telling about the book he is putting on tape about this valley, and the pictures he will take when he returns.

"How do you do it, man?" they say. "How do you get around?"

Casey could have inherited some of his resourcefulness from his father, who is now Herman Sonnabend Inc. of Los Angeles. A former editor of the Buffalo Evening News, the elder Sonnabend came to Los Angeles to edit a magazine for the dressmaking trade called the "California Stylist." Later his own magazine in the field failed, but, through the friends he had made, Herman Sonnabend went into the fabric business. This was such a success he now operates under three trade names.

IN THE MEANTIME Casey and his brother (now a physicist for Philco) were growing up in Los Angeles. Casey began what one could call his "performing" life at the age of 12 as a drummer with the Junior Philharmonic in Los Angeles's Shrine Auditorium. He played drums for 10 years with the Junior Orchestra, and is still considered one of the best drummers on the West Coast, although he only occasionally sits in with some friends in a combo.

Uncle Sam and his navy provided Casey's first point of departure from these shores. For a year and a half he was a navy musician on the heavy cruisers St. Paul and Helena. As he was boarding ship one day, his uncle handed him his own Rolleiflex. "Oh, I don't want that," said Casey, who is not a person to be burdened with any sort of gear. But his uncle pressed it upon him.

After the navy Casey went to Italy. He appeared as a jazz drummer, under the billing "Sonnabend, Casey Battarista." And his "compleso" (combo) became so well known in Italy he represented Florence at an international jazz concert in Rome.

Success probably began to "fence Casey in." So he left Italy to study painting under Oskar Kokoschka at Salzburg. He stayed there two years. This probably explains the "painter" effect which people often admire in his photographs. In 1958 his paintings were exhibited at a juried show in Florence.

"THAT SPEED Graphic," Casey says, and expressively makes a gesture which lifts the camera over his shoulders as though it were a mountain. You could see that this kind of photography was not for Casey. But there he learned to develop his own negatives.

"How do you do it man?" they ask. Simplicity is the secret. Talk of a hood or even a light meter, he waves away. Yet there is art in this artlessness. When they ask him what paper he uses he says "I just reach on the shelf." Then he tells you that the pictures he took of Carmen Amaya in Los Angeles have been entrusted to the "one person in the world" he would permit to print them. He uses his own kind of care, and his own insight gets the results.

Simplicity is also the secret of his travel. Nothing goes with Casey that is not necessary. A notebook, a new cartridge pen which has solved his ink packing problem, an extra pair of shoes. A sweater over his shoulders. On his trip to Mexico, his camera was stolen. Luckily he was traveling this light, for he had not taken the, to him, cumbersome "Rollei." It is going back with him this time. And on his return people will be out to see the results. For Casey has not yet photographed his latest love, Mexico.

Already you can see he is getting anxious to be on his way.

HIS FRIEND, Nick Reynolds of the Kingston Trio, drives up in his new real-red Ferrari. He has a three week engagement at the Coconut Grove and wants Casey to drive his Ferrari down for him. Casey looks at the bright red of the beautiful machine and is tempted. Then he shakes his head.

"No, man," he says. "I've got to finish this tape."

You can see that the finishing of the book on tape will bring him closer to another departure. And he shakes his head to his friend. He must be off.

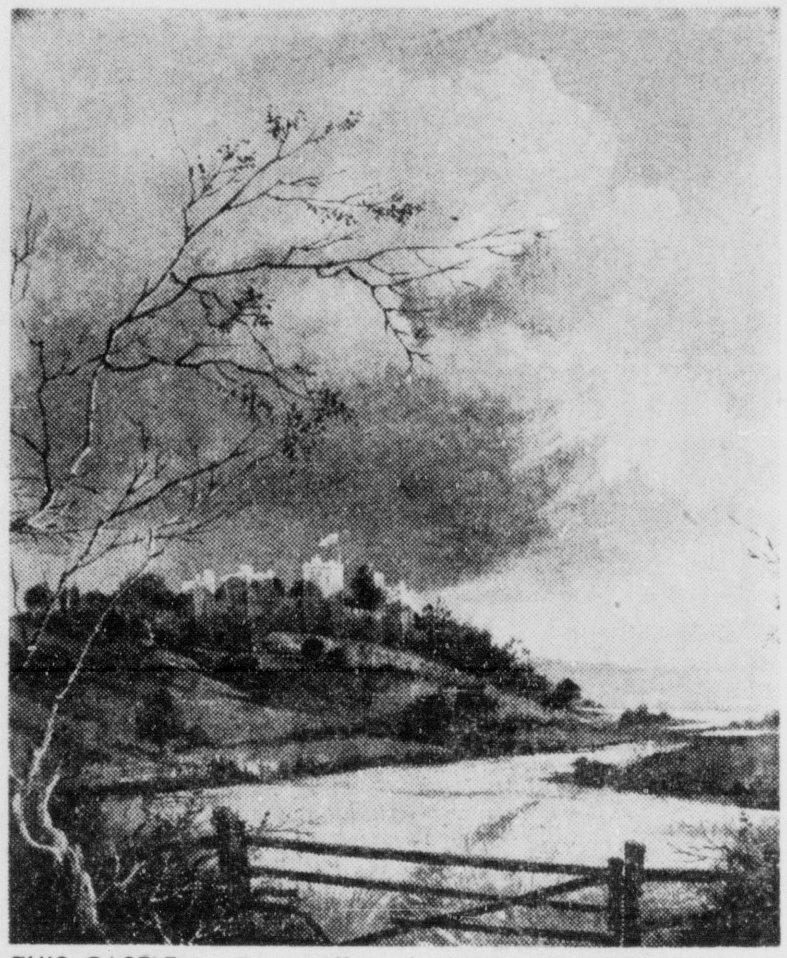
Sausalito Publishers In Salute To Colorful S.F. Chinese Opera

SAN FRANCISCO CHINESE OPERA by C. Y. Lee and Nicole Schoening, Angel Island Publications Inc., 50 cents. Reviewed by Don Keown.

"In honor of the opening of the opera season and the new year," reads the note from Sausalito's Angel Island Publications accompanying the review copy of this little booklet. It's typical of this imaginative group to come up with such a novel idea for publication, and then execute it so well.

The booklet consists of text by C. Y. Lee, author of "The Flower Drum Song," and photographs by Nicole Schoening, a recent migrant from New York City.

The text includes a somewhat matter-of-fact account of the development of Chinese drama and opera, and a more interesting description of the colorful Chinese opera as it exists today both in China and in San Francisco. Miss Schoening's photos are of striking quality, although limited in number because of the size of the booklet. The overall impression is that the book covers its subject as competently as the restricted space permits. And that the photos come closer to the text in upholding Angel Island Publications' reputation for creativity and freshness of approach to its projects.



THIS CASTLE in Cornwall is the setting for "Castle Dor" by Arthur Quiller-Couch and Daphne Du Maurier, a romantic novel putting the Tristan legend in 19th century dress. This jacket painting is by Alan Price.

CASTLE DOR by Arthur Quiller-Couch and Daphne du Maurier, Doubleday and Co., 274 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This novel set in 19th century Cornwall has an unusual background. It was begun in the 1920s by Quiller-Couch, then set aside and not discovered until after his death in 1944. His daughter then persuaded her friend, Miss du Maurier, to finish the novel.

Our impression is that Miss du Maurier did the better job of the two. At least the novel seems to get off to a wobbly, uncertain start, but finish much stronger.

It is based on the old Cornish-Breton legend of the tragic romance of Tristan and Iseult which held a strong fascination for both Quiller-Couch and Miss du Maurier. Something of the air of melancholy eeriness typical of Miss du Maurier is there. And even though it is not one of her finer efforts, her fans will enjoy the book.

THE CHINESE LAKE MURDERS by Robert Van Gulik, Harper and Brothers, 211 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

What must be the most unusual sleuth in mystery story fiction is Robert Van Gulik's Dee Jen-djieh better known as Judge Dee. As a magistrate in ancient China he serves his district as administrator, detective, prosecutor, judge and jury.

This time Van Gulik involves his venerable magistrate and his aides in a complicated plot that includes the murder of a beautiful courtesan, a bride who dies on wedding night and then disappears from her coffin, a mysterious chess problem, a secret sect planning to overthrow the government and any number of other illegal activities and developments.

If the plotting becomes a little tangled, this weakness is more than offset by Van Gulik's excellent characterization and his skilled use of his setting—China of A. D. 666. It's an enjoyable offbeat "whodunit."

THE CACTUS AND THE CROWN by Catherine Gavin, Doubleday and Co., 472 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Bill Hendricks.

This is a not too well-written book about a fascinating and little covered epoch of history, the try of the French and Emperor Maximilian to conquer Mexico just after the Civil War in the States.

Authoress Gavin (this is her seventh book) did the story after three short trips to Mexico, and to some degree the prose reflects the haste of the writer. But the historical times, filled with the mad empress, Carlota, movement of brightly uniformed troops over desert sands and the final thundering crash of an empire, bring life and movement to an otherwise dull book.

CRUSADE AGAINST CRIME edited by Jerry B. Lewis, Bernard Geis Asociates, 372 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This is largely a collection of accounts of criminal cases handled by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other U.S. law enforcement agencies, taken from earlier books, newspapers, magazines and speeches.

Editor Lewis has amassed an impressive array of names among his "authors." Included are J. Edgar Hoover himself, Vance Packard, Quentin Reynolds, Robert F. Kennedy, Alistair Cooke, Don Whitehead, Morris L. Ernst, Harold R. Medina, William Bradford Huie, Walter Winchell, Philip Wylie and Melvin Purvis.

The articles, however, are generally disappointing. Only a few really capture the color, excitement and human elements of their occasions. And very few add information to that already generally known about these crimes.

For instance, Winchell, despite his reputation as a reporter, succeeds in making the surrender of Lepke Buchalter sound surprisingly dull and commonplace. Purvis' "I Remember John Dillinger" and J. Edgar Hoover's "Crime of the Century" are so terse as to be practically devoid of the personal observations which would have given them spice. Our feeling is that editor Lewis would have done better to have included fewer cases, and printed accounts of greater detail and depth.

The collection, however, is not without its gems. Evan McLeod Wylie's humorous story of some bungling bank robbers is delightful. Alan Hynd's story — "Gold Bricks on Signal Hill"—about a pair of almost unbelievable swindlers in action, is excellent. Also among the more interesting chapters is the story of the Marin-based bank robber, William Liebscher Jr., as taken from Don Whitehead's book, "Journey Into Crime."

Fans of true crime stories will no doubt derive some enjoyment from the book. But it is not among the better collections in its field.

Youngsters Can Create With Paper

PLAY WITH PAPER by Thea Bank-Jensen, The Macmillan Co., 48 pages, $1.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Boats, baskets, windmills, paper furniture for doll houses, circus acts, paper lace, mobiles, airplanes, birds that walk and fly, and something called a heatmobile are just some of the articles Miss Bank-Jensen invites her young readers to manufacture from paper.

"Have fun," she tells them. "Feel free to experiment."

But to get them started she supplies instructions in words and pictures for some of the basic products.

She says the book is intended for children 6 and over. But 6-year-olds are going to need considerable assistance from mother before they will be able to digest and carry out the instructions. For a real "do-it-yourself" reception, the book should be placed in the hands of youngsters somewhat older, about 8 or 9.

The author is an instructor in teacher's training in Denmark and the book is translated from the Danish.

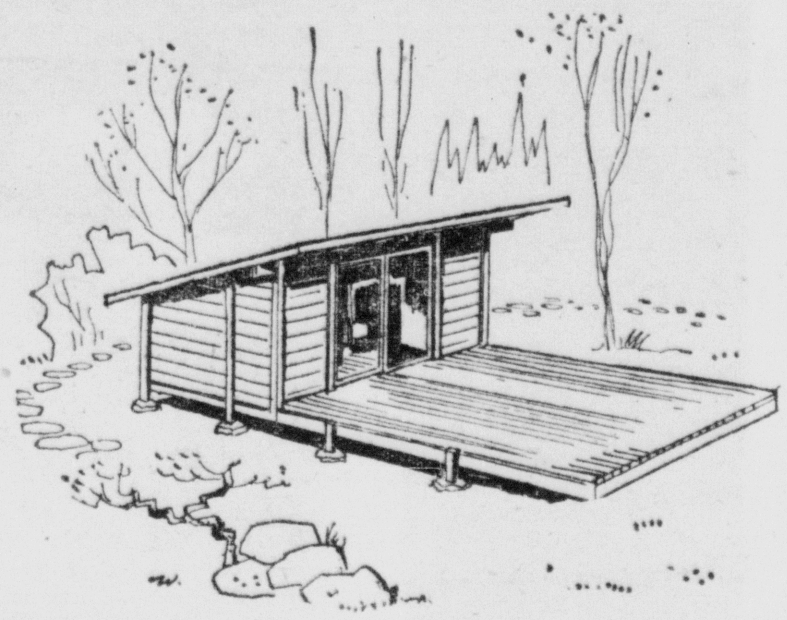
It's Time To Plan A Cabin



It's the time of the year again to start thinking about that vacation cabin you've been planning to construct. And the first step, of course, is the selection of a plan.

One do-it-yourself vacation cabin, really designed to be built by the do-it-yourselfer, has been developed by the West Coast Lumberman's Assn. The cost: Only $445 for lumber, nails and roofing.

The cabin, conceived for those who want a home away from home but who can afford only a small price, is truly unusual.

It is a growth cabin, and can be built in your basement or garage and moved in sections to the cabin site in the mountains or at the shore.

The cabin is designed to be built in add-on sections. The first section or starter cabin is nine by 12 feet and includes a porch deck 12 by 18 feet in size. Into this nine-by-12 foot enclosure can be fitted two double bunks, a section of cabinetry for cooking facilities, and an enclosure for toilet and washbasin—literally all the essentials needed for a family weekending in the mountains, in the country or at the beach.

The cabin is well designed, not a shack. It uses sturdy Douglas fir framing lumber, lovely western red cedar bevel siding, interior paneling of cedar, fir or west coast hemlock, and tough fir flooring for deck and cabin.

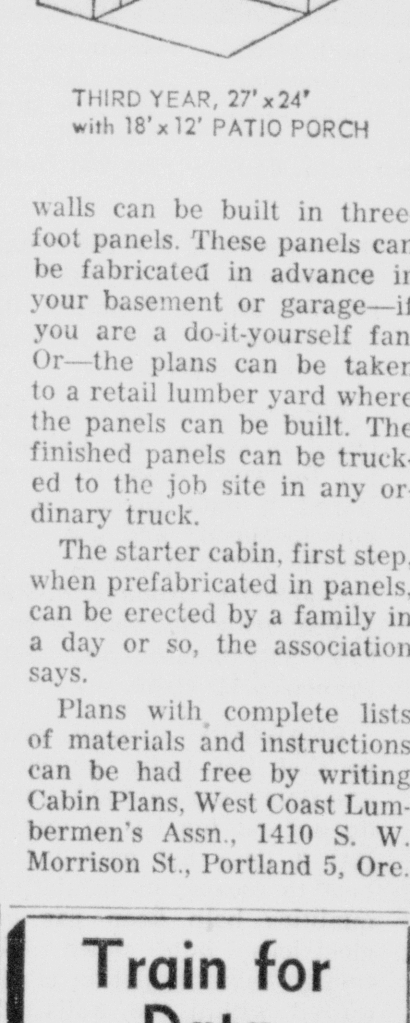
Here's how the starter plan works, as the family gets more money in the till. The nine-by-12 starter cabin with 12-by-18 porch deck is the first component. A year or two later, an exact matching cabin is built facing the first with the roofs joined and a mid-section built to connect the two. The deck serves as the floor. This makes a cabin 27-by-12 in size.

The third step is to duplicate the original starter cabin, with this cabin joined to the first. This provides a cabin 27-by-24 feet, and with the addition of a 12-by-18 porch deck, a pretty substantial summer home is realized.

The starter or growth cabin has been designed so that

FIRST YEAR, 9' x 12'

SECOND YEAR, 27' x 12'



THIRD YEAR, 27' x 24' with 18' x 12' PATIO PORCH

PLANS for this starter vacation cabin are available from the West Coast Lumbermen's Assn. in Portland, Ore. Features include its low cost—$445 in materials. It can be built in three stages. It can be pre-fabricated in three-foot panels in the basement or garage and then transported to the cabin site. Illustration at right of second year stage fails to show deck, but it is advisable to construct a 12-foot one across the front of the cabin to serve as floor of the third year addition and the permanent deck.

walls can be built in three-foot panels. These panels can be fabricated in advance in your basement or garage—if you are a do-it-yourself fan. Or—the plans can be taken to a retail lumber yard where the panels can be built. The finished panels can be trucked to the job site in any ordinary truck.

The starter cabin, first step, when prefabricated in panels, can be erected by a family in a day or so, the association says.

Plans with complete lists of materials and instructions can be had free by writing Cabin Plans, West Coast Lumbermen's Assn., 1410 S. W. Morrison St., Portland 5, Ore.

How About A Sauna Built Of Redwood?

The People Of The U.S. Adopt A Popular Finnish Institution

The sauna, or dry heat bath, may became as popular in the United States as in its native Finland.

Homeowners are installing sauna baths adjoining their bedrooms or beside their swimming pools, motel owners advertise saunas as enticements to weary travelers, apartment house entrepreneurs report more rapid rentals with saunas on the premises, and beauty shops are installing sauna rooms and offering the baths as a means of clearing the skin and refreshing the body.

The sauna bath is exposure to very hot (180 to 200 degrees), very dry air for 10 to 15 minutes at a time, alternated with cold showers (in Finland, a dive into an icy mountain lake). Some people top off the exposure to dry heat with a few minutes of steam.

DEVOTEES of the sauna are enthusiastic in its praise; they attribute rejuvenating results to the sauna such as old-time hawkers attributed to snake oil. More convincing than this effusiveness is the fact that the Finns have been taking saunas regularly for a thousand years—and Finnish athletes win proportionately more Olympic medals than those of any other country. Finnish soldiers successfully fought off the Russians in the Winter War of 1940-41, with makeshift saunas at the fronts.

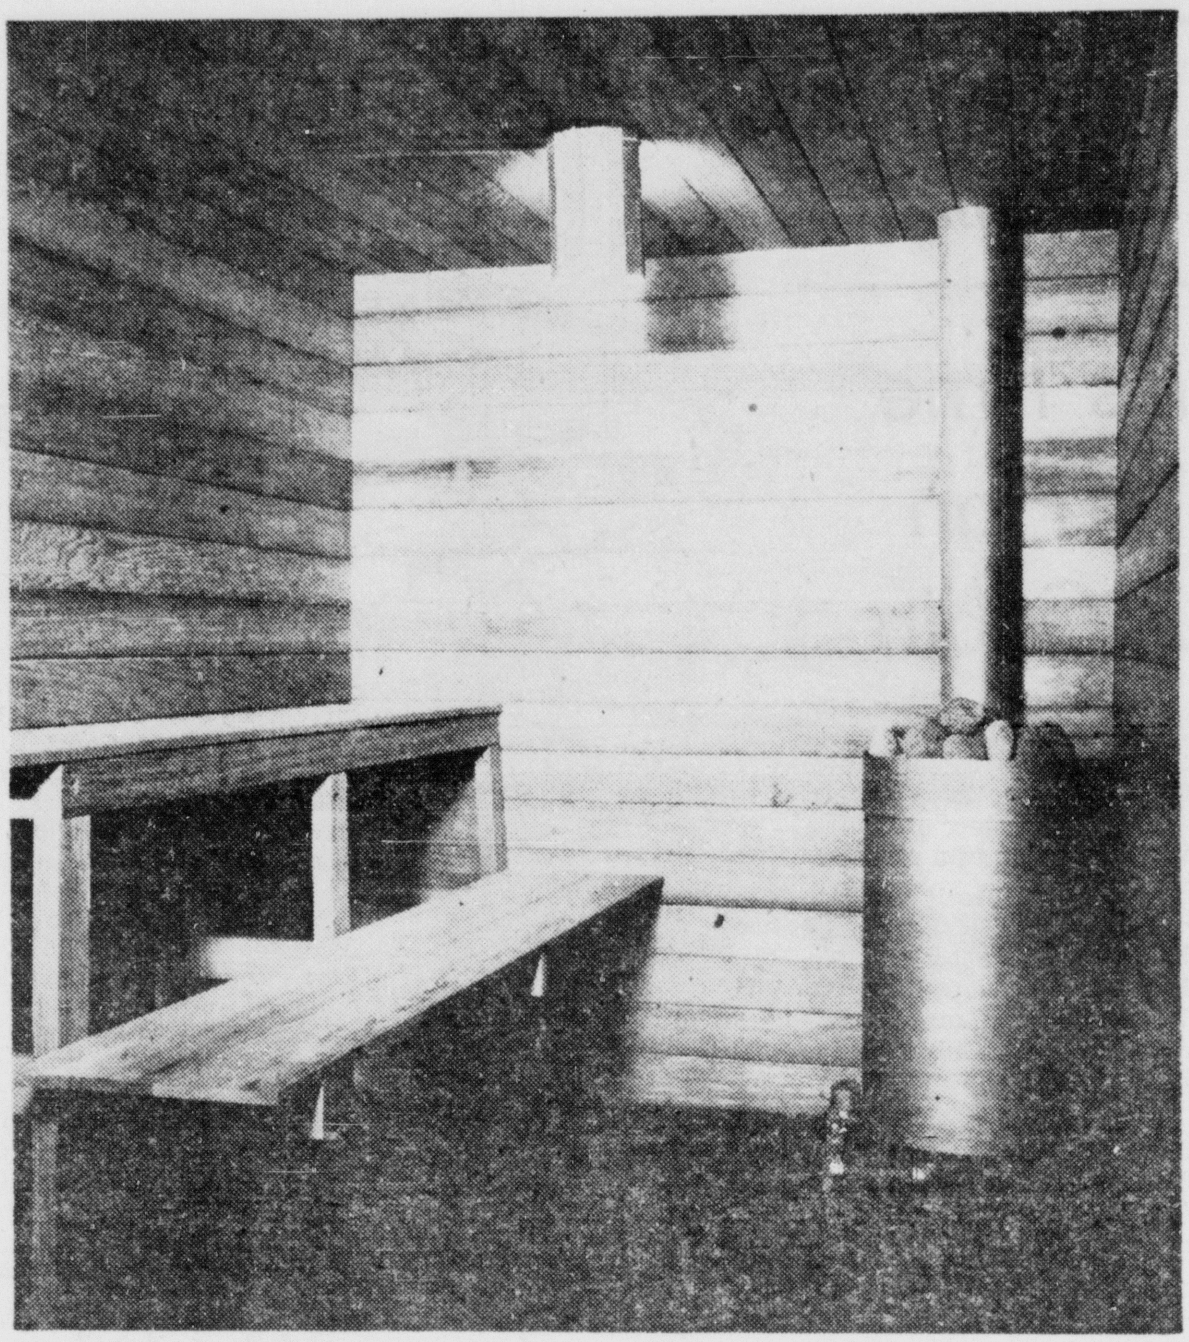
The unique conditions under which a sauna is used call for building materials with unique properties. Strangely enough, in this age of constant technical development and amazing new building materials, only the very oldest—wood—is suitable for the lining of a sauna. And the wood must be left in its natural state—it is not even painted. A painted surface, like most masonry, tile, or metal surfaces, gets too hot to touch when the air temperature of the sauna approaches 200 degrees during the bath. Even china cups, and metal clocks or timers, are often covered with a cloth sleeve so they can be handled without burning fingers.

In Finland, saunas are built of aspen, and some American sauna builders import aspen for their heat chambers. Most builders, however, prefer to specify California redwood. Redwood stands up best under the rigorous conditions of the sauna bath. It is the equal of aspen in physical qualities needed, and is beautiful in the unpainted state required by sauna conditions.

Because of the growing interest in saunas, the California Redwood Assn. has prepared a data sheet telling how to specify and use lumber for building saunas. It is available free from Dept. PS-1, California Redwood Assn., 576 Sacramento So., San Francisco 11, Calif.

REDWOOD diffuses heat so that the walls, benches, and floors of a redwood sauna do not get too hot to touch. But it does not permit the heat to escape; its insulating qualities help keep gas or electricity bills down (although thick insulation is required within the walls, of course). Redwood paneling expands and contracts less than many other woods, also, providing tight joints and giving even further protection against heat loss. When steam is used in the sauna, or a shower is installed in the heat chamber, the natural durability of redwood heartwood protects against decay under alternate wet and dry conditions.

Building a sauna can be a do-it-yourself project for those handy with tools. The baths can be built in a separate structure beside the swimming pool, in a small room, or even in a large closet. Modern gas and electric heaters have been devised with all the benefits and none of the bother of the ancient Finnish wood-burning furnaces. Some sauna heater manufacturers say you can install a sauna for less than $1,000, plus the cost of the heater.



THE MODERN SAUNA combines both tradition and the technology of today. Unpainted wood is still specified, as it has been for a thousand years, for the walls, ceiling and floors of a sauna heat bath. Redwood, above, is both practical and attractive. Modern technology steps in, however, as gas and electric heaters replace the bulky, bothersome wood furnaces of the old Finnish saunas.

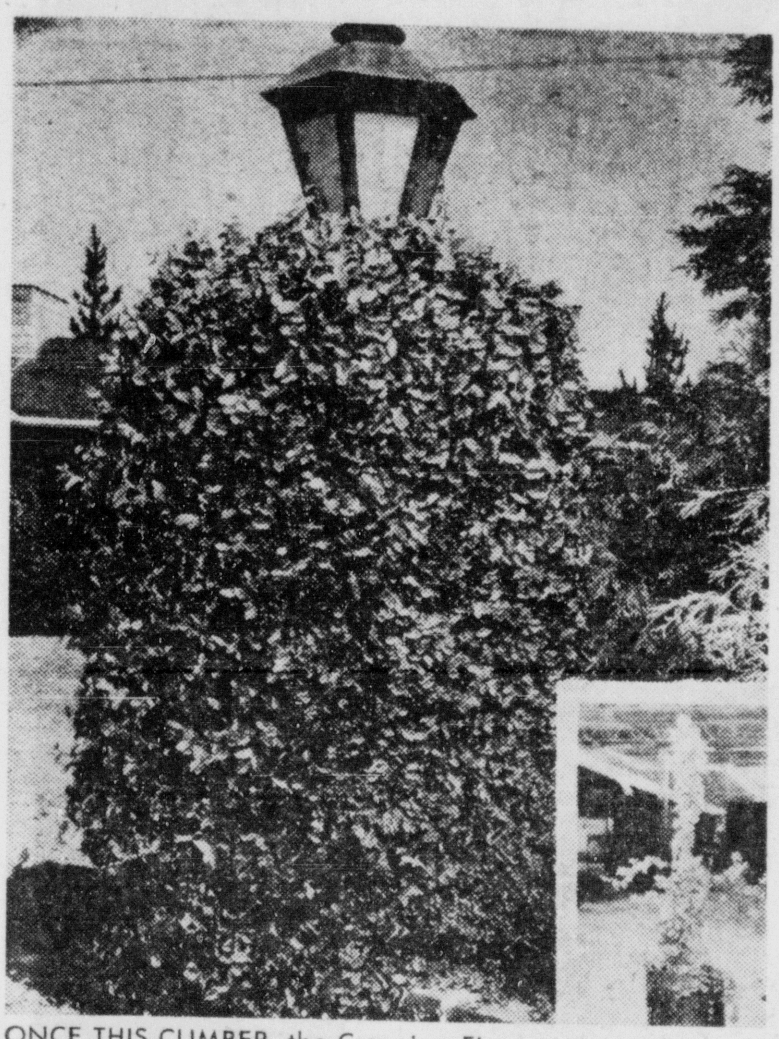
Planning For Privacy Depends Upon Both Fencing And Plants



ONCE THIS CLIMBER, the Creeping Fig, gets started, it will cling tenaciously to masonry or wood. It makes a handsome covering that stands considerable shade, and supports itself by aerial roots. As soon as support has been established, growth becomes more vigorous, and larger leaves and the bushy characteristics become more evident. The inset photo tells you what the Creeping Fig will look like at your nursery. (California Assn. of Nurserymen photo)

Planting for privacy has always been a factor in landscape design in Marin but never a more important one than it is today. The properly screened backyard provides us space for outdoor living and shelters us from the encroachments of civilization, allowing for maximum privacy and relaxation.

How best to provide this privacy depends on the size of your plot of ground. If it's no bigger than many modern-day lots, you will probably need a combination of fencing and plant material. If you have plenty of elbow room, plant material alone will do.

Fencing alone will never do, however. For physical and aesthetic reasons, a bare fence is unsatisfactory—physically because it can seldom reach high enough to hide the view from next door, aesthetically because of its unnatural and stark lines. In both cases, the addition of shrubs and trees will be needed.

In considering the height of a screen, several factors are involved. On level land in a neighborhood of single-story dwellings, a six-foot height provides adequate protection. If your neighborhood is one of two-story homes, or if you live on a hill, considerably more height may be necessary.

For tall screens, you will have a variety of plants to choose from. The English Laurel with its bold, glossy foliage is one of the very best. Victorian Box, with its dense, deep green leaves and fragrant spring flowers is also choice, is is the Brush Cherry.

Strawberry Tree with its decorative fruits, Oleander with its bright summer bloom, Pineapple Guava and the taller Cotoneasters are also excellent.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

- Plant Tigridias, Cannas and other summer - blooming bulbs now.
- Set out field-grown clumps of Delphinium early and get as many as three separate flushes of bloom from them them this year.
- Plant grapes through this month. Get your nurseryman's recommendation as to the best varieties for your garden.
- Dormant pruning should be completed forthwith. Roses, Fuchsias, deciduous fruit trees, grapes, berries should all be pruned by now.
- Sprout Tuberous Begonias under cover in flats of leaf mold, peat moss and sand. Use about equal parts of each.
